HITLER'S NAZI DIRECTORATE SPLIT BY MODERATES, RADICALS

BERLIN, Germany, August 14.—Although the fidelity of the Nazi directorate and its unswerving devotion to Reichsfuehrer Hitler are stressed in almost every public utterance by public speakers throughout the third reich, some observers here profess to see reasons for a belief the sailing isn't always as smooth as it seems to be.

The personal ambitions of some of Hitler's lieutenants appear to play a large part in certain divergencies to which the well-disciplined German press does not allude.

Thus while no actual rifts have developed, these sources say, there exist in the Nazi regime two main currents, one that can be described as moderate, the other radical.

GOERING IN "MODERATE" CLASS

In the former classification are generally placed General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the secret police; Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank; Baron Konstantin von Neurath, minister of foreign affairs; General von Blomberg, minister of defense, and Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior.

Protagonists of the latter include Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda and public enlightenment; Walter Darre, minister of agriculture, and Dr. Robert Ley, Hitler's trade union commissioner.

All have pet projects so that from time to time one anticipates another's actions, these observers say.

EXAMPLE IN COUNT VON HELLDORF

One recent example of such action was the appointment of Count von Helldorf as chief of the Berlin police, which was attributed to Goebbels' personal predilection for the count as being a stronger anti-Semite than his predecessor.

Franz Seldte, leader of the steel helmets veterans' organization, is having his own troubles over the forcible dissolution of his organization in various parts of the reich. His personal representations to Reichsfuehrer Hitler seem not to have halted the breaking up of his followers.

Meanwhile Hitler, who has remained a popular idol, is spending most of his time at his Haus Wachenfeld retreat near Berchtesgaden.

EAST PRUSSIA HELMETS DIS-SOLVED

Dissolution of the entire east Prussian stahlhelm (steel helmet) veterans' organization was announced today by Governor Erich Koch.

The stern action against the veterans organization—Germany's equivalent to the American Legion—was taken under the February 28, 1933, law for the protection of the people and the state.

It accompanied a broadening of the Nazi three-sided "cleansing act" against Semitism "political Catholicism", and "reactionary" veterans.

A new Nazi departmental dictator, Hans Hinkel, assumed power with the specific duty of eliminating Jewish influences from art. The anti-Semitic boycott was tightened throughout the reich and renewed moves were made to isolate Jews.

PROPERTY TO BE FORFEITED

All east Prussia steel helmet units and all subdivisions were affected by the dissolution order. All property of the organization was to be confiscated.

Koch's order quoted a steel helmet as saying Seldte was "a traitor" and that he once ordered mourning crepe removed from flags during anti-Versailles demonstration contrary to the orders of East Prussian steel helmet leaders.

NO JEWS IN OLYMPICS

It was learned today that no Jews will represent Germany in the 1936 Olympics because of what the Jews call discrimination against them by Nazi sports leaders and what the Nazis call the incompetence of Jewish athletes.

A Nazi official, referring to elimination contests, said: "Of course, Jews competed in the first test, but none survived".

The Jews were said to be considering the complete dissolution of the Jewish Sports Club, their leading athletic organization with a membership of 800 athletes.

letic organization with a membership of 800 athletes.

David Ross, Columbia's poet-announcer will broadcast a special reading of "Poet's Gold", with background music by Victor Bey's Orchestra, in answer to the many requests of his air audience, over the WABC-Columbia network tonight from 10:45 to 11:00 P. M. A. S. T. From the start Ross's exceptional talents were recognized by critics and listeners and he was awarded the Diction Medal by the American Academy of Arts and Letters. He has done much toward popularizing poetry readings over the air with this program and through his anthology of the same title which is now in its third edition.
