Word received from Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scott who with R. W. McLellan have been travelling to California via the Panama Canal states that they were expecting to arrive at San Diego on the 24th, reaching San Pedro on the 25th where they dock, San Pedro being the port of Los Angeles. Mrs. Scott intended disembarking and proceeding to Los Angeles some twenty miles away. Mr. Scott planned on continuing his journey by boat to Vancouver later returning by train to Los Angeles. The party found the trip most enjoyable and the weather not too warm. The several days on the boat were devoted to various entertainments, such as dancing Bridge and concerts. At a Bridge tournament Mrs. Scott was the winner of first prize and at the concert the Fredericton party were honoured with reserved seats with the captain of the boat. The party were in excellent health throughout the trip having been able to enjoy all their meals. They are planning on making the return trip again by the Panama Canal. Incidentally, it might be of interest to note that the two big features which make possible this enjoyable trip to Los Angeles by boat is the result of two great engineering feats, the creating of the Panama canal, and the creating of a harbor for Los Angeles, San Pedro being about twenty miles from Los Angeles.

A Men's Brotherhood was organized last evening when the two senior men's classes of the Marysville United Baptist church met in the church hall for a social evening. The program included a piano solo by Guy Pond; two vocal solos by Richard Delong; an address on "What the Sunday School Means to Me," by Jesse Stafford and a paper on "The Luxury of Laughter," by Rev. W. Steadman Smith. The program committee was authorized to recommend plans for future work. A cafeteria luncheon managed by the men themselves was a novel feature of the evening.

Those who served were the Misses Florence Bailey, Jessie Harvey, Marion Sterling, Anne McGill, Queenie Bailey, and Leota Grant. Miss Lella Till and Mrs. Roy Taylor assisted generally, while Miss Ada Perley and Miss Betty Perley furnished music during the tea hour.

Court 778, Fredericton, Canadian Order of Foresters held their regular meeting last night in Orange Hall. The new officers installed were J.P.C. R., F. S. Lister; C. R., D. C. Hersey; V.C.R., Eldon Hagerman; Chaplain, George Bolden; Rec. Sec'y, Ralph Gibbs; Fin. Sec'y, H. A. Burt; Treas., M. E. Hagerman; S.W., Roy Lovely; J.W., Aubrey Segee; S.B., A. Hill; J. B., Frank Welsh; Auditors, Wm. Burns and Henry Miles. Frank VanStone acted as installing officer assisted by Jack Chase as conductor. Three new members were initiated.

Following the official business the members and several guests enjoyed a splendid banquet in the up-to-date dining room of the Waverly Hotel. At about 10 p.m. the doors of this fine dining room were thrown open and the best of food and service was tendered.

F. S. Lister, who acted as toastmaster, then called upon W. M. Burns to address the meeting and that eminent gentleman delivered a most interesting address on the subject of "Life Insurance." Geo. Bolden, was heartily applauded for his rendition of a solo and was called back several times for encores. He was accompanied at the piano by J. O. Manchip, organist of the Parish church.

Arthur Jewett was called upon to give one of his popular recitations and was applauded lustily for his fine rendition of one of his most humorous ones.

Dr. Allan Sterling addressed the gathering on "How to Keep Physically Fit."

J. A. Vincent, organizer for the Order then addressed the men on the policies and purposes of the order. His address was followed by speeches from two members of Marysville Court No. 779, H. H. Stevenson, and H. A. Pickard.

Frank VanStone brought a very enjoyable evening to a close by his rendition of several fine readings and recitations.

Beauty Parlor Operator Gagged and Bound

(Continued from Page One) seclusion waged on Trendley's qualifications, he was qualified by Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard. Tomorrow he will make his comparisons of the ransom notes and the Hauptmann handwriting.

Louis Kiss, the batik artist, a thin, worn chip of a man, testified he was in Fredericksen's bakery, the Bronx, on the night of March 1, 1932, and saw Hauptmann enter with a police dog. He remembered the date so well, he said, because he took his son to Bellevue Hospital "exactly one week before the Lindbergh kidnapping."

Will Dispute Date

The state, however, will produce hospital records to show the boy was taken to the hospital on February, 22, eight days and not a week before the baby was abducted and slain.

August van Henke, dark and unmoved by the cross-examination of Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, swore he met Hauptmann in a Bronx street near the Fredericksen bakery on the night of March 1 and thought the German carpenter had a police dog which he himself had lost.

Van Henke's testimony was attacked by Wilentz, who elicited the fact that the restaurant Van Henke operated was raided at least twice as a speakeasy, that Van Henke used three different names, and that a race track "bookie" had sometimes used the restaurant as a headquarters.

Harding was next. There was no noticeable doubt in the Trenton laborer's voice as he swore to the men, the car, and the ladder, which he told Edward J. Reilly, chief defence counsel, looked "something like" the kidnapping ladder.

Wilentz pounced on him with vigor, drew from Harding that he had a criminal record, had served once in a reformatory and twice in a workhouse and made him admit he couldn't describe the ladder "exactly."

Old Times Recalled*W. T. WHITEHEAD

Mr. Whitehead was a prominent citizen of Fredericton who was Mayor of the city in 1898. He took an active part in civic politics in the days when there was a stir in Aldermanic circles.

Mr. Whitehead was also for several sessions a member of the provincial legislature. He was a Liberal in politics and was personally popular with people on both sides of the House of Assembly. He flourished in the days when Hon. A. G. Blair, Hon. Sen-

Spent $25,000 Annually
In New Brunswick

(Continued from page eight) reads something like a fairy tale. For many years, in fact, most of the time that the late Mr. Pratt had come to this province, Robinson had been a close and faithful associate and the bequest has been a token of appreciation by the deceased.

While George D. Pratt had often stopped over at Fredericton en route to his Miramichi camps, his headquarters was always at Newcastle where, it is reported the sumptuous camps at Holmes Lake were worth somewhere in the vicinity of a quarter million dollars. On one occasion his earlier visits to this province, the late Mr. Pratt had gone on sporting excursions with his friend, the late Henry Braithwaite. It is reported that he had spent annually $25,000 in New Brunswick. Being a philanthropic person he had often given to the poor of this province especially to North Shore residents.

ator F. P. Thompson and other leading Liberals controlled the political affairs of York County.

To Mr. Whitehead is due the credit of putting the sewerage system as we have it through the Legislature. There was considerable opposition to the city being allowed to empty the sewerage into the St. John river. This opposition came both from the provincial board of health and from the Government of the day and was stirred up principally by the residents of Sunbury County who were under the impression that our sewerage would pollute their wells. Mr. Whitehead figured out that if the citizens of Fredericton could not use the river as an outlet for the sewerage that its installation would be prohibitive as we could not afford to erect septic tanks at the cost of over one hundred thousand dollars. He took the matter up in the Legislature and personally fought the bill through the house. Much of his success in getting the sewerage bill passed was no doubt due to his strong personal popularity with members on both sides of the House.

He was also instrumental in having Fredericton made a United States vice-Consular agency as it had been for years. He was assisted in this by his friend Senator Proctor of Vermont who was a frequent visitor to Fredericton. Senator Proctor and Mr. Whitehead went to Washington and had a personal interview with the then president "Teddy" Roosevelt.

He took quite an interest in sports and was one of the founders of the Tobique Salmon Club.
