PREMIER HEPBURN

Premier Hepburn, of Ontario made his initial appearance on a New Brunswick platform this afternoon to a capacity audience which gave him a warm welcome and an enthusiastic hearing. One of the good things which has come out of the present election is just this, that the people of the different provinces have been enabled to see and hear at least some of the premiers of the other provinces. This interchange can hardly result in anything but good.

The striking feature of Mr. Hepburn's visit is this, that for the first time in history the premier of Ontario came to this province with the express purpose of campaigning against high tariffs in the interests of the consumers of New Brunswick and Ontario alike. From central Canada where so much of the power of Canada is concentrated, the home of special privilege, comes the Prime Minister throwing the whole weight of his influence against the crushing monopoly of the tariff in the interests of both Ontario and ourselves.

This is an extremely significant fact. It speaks with resounding hope to a province crushed between the tariff millstones. Even Ontario is finding out that the tariff is no more a friend to the farmer, the lumberman, the wage earner, the fisherman, the primary producer and the whole body of consumers in Ontario than it is in any other part of Canada; that its primary purpose is to enrich the few at the expense of the many; and that the hour has struck when the whole body of the people should unite to break the shackles.

In light of the words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier are almost prophetic when he said the pitiful thing about the defeat of reciprocity in 1911 was that another opportunity might not come again for twenty-five years. Twenty-four of the twenty-five years have elapsed, an administration now sits at Washington at last which wants to trade with us. The opportunity is here. The people have now the chance to break the bonds and from the very citadel of privilege comes help from the first Minister of the province. It now rests with the people to elect supporters of Mr. Mackenzie King in such numbers as to give him a strong working majority over all other groups combined.

The opportunity of a generation has come. A strong clear mandate is all that is needed to reverse the current set in motion in 1879 and give Mr. King the power to act.

Join in the procession that is going to take place by sending W. G. Clark to Ottawa on October 14th.

THE PROPHET OF DOOM

Premier Bennett with the trade of Canada cut in two, with a succession of deficits year after year, and with more than $600 millions added to the public debt, on Monday night spoke to the people of the Dominion and with all the assurance of infallibility declared that if Mr. Mackenzie King was returned to power, Canada would be brought to the verge of ruin, and after a serious study he had made, declared that Mr. King would close the doors of sixty per cent of the industries of Canada.

Mr. Bennett is a forceful speaker, a trained advocate, with many years experience in making the worse appear the better reason. But when words refuse to consort with facts, the most mellifluous orator falls flat. Even his words will not convince Canada that he has made the country blossom like the rose. As Sir Wilfrid Laurier said, if the people are prosperous they don't need to be told it, they can feel the jingle in their pocket. And when Mr. Bennett says, with that emphatic assurance of which he is so much the master, that a study he has made shows that Mr. King will ruin 60 per cent of the industries of Canada, with all due deference we say that the Prime Minister is talking through his hat and treats the intelligence of the people with contempt.

The Halifax Chronicle says: Mr.

King was in office for nine years. Did he destroy the industries of Canada? Did he wreck and blast and ruin? In 1926 when the motor car makers came from Oshawa and told Mr. King and his Finance Minister that if he lowered the tariff duties on motor cars, he would ruin their industries and close down their factories, they were talking exactly the same nonsense that Mr. Bennett is talking now.

Mr. King did lower the duty. Mr. King did make motor cars a hundred or two hundred dollars cheaper, depending on the value of the car. Were the industries wrecked, were the factories ruined, were the workmen thrown on the street? Not a bit of it. The factories were never so busy as they then became.

The people bought more cars than ever before. The chimneys smoked as they had not smoked. The number of employed grew and instead of ruin and desolation there was work and wages and good cheer.

It was Mr. Bennett who brought despair. Mr. Bennett who promised work for everybody, and now blames his failure on world conditions which from his own mouth he told them, had no business in Canada at all. Out of the same spring can not proceed both salt water and sweet. The Premier had better try sticking to facts. It would be a wholesome change.

SNAPSHOTS

When the fight gets desperate the big guns are brought into action. Premier Bennett will be here on October 3.

A local Chinese laundry sign reads: "I will come back soon. Leave shiftie die on top of the door. When I am home I will be satisfy to have you pass away inside my shop".

York Mills is a great place for political meetings. The Conservatives had four in the audience, the Liberals had six and Reconstructionists had nine. At another polling place the Reconstructionists had two of an audience and at still another place in York County the audience was a man named Horne, who evidently "horned in" on the speakers. These are like the "large and respectable meeting", which Big George Perley and Alby Grass held at Maugerville when only the two were present. Perley was large and Grass respectable.

God created the natural wealth of the earth for the use of all men. Not for the few millionaires, who control Canada's wealth.

When some men live without working other men are working without living.

The existence of luxury in the presence of poverty and destitution is contrary to good morals and sound public policy.

The present depression is one of abundance, not of scarcity.

The cause of the trouble is that a small class has the wealth, while the rest have the debts.

It is contrary to common sense that men should starve because they have raised too much food.

The destruction of food or other wealth, or the limitation of production is economic insanity.

The remedy is to give the workers access to the means of production, and let them produce for themselves, not for others.

This change can be brought about by action of a majority of the people, and that is the Canadian way. MacKenzie King has the remedy.

Some people are never satisfied no matter how much you do for them. If they get a hand out for nothing they do not appreciate it. They want something bigger still. There is the story of the bantam rooster which went to visit his neighbors, the ostriches. He was so amazed by the size of their eggs that he hauled one home where he made a speech to the hens saying: I do not wish to criticize your past efforts. But may I call your attention to results obtained in other sections?

When men go hunting in an open field they are not always sure what is going to spring out nearby cellars.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING
A meeting in the interests of the Conservative party in York County was held last night at Morehouse Corner where a large and attentive audience heard addresses by Dr. M. L. Jewett, Millville and C. L. Dougherty, Fredericton.

Liberals Meet at F'ton Junction

did. They paid the highest wages. "There is nothing," said Mr. Woodman, "that I would like to see better than the payment of higher wages to railroad employees." The speaker said that to do this, we must get business. To get business, we must get trade. The Liberal party is the best for the average man; unless it should be that we want to help the man in Oshawa, the automobile man.

Meetings were also held at Millville, McGivney and Hammondville. The speakers at Millville were W. G. Clark, Liberal candidate, Stewart Durling, M. P. P. and P. J. Hughes at McGivney the speakers were H. Ralph Gunter, M. P. P., A. W. Coombes, and Byron Fisher and at Hammondville the speakers were E. W. Stairs, M. P. P., Donald C. Duffie and Robert Rush.

Nations Might Say "No" and Stop the Movement of Troops

ter for League Affairs disclosed that he was studying closely Article XI, under which the League could take "any" action deemed necessary to safeguard peace, not only against war but against "threat of war."

The united front of member nations of the Council and yesterday's determined utterances by Mr. Eden—and others—gave rise to hope in British circles that the League could be inspired to take "any" action against the Italo-Ethiopian "threat of war" even before it had a chance to become an actual war.

For instance, they believed, collective action to block all movement of troops and weapons through the trouble zone until a peaceful settlement was reached—even if closing of the Suez Canal was necessary—might avert a conflict, if enough members states of the League showed willingness.

National pride might prevent Italy from accepting the veto of any one nation standing astride the gateway to East Africa, and crying "Halt," they pointed out, even though that nation were Great Britain.
