Royal Wedding This Morning at Buckingham Palace

Elaborate Ceremonies Cancelled on Account of Death of Royal Bride's Father.

In the presence of The King and Queen, King George of Greece, Queen Maud of Norway and the Dowager Duchess of Buccleuch an event which has been looked forward to by the nations of the world, the royal wedding of the Duke of Gloucester, third son of the King and Queen, to Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott, took place this morning at eleven-thirty o'clock at Buckingham Palace.

The wedding, which brought to a close the celebrations of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee, is likely to be the last royal marriage Britons will see in many years, unless the Prince of Wales finds a bride. He is now the only remaining bachelor or Their Majesties' four sons.

London did not see the elaborate ceremonies which had been planned for the event, originally arranged for Westminster Abbey. Because of the recent death of the bride's father, the Duke of Buccleuch, a private service was held, in the small white-gold chapel at Buckingham Palace.

Only 120 persons, mainly court officials and members of both families, were present.

The Duke repeated his full name—Henry William Frederick Albert—and Lady Alice's name—Alice Christabel—to the Archbishop of Canterbury, who performed the ceremony.

After the Lord's Prayer has been said, the Primate of the Episcopal Church of Scotland said, "Pray God bless these Thy servants."

The choir sang the hymn, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," and then the King's organist, Stanley Roper, will play the Mendelssohn Wedding March while the couple proceed to the household drawing-room. There the King and Queen, Home Secretary Sir John Simon, and Lord Halifax, the lord chancellor, signed the registry.

PUBLIC LIFE IS TOO STRENUOUS FOR HEPBURN

Will Not Change His Mind But Return to Farm Home

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—"There is no chance of my changing my mind, I simply can't carry on. I can't do justice to the party, the people or myself in my present condition. There is no need for anyone to become alarmed, but I must heed the warning signal. I am going back to the farm," were the words spoken by Premier Hepburn last night at Toronto.

Mr. Hepburn said that after the 1936 session he would "advise the Liberal Association of my intention to retire, so that my successor may be chosen. There was no indication who the successor would be.

Cause of Regret
OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—Great regret was expressed last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King at the news from Toronto that Premier Hepburn would retire next year because of ill-health. Mr. King looked upon the breakdown of the youthful Ontario premier as a further instance of a public man being driven too hard by the strain of official responsibilities.

As soon as he heard the news Mr. King telephoned Premier Hepburn to express his regrets. At the same time he congratulated Mr. Hepburn on his determination to safeguard his health.

Mr. King is a firm believer in the business of government being so conducted that no minister or prime minister is forced to carry burdens beyond his physical powers.

"A sick man," the prime minister said, "is of little value to himself or the country, and the sooner people realize that the better. We are too ready to kill our public men with overwork."

Our Public Utilities

Considering the large dividends that the stock holders of the New Brunswick Telephone Company are making out of this monopoly and the very poor service which the public are receiving in return for extravagant tolls and fees, the general opinion is that the Public Utilities Commission should hold an investigation into all the affairs connected with the organization.

Could not the public receive a better service for the money which the Company is receiving? Is it possible that there cannot be any improvement in the rural service that is being given at the present time, and about which the residents of Lincoln and other places are complaining bitterly? Perhaps the Company's engineers are right. But there should be a check up from an independent source.

Why is it not possible to give the rural phone subscribers exactly the same service which we have in town. Perhaps this will cost more money, but the Company with the exceedingly large earnings which it is making, and which it has been making all through the depression, should be in a position to make this expenditure and give efficient service to the subscribers who are paying well for what they are getting.

The Telephone Company blames the bad condition of their telephone service on the increased voltage of the N. B. Power Commission lines. Well! If this is where the trouble lies there should be some way of having this straightened out. Everyone interested is blaming the Telephone Company. If the trouble is with the Power Commission and its lines, then this should be taken up and gone into. There must be a remedy.

What the public is entitled to is service, no matter how it is arranged. These utilities are not charitable institutions. The people who are paying for service should get service. There is no other section of the country in the world that would put up with all the bluff we put up with. Those who are in control of things get away with an awful lot. What is the Public Utilities Commission for?

Heavy Rains Halt Advance On Makale

POPPY DAY APPEALS MADE TO PROVINCE

Lieut. Governor and Premier Appeal To People

His Honour, Colonel the Honourable Murray MacLaren, C. M. G., P. C., Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, and the Honourable Allison A. Dysart, K. C., M. P. P., Premier, have issued the following appeals in support of Poppy Day, sponsored throughout New Brunswick by the various Branches of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League.

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor MacLaren's appeal follows:—

"There are two days in November of each year which have a special significance in connection with the Great War and have a world wide appeal, Poppy Day and Remembrance Day.

"The anniversary of the signing of the Armistice on the eleventh day of November 1918, has been designated Remembrance Day by Act of Parliament of Canada, 1931, and is to be observed as a public holiday.

Poppy Day usually precedes by a few days Remembrance Day. On that day poppies are sold throughout Canada in the form of wreaths and single poppies. All the arrangements are carried out by and under the auspices of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League. The poppy forms a beautiful and appropriate emblem of the glorious dead. Its sale means even more. The poppies are made in the Veterans' Shops of the Department of Pensions and National Health by disabled men and where these shops are not available, by the dependent families or disabled men or of those who have given their lives, thus giving employment. The proceeds of the sales are devoted (Continued on Page Four)

Italians Fear Trap Has Been Set by the Ethi- opians.

ROME, Nov. 6.—In accordance with the belief of many expert onlookers, it now appears as if the Ethiopians have a well planned method in allowing the Italian troops to approach Makale.

Reports that the civil population had flown a white flag over Makale and that tribal troops had completely evacuated it were received with suspicion.

Italian fliers will comb the countryside for the next few days before the advance towards Makale is resumed, observers predicted.

Reports from the British Somali-land frontier said that Italian bombing planes destroyed an entire Ethiopian munition caravan and killed its 500 guards. The air squadron also was said to have wrecked every bridge on the caravan trail from British Somaliland to Harar and bombed the route in an effort to make it impassable.

The newspaper Popolo di Rome said that Ras Nasibu, Ethiopian commander in the southeast, cut off from his most important source of supplies, was preparing to abandon Harar and Jijiga.

In spite of previous reports to the contrary, information was understood to have been received here to the effect that tribesmen were planning a determined defence of Makale.

Halted by "Rains"

AT THE FRONT WITH THE ARMY, Nov. 6.—A four-pointed drive by more than 125,000 Italian soldiers upon the strategic Ethiopian city of Makale was halted today by heavy rains. A "breathing spell" of two days, however, was welcomed by the Fascist high command eager to keep its carefully-mapped plan of advance intact.

The bivouac in the mud of northern Ethiopia will allow completion of truck roads to catch up with the armies, giving a free flow of supplies, encountering little resistance except from nature, expressed confidence the Fascist banner would wave over Makale by Friday signaling success in another major step in the campaign of occupation.

FREDERICTON COUPLE ESCAPE AUTO INJURY

Mr. and Mrs. James Saunders of this city, who en route by auto to Moncton yesterday, narrowly escaped serious injury when their machine collided with a government truck driven by Allison Teed of River Glade. Damage to both machines was considerable but the occupants suffered only scratches and bruises. Mrs. Saunders arrived home today by train. She reported that neither she nor her husband were injured. REPUBLICANS DECISIVE GAINS IN NEW YORK STATE ELECTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Republican forces yesterday in the New York State election showed a trend against Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Outing eight or more Democratic incumbents, they regained control of the State Assembly by a margin of at least six seats. The Democrats had a majority of four in the last Assembly, holding control for the first time in 22 years. A Republican trend was apparent in the state's mayoralty elections.

Melvin C. Eaton, Republican State

chairman hailed the balloting as plainly marking "a trend away from the New Deal."

Such claims, however, were quickly contested by Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the New York Democratic state committee. The result, he said, "ought to be sufficient answer to the question of the continued popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt." He asserted that Republican gerrymandering had made it impossible for the Democrats to elect a majority of the Assembly except in a landslide election.

N. B. EDITOR DIES SUDDENLY AT SUSSEX

SUSSEX, Nov. 6.—One of the most prominent agricultural authorities in the Maritime provinces, M. A. MacLeod, Editor of The Maritime Farmer, died suddenly last night a few minutes after suffering a hemorrhage of the brain, the second such attack within the last nine months. He was first taken ill on Feb. 2, shortly after his return to Sussex from an agricultural convention in Halifax. He was then removed to Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, where he remained for several weeks before returning home. Mr. MacLeod had been able to see visitors for the last few months and his death will come as a great shock to relatives and wide circle of friends and acquaintances throughout Eastern Canada.

Well known in his editorial capacity, Mr. MacLeod was also prominent as a practical agriculturist, and his work in this line frequently won him well-merited praise and honors.

Mr. MacLeod was twice married. His first wife was formerly Miss Margaret Morrison, St. Peter's, Cape Breton, who passed away in 1915. His second wife, formerly Miss Marcia MacWha, St. Stephen, survives, as do his mother, Mrs. Sarah MacLeod, Loch Lomond West, C. B.; one sister Mrs. M. P. Hynes, Brighton, Mass.; and five children by his first wife.

Captain Colwell was a sea faring man all his life and sailed ships between Saint John and New England ports. During his career as a sea captain he met many people who admired him for his honest sincerity of friendliness. He was highly respected in the community where he was born and where he spent his childhood days before going to sea. About ten years ago he retired from the service of the sea and settled down in Jemseg, the spot where he had lived as a child.

USE OF GAS AS CLEANER SCORED

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—Successive fires in an unnamed garage, caused by the ignition of gasoline fumes, led the Ontario Fire Marshall's Department to issue a general warning against use of gasoline for cleaning purposes. FREEDOM OF THOUGHT AND EXPRESSION

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6.—Defence of freedom of thought and expression by university professors was voiced by Sir Robert Falconer, former president of the University of Toronto in addressing a University of Manitoba gathering here last night.

Sir Robert drew attention to the curbing of freedom of learning in universities under the Fascist and Nazi regimes. A tendency in the same direction was noticeable in Anglo-Saxon countries because many suspected universities of being lounging places for restless professors harboring subversive thoughts.

Simply because a professor did not think like the majority of men on a certain question was no reason why his opinion should be stifled. He said that many professors were "far too radical for me" but he was eager that they continue to enjoy freedom in their work.

PREMIER REJECTS JOHN W. DAFOE UNABLE TO ACCEPT WASHINGTON POST

Premier King expressed regret yesterday that Mr. Dafoe could not be secured for the Washington appointment, as Canadian Minister to the United States. He had hoped that Mr. Dafoe might go to Washington if only for a brief period while negotiations were going forward between the two countries for a reciprocal trade agreement.

Since there is now no incumbent at the Canadian Legation in Washington and the trade experts from the Dominion are now in conference with the United States government trade officials, it is possible that Dr. Skelton
