

INDIGESTION

MAY SOON BE Relieved
WHEN YOU TAKE

Burdock Blood Bitters

FOR THE STOMACH, BLOOD AND SKIN

If your stomach is sick you are sick all over; but don't say nothing can help you. It is surprising how quickly Burdock Blood Bitters will correct the most obstinate digestive troubles, and relieve gas pains and stomach distress. Normal appetite and health return. Try this well-known tonic and restorative.

H. N. COMBLEY'S DEATH DEGRETTED AT AMHERST, N. S.

After a six-week series of illnesses all arising from a badly sprained ankle, Herbert N. Combley, Mechanical Superintendent of the News Sentinel, Limited, died unexpectedly at his home on Charles Street last evening at seven o'clock. Mr. Combley was apparently on the road to recovery and earlier in the day had talked about returning to work around the latter part of the month. Later in the afternoon he had a premonition of the end, but members of his family did not take his remarks at all seriously. His own premonition proved correct as a clot in the blood stream brought about his sudden death at seven o'clock. Mr. Combley had been Superintendent at the News Office for seven and a half years, coming to Amherst from Fredericton. He is survived by his wife, and one son, Robert; also his mother, Mrs. Mary Combley, of Campbellton, a brother, Ford, of Fort Elgin and four sisters, Mrs. Hamilton Williams, St. Croix, N. B.; Mrs. William MacIntyre, Campbellton, N. B.; Mrs. Stanley Barnes, Escuminac, P. Q., and Mrs. Abram Olsen, Toronto.

A heavy blood clot in the leg, that formed after Mr. Combley had ruptured a blood vessel, when he sprained an ankle, six weeks ago proved to be the actual cause of death. During his period of convalescence he suffered from an attack of pleuro-pneumonia, but the effects of this disease had cleared up. Mr. Combley sprained his ankle six weeks ago, after he had been working overtime at the News Office. Hurrying to his home to get his supper and to be in time for the Wolverines-Ramblers hockey match, he slipped on an icy path across the campus of Spring Street Academy.

While the sprain was not taken seriously for the first few hours, the ruptured blood vessel caused phlebitis, and ultimately his death. Several days ago when pleuro-pneumonia had set in his condition became rather serious and his mother, a trained nurse, was summoned from Campbellton. She was with him at the end. He was 36 years of age.

Regarded as one of the most efficient and artistic printers in the Maritime Provinces, Mr. Combley was known to the "trade" throughout Eastern Canada. He also had many acquaintances in Toronto where he had worked for two years at one of the largest printing establishments in Canada. He learned the printing trade in Campbellton at the plant of "The Campbellton Graphic". Later he went to Toronto and then returned to Fredericton, where he took charge of the job printing plant of the Fredericton Daily Mail.

Over seven years ago he came to Amherst and in that period became well known in the town. He was a loyal baseball fan and a sound sportsman. He seldom missed a baseball game, as his home was directly opposite the Academy Grounds. He was also a keen supporter of hockey.

Of reserved disposition Mr. Combley nevertheless possessed a quiet sense of humor, and delighted in meeting the patrons of the job printing plant at the News Sentinel, Ltd. He was a most efficient workman, a positive genius in a mechanical way and took an extreme pride in his own thorough-going workmanship and was likewise proud of the accomplishments of others.

In presses, inks and paper stocks, Mr. Combley placed the same enthusiasm as an artist with brushes and paints. His quiet geniality made him a general favorite with the other members of the News staff, and his passing has caused general sorrow among his fellow employees.

The sympathy of the News Staff as well as scores of friends and ac-

SERVICES AT THE CHURCHES ON SABBATH

The churches in this city and vicinity were well attended on Sunday and the sermons of wide variety and interest.

At Brunswick Street Baptist church the minister, Rev. G. W. Guioi took as his theme for the day's addresses "Renewal of the Individual." The usual Brotherhood class took place at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, being well-attended.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian church two interesting sermons were delivered by the pastor, Rev. Dr. G. E. Ross. In the morning he spoke on "The Spiritual Renewal of the Individual," and in the evening the sixth of a series of addresses on Practical Christianity, namely, "Citizenship and Politics."

Rev. J. W. Bartlett, minister of Wilmet United church, delivered addresses on "Renewal and the Individual" in the morning, and in the evening a picture sermon entitled "Christ Before Pilate." Each member of the congregation was handed a copy of the great painting by Munsie with which he followed the discussion of the speaker on the message of this painting.

The sermon subjects at St. Paul's United church were "The Renewal of the Individual" and "Paying One's Way." Rev. George Telford, M.A., B.D., the pastor, spoke at both services.

At the Devon Baptist church worship at 11 a.m. was featured by the address "The Spirit in the Renewal of the Individual," delivered by Rev. D. L. Kennedy, and in the evening the address subject was "Four Foundations of Faith."

The Gibson Memorial United Church services at Nashwaaksis, Kingsley and South Devon, were presided over by Rev. W. A. Burge, the minister. A feature of the day was the sermon "The Second Word from the Cross." There was special singing by the choir.

A BRIGHT SPIRIT PASSES ON

Armand Lavergne was a bright spirit, and, like most bright spirits, his was a colorful and devious way.

Beginning as a Liberal, he became a Nationalist and ultimately a Conservative with flashes of independence.

He was not a restful member of any party to which he belonged.

There was a flame in his bosom that could not be regimented.

He was always captain of his soul. He did not, like Mr. Bourassa, once his pride, philosopher and friend steady down to moderate opinions with good grace as his years advanced.

He was temperamentally insurgent and was visited by frequent glimpses of noon at eventide.

Armand Lavergne died at the age of fifty-five but his mind and heart semper viridens, did not outlive his flaming youth.

To his last conscious moment he took an eager interest in the events of the day and conversed cheerfully with his friends on all subjects.

His sufferings, which were acute, he bore with the blithe courage that was part of his nature.—Standard.

SARNIA, Ont., March 20—Similar in size to a one-cent piece, a coin owned by Bruce Armstrong, is believed by collectors to be over 1,800 years old.

quaintances are extended to his mother, his wife and young son, and to other members of the family.—Amherst News.

Resident of Deep Cove, Grand Manan, Writes Of Conditions

Dear Sirs:

If I am permitted a small space in your paper, it might be interesting to some of our readers, to learn about a seemingly small village, here at the southern end of our Grand Manan is known as "Deep Cove."

Tourists from all over the continent have had the pleasure of visiting and camping on its shores. It is especially noted for its very picturesque and spacious strand of sand reaching far out at low water, affording a great booth for bathers and picnickers. It is by far the prettiest part of the Island. Pictures have been painted of its shores, time without number. Fishing and farming are its chief industry.

A valiant group of settlers comprise its population, mostly of Loyalist descent, deserving great credit for all that has been accomplished. Two much needed and great advantages that this place needs are: Rural mail and a Breakwater. The latter for the benefit of the fishermen, providing harbor and shelter for their boats which otherwise have to be taken three or four miles away from their native moorings in time of storm and rough seas, making it such a disadvantage.

Both former and latter are promptly considered (so it seems) directly before Election. A representative is promptly sent to stake off site of Breakwater.

Another postal official makes very sympathetic inquiries as to just what mail service would be acceptable. So called genuine promises are given of both. Inspired hopes beat high all to go in chaos after "The Big Election Day."

The citizens of Deep Cove are about to look at this situation in altogether a different attitude.

If we are worthy of being baited for the polls, we surely deserve the promised fruits. We blow our trumpet blast, and let it reverberate again and again.

We want no more election gags. What prospects are there for the coming generation?

A whisper comes to us: If Deep Cove gains those advantages she will take trade away for a breakwater planted there would afford a most popular shelter for ships for the whole island.

She would be altogether too progressive. It has been uttered: Deep Cove shall not have these advantages and so accordingly we lay in the background. There is a reason for all this. What is it?

We appeal, through these columns to the leaders of our fair province for justice and lawful rights of which we feel are fully deserved.

Thanking you for space permitted I am Yours, very respectfully,

ALMA R. RUSSELL,
Deep Cove, Grand Manan, N. B.
March 20, 1935.

M. P. WHO HAS HERRINGS FOR DINNER

LONDON, England, March 23—If there is anything in the theory that people who eat fish are clever people there must be a number of clever people in the House of Commons.

At least that is the impression you get from a debate about the herring industry.

Sir Arthur Michael Samuel, a Conservative M. P., who used to be Financial Secretary to the Treasury, said that herring, weight for weight, contained as much sustenance for a strong man as a rump steak.

"I had two for my dinner last night," he added with a satisfied air.

Threepence or fourpence was not too much to pay for a good herring.

REGINA, Sask., March 23—Archdeacon E. H. Knowles, newly elected Bishop of Qu'Appelle, will be consecrated in Regina, probably on June 24, the 1st anniversary of the consecration in London, England, of Bishop Anson, first Bishop of Qu'Appelle.

Archdeacon Knowles, elected on a first ballot at the Anglican Synod yesterday, accepted office later in the day when the sessions re-conven-

HOME MERCHANTS

Home owned stores that The Daily Mail would like to see patronized.

AMUSEMENTS:

Gaiety Theatre.
Capitol Theatre.
Capital Billiard Parlor.

AUTOMOBILES:

Phillips & Pringle.
J. Clark & Son.
Capital Garage.

DRUGGISTS:

Kenneth Staples.

DRY GOODS:

R. L. Black.
Joseph Kileel.

ELECTRICAL WORK:

Clarence Mills.
Harry C. Moore.

FARM MACHINERY:

J. Clark & Son.

GROCERS:

Harold Yerxa, York Street.
A. E. Eardley.
A. T. Sweed.
M. M. A.

HABERDASHERS:

J. H. Fleming.

HARDWARE:

J. S. Neill & Sons, Ltd.
E. M. Young.

HOUSE FURNISHINGS:

Colwell & Jennings, Ltd.
Lemont's

HARNES MAKERS:

H. A. Burt.

HOTELS:

Waverly.
Queen.

INSURANCE:

H. H. Blair.

INVESTMENTS:

Consolidated Investments, Ltd

JEWELLERS:

Shute & Co.
Mavor Bros.

MEAT STORES:

W. C. Lee.
York Meat Market.

MEN'S GOODS & SHOES:

Joseph Kileel.

PLUMBING:

Arthur F. Betts.

PHOTOGRAPHS:

Harvey Studio.

RESTAURANTS:

Lannan's.

STATIONERY & BOOKS:

C. W. Hall.
McMurray Book & Stationery Co. Ltd.

TAILORS:

T. M. Boyd
Karl Walker.

UNDERTAKERS:

Shaw & Terry.
H. R. Adams

WOODWORK:

J. C. Risteen Co., Ltd.

THE DAILY MAIL

is on sale at the following places of business in the city—

UP-TOWN:
W. G. Quinn, 147 Westmorland St.
F. Denahoe, Smythe & Charlotte St.
Geo. A. Farris, 332 York Street.
W. A. Erb, Grocer, York St.
Alonso Staples, York Street.
J. Keetch, Grocer, Charlotte-York St.
J. E. Saunders, 199 Northumberland Street.

A. T. Sweed, Grocer, Charlotte St.
DOWN-TOWN:
Crowley's Cigar Store, Queen St.
Royal Cigar Store, Queen street.
Hawthorne's Cigar Store, Queen St.
A. E. Eardley, Grocer, St. John and Brunswick Streets.

H. C. Jewett, Cor. Charlotte & Regent.
VanWart Grocery, Cor. Charlotte and St. John Streets.

C. C. Wood, Grocer, University Ave.
O'Neill's Bakery, Regent Street.
John F. Timmins, Grocer, King St.
Devon, N. B.

Claude J. MacDonald, South Devon.
J. K. Morrison, North Devon.
and from the carrier boys in the city and in Devon and Marysville.

If you have any trouble in the delivery of your paper, please come plain to us. Ring Phone 67 and we will have your paper at your door at ONCE!

ed. He succeeds Most Rev. McAdam Harding, recently appointed Archbishop of Rupertland.

Of Interest to Women CAN SPOIL HAPPINESS WITH MENU MONOTONY

(By Katharine Baker)

Dusting, cooking, sewing, meal planning—all homekeeping tasks tend to get monotonous every now and then and that boredom brings on nagging and then ugly quarrels. So the best way to overcome the whole situation that spoils domestic happiness is to make the household job more interesting, to bring new ideas, new methods to it.

About this time of year, the family begins to get fussy about its food. They even find fault with simple things like the breakfast sweet. "Prunes or marmalade? Aw, heck!" sneers young Bobbie for the fifth time this week. He's right, too, for the jam and jellies made last summer are almost finished, but it isn't necessary to "skimp" on the family. New and delicious jellies can be made from the syrup of canned fruits, and the finest jams from dried fruits, or combinations of the cheaper fruits on the market now.

Boys are particularly fond of the new banana-cranberry jam that can be made up in just a few minutes. Either with toast, muffins, or used as a garnish for puddings, its well worth fifteen minutes in the kitchen.

3 cups (1 1-2 lbs.) prepared cranberries

7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar

2 cups (1 lb.) banana pulp

Half cup bottled fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, add 1 1-2 cups of water to one quart, full of ripe cranberries, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer ten minutes. Crush about six fully ripe bananas to a fine pulp.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in pectin. Sbm; hours, but more work that is the real blessing.

In giving Canada the eight-hour day which with the Saturday half holiday amounts to the forty-hour week, the Senate goes as far as it can along the line of easing labor, and at the same time giving it enough to do so as to make sleep sweet and one's meals enjoyable.

Anything less the Senate knows from bitter experience leads to insomnia, loss of appetite, indigestions and worse ailments.

If the Senate will follow up its eight-hour day with another Act of Parliament which will provide the million out-o'-works with gainful employment for so much as an hour in the eight a day, it will help to fix things up until everybody goes on full pay again.

The Senate may have heard arguments that work relief costs fifty per cent more than direct relief, but, feeling as it does in regard to lack of labor, it will not allow that to stand in the way of making people happy by giving them plenty to do, at no matter what cost.

The Senate, being religiously inclined, insists on a day of rest which is to be known as the Sabbath.

We have had it for quite a time now.

Some people use it to go to church, others to play golf, others to take the family out for a spin in the car.

There are fifty-two such days of rest in the year.

For the million out-o'-works there are three hundred and thirteen added days of rest, making a total of three hundred and sixty-five in a year but, of course, they are not called Sunday.

While the Senate has not made itself quite clear on this point, it would probably explain that it has no intention of increasing the number of Sundays for mankind, because when every day is "Sunday bye-and-bye" it will merely serve to widen the scope of unemployment and make most people as unhappy as the Senate.

Subscribe to The Daily Mail and get the full radio programme daily.

Daily Mail advertisements bring results.

The Senate has short hours and it does not like them.

When the Senate is in session it works six hours a day—if it holds night sittings—five days a week and one week a month.

A slight effort of mental arithmetic will show that this figures out as a seven hour and a half week, an ideal which not even the most ferocious friend of the workman has ventured to suggest.

And yet the Senate is not happy. It girds, it chides.

It says for Heaven's sake give us more to do.

Its distress at so much involuntary inaction is a stern lesson to those who imagine that they would be happy with a thirty-hour week.

If the Senate can't be happy on a seven and a half hour week, what chance has the trades and labor unions to be happy on a thirty-hour week ration.

If they listen to the moans of anguish arising from the Senate they will understand that it is not shorter pour quickly. Paraffin and cover at once. Makes 12 six ounce jars.

The rich syrup on the higher grade canned fruits makes delicious jellies. Instead of throwing away pineapple or peach juices, make them up into jellies by following this recipe:

2 cups (1 lb.) syrup.

4 cups (1 3-4 lbs.) sugar

Half cup bottled fruit pectin.

Drain syrup from canned fruit.

Juice of 1 lemon may be added to measured syrup, if it lacks flavor or tartness.

Measure sugar and syrup into large saucepan. Mix and bring to a boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. As soon as mixture boils, add pectin, stirring constantly, and bring to a full rolling boil. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin and cover at once. Makes about 6 six ounce jars.

HOUSEHOLD USES FOR SALT

Salt is to be found in every kitchen and its uses are legion. When dyeing fabrics of any kind a little salt in the dye-bath will give increased dye absorption in the fabric and consequently give deeper shades. The converse is also true; a little salt in the wash water on wash days will prevent the dye running from colored fabrics.

To overcome that tired feeling after a hard day's housework try a salt rub. Moisten a handful of salt and rub the body thoroughly. The treatment will be found to be a refreshing tonic. By mixing two and a quarter pounds of salt per gallon in warm water you have a brine bath that is of assistance in ridding one of rheumatism, gout and lumbago. Six to twelve brine baths on successive days brings relief.

hours, but more work that is the real blessing.

In giving Canada the eight-hour day which with the Saturday half holiday amounts to the forty-hour week, the Senate goes as far as it can along the line of easing labor, and at the same time giving it enough to do so as to make sleep sweet and one's meals enjoyable.

Anything less the Senate knows from bitter experience leads to insomnia, loss of appetite, indigestions and worse ailments.

If the Senate will follow up its eight-hour day with another Act of Parliament which will provide the million out-o'-works with gainful employment for so much as an hour in the eight a day, it will help to fix things up until everybody goes on full pay again.

The Senate may have heard arguments that work relief costs fifty per cent more than direct relief, but, feeling as it does in regard to lack of labor, it will not allow that to stand in the way of making people happy by giving them plenty to do, at no matter what cost.

The Senate, being religiously inclined, insists on a day of rest which is to be known as the Sabbath.

We have had it for quite a time now.

Some people use it to go to church, others to play golf, others to take the family out for a spin in the car.

There are fifty-two such days of rest in the year.

For the million out-o'-works there are three hundred and thirteen added days of rest, making a total of three hundred and sixty-five in a year but, of course, they are not called Sunday.

While the Senate has not made itself quite clear on this point, it would probably explain that it has no intention of increasing the number of Sundays for mankind, because when every day is "Sunday bye-and-bye" it will merely serve to widen the scope of unemployment and make most people as unhappy as the Senate.

Subscribe to The Daily Mail and get the full radio programme daily.

Daily Mail advertisements bring results.