CANADIANATHANK YOU!

To thank my friends, in simple rhyme Who at this happy time Brought flowers, from their gardens gay To cheer me with their glad array.

First! Golden daffies did appear And modest violets, oh so dear. Then fairest lily of the vale Ringing your little bells so frail.

Then shasta daisy, you are a beauty. But you must rhyme and do your duty. And flowering currant very sweet, But rhyming fragrance, would I greet To make this floral round complete.

The roses, pink, crimson, yellow, white. And peonies—the white, a snowy drift for our delight.

But snapdragon, with your beauteous spray I cannot pass you, on my way. Delphinium too, of heavenly blue You mingle well with poppy hue. Spirea waving in the light The pink so plummy and so bright.

Clove, pinks, sweet peas, Sweet William, and phlox, Ferns, bachelor buttons, and lilies, And these with gypsophila, bind up the jar That carries the sweet breath afar.

And grandmother's garden though a bit out of date Is none the less attractive for being sedate.

And marigolds with their golden glow Rival the cosmos swaying so.

Our little neighbor, from over the way, Will end this ditty with a mixed bouquet.

For reading, sent to improve my mind Sent in by friends so very kind. Delicacies, fruit, and spicy ale the taste to suit,

And joss sticks, burning incense rare, Breathe their perfume in the air.

—ISABEL R. EVERETT
The above lines were written by the author a few weeks before her passing, in gratitude to thoughtful friends.
