Special Easter Music, Appropriate Sermons Feature Easter Services

Despite the threatening rain clouds on Easter Sunday morning the churches in the city and vicinity were Easter garbed citizens. The churches were decorated with many beautiful Easter flowers, which blended perfectly with the sweet strains of special Easter music rendered by the choirs. This was the appropriate background to the beautiful story which the various clergymen related to their respective congregations.

At the United Baptist church, Marysville, Rev. W. Steadman Smith delivered a most impressive sermon at the morning service. His theme was "The Son of God with Power." In the evening the Rev. Mr. Smith spoke on the subject "What is Salvation?" after which a baptismal service, was held. Special Easter music was rendered by the Junior Choir and the Male Quartet.

Parish Church

There was a celebration of Holy Communion at 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. in the Christ Church Parish Church, with the Very Rev. Archdeacon A. F. Bate and Rev. W. J. Bate officiating. At 11 a.m. there was Morning Prayer after which many of the congregation celebrated Holy Communion. Evening Prayer was held at 7 p.m. with a sermon by Archdeacon Bate.

Wilmot Church

At 11 a.m. in the Wilmot Church, Rev. John W. Bartlett spoke on "The Renewal of Hope." Special Easter music was rendered by the choir under the direction of F. W. Harrison. At 2:30 p.m. E. C. Atkinson, M.P.P., addressed the members of the Wilmot Brotherhood. His theme was "Some Problems of the State." At 7:15 p.m. the Easter Festival Service was held. Rev. Mr. Bartlett speaking on the subject "Do Dead Men Live Again?" Several new members were received in the church, after which the congregation joined in the celebration of Easter Communion.

St. Andrew's Church

Rev. George E. Ross, D.D., delivered a most eloquent and impressive sermon at the 11 a.m. service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. His theme was "The Renewal of Our House at Eastertide." At 2:30 p.m. the regular Sunday School and Bible Classes were held in the Church hall. Rev. Dr. Ross closed the day of worship with a sermon entitled "The Joy of the Early Christian Churches," at the 7 p.m. service.

Devon Baptist Church

Morning Prayer was held in the Devon Baptist Church at 10:30 a.m., David L. Kennedy, B.D., officiating. At the 11 a.m. worship Rev. Mr. Kennedy spoke on "The Renewal of Hope." The regular Church School and Brotherhood were held at 12:15 p.m. At the evening service a large electrically lighted cross occupied the centre of the platform as an appropriate background to the sermon delivered by Rev. Mr. Kennedy. The theme was "Underneath the Shadow of the Cross."

St. Paul's United

Rev. George Telford, M.D., B.D., of St. Paul's United Church, chose as his theme yesterday morning "The Renewal of Hope." He was ably assisted in the morning service by the choir under the direction of J. Harrison Wade. At the evening service the Cantata, "The Resurrection" was rendered by the choir. Regular Sunday School and Bible Class were held in the Fraser Memorial Hall in the afternoon.

Gibson Memorial

Rev. Dr. F. A. Wightman addressed the morning congregation in the Gibson Memorial Church, Devon, while the regular pastor, Rev. W. A. Burge, conducted service at Nashwaakasis. Special Easter music and Easter messages featured both services. At the evening service in Devon the first half hour was entirely devoted to special Easter music. Rev. Mr. Burge also conducted service at Kingsley at 2 p.m.

Saint Dunstan's

At Saint Dunstan's Church at 10:30 a.m. Rev. Dr. J. H. Milligan conducted High Mass. Special Easter music featured the Mass. Dr. Milligan delivered a most eloquent and impressive sermon on "The Resurrection." He very beautifully pictured death as the threshold leading to a better and more beautiful life.

The altar was beautifully decorated in accordance with Easter and there were large congregations at all services.

Christ Church Cathedral

His Grace, the Archbishop of Fredericton delivered the sermon at the morning service in Christ Church Cathedral. The choir under the direction of Prof. Smith supplied a beautiful background of Easter music. At the evening service Very Rev. Dean J. H. A. Holmes preached.

SYDNEY'S 150TH ANNIVERSARY AND VETS' REUNION

"All roads lead to Rome" — this statement will be changed a little to read — "All roads lead to Sydney, Nova Scotia, during the week of July 29th to August 4th."

During this week will out-do itself to make the expected thousands of visitors have the most pleasant time of their lives.

A full week's program of attractions is being arranged for our guests, and a very happy visit is promised to all who come.

During this week, in fact on August 3rd, and 4th, the Veterans of Sydney, under the sponsorship of Branch No. 12 of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, will stage a reunion for Veterans of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland.

Some of the high-lights of this reunion will be a monster parade, with plenty of martial music to liven up the march. It is expected that this parade will be led by Major-General Sir Newton Moore, K. C., M. G., V. D. (one time, Leader of His Majesty's Australian Imperial Forces, and now President of the Dominion Steel & Coal Corporation, and a number of Sydney Branch No. 12 of the Canadian Legion).

A supper that will take the form of a giant Mulligan Supper, a French village with all the trimmings, and the pick of Cape Breton's musical and dramatic talent. Of course there will be lots more of pleasant surprises in store for you. If you can suggest something that we have overlooked, please bring the suggestion along with you, or better still, send it through the mails to the General Secretary of the Committee.

On August 4th, the anniversary of the Great Mistake (War), the people of the historic City will unveil a Cenotaph in honor of the sons of Sydney who went forth to the great conflict,

The Week in Ottawa

(By Frederick Edwards)

OTTAWA, April 21—Full restoration of the ten per cent salary cut has been made to all government employees receiving up to and including $1,200 a year. In making this announcement in the House Finance Minister Edgar N. Rhodes mentioned that would affect 25,000 employees all over Canada. Those receiving in excess of that amount will benefit to the extent of having returned to them five per cent of the salary deduction, which involves, 35,000 more employees.

During the Easter recess, Mr. Rhodes gave consideration to the return of statutory increases, which have been suspended for some years.

While on the subject of salaries, an amusing incident occurred in the Senate. One of the members raised the question of whether their indemnities were liable to the new surtax on unearned income. There was a sigh of relief when Right Hon. Arthur Meighen assured the Red Chamber that such was not the case. The surtax applies on all investment incomes with an exemption of $5,000.00, but only on wages and salaries in excess of $14,000.00.

The House committee on railways has deferred until after the Easter recess, at least, further consideration of the auditors' recommendation to write down $1,500,000,000.00 of Canadian National liabilities. Thursday's sitting was hectic, charges and counter-charges being made that members were trying to build up political capital. A withering attack on E. W. Beatty, president of the C. P. R., also featured the session. Mr. Beatty, it was charged by Ross Gray (Liberal, West Lambton), was perverting the facts concerning the C. N. R. in speeches he was making up and down the country.

It is believed that the government's plan for relieving unemployment through a comprehensive public works, railways and housing programme, will involve expenditures in excess of one hundred million dollars. The Cabinet has been giving the matter considerable attention for some time, and it is likely that the entire scheme was introduced to parliament before adjournment on April 17.

Which brings up the dynamite that shattered the Liberal lethargy of the present session. The subject of the five-week Easter recess, a relatively minor matter by contrast with the important reform legislation, introduced by the government, raised a storm of Liberal protest. Through a two-day filibuster led by Hon. Ernest Lapointe rang the cry for an early election. The former Minister of Justice culminated a two-hour harangue with a motion calling for a seven-day recess, which was ultimately voted down by 90 to 49. Seven U. F. A.-Labour members joined the government forces to swamp Mr. Lapointe's amendment.

The only government front-bencher to speak was Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie. He threw into the teeth of the Opposition the 1911 precedent when Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Liberal Prime Minister, asked the Conservative Opposition's approval of a two-month recess to permit him to attend King George's coronation and the Imperial Conference. This had been promptly acquiesced in by Sir Robert Borden, Conservative leader, who had also felicitated Sir Wilfrid on the honour thus accorded him.

The House roundly commended Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir's plan for reclamation of millions of and did not return. It is hoped that the Veterans of Sydney will be reinforced by thousands of ex-service men from the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, also, hundred from the New England States, and likewise Quebec, Ontario and Western Canadian points.

The committee extend to you all a very cordial invitation to attend the ceremonies of the 150th Anniversary of the birth of Sydney, and if you are a Veteran, to take in the reunion on the closing days of the week.

Special rates on all Railroad and Steamship Lines are being arranged. Please register as early as possible so that we can arrange accommodation for you.

IT'S UP TO THE CUSTOMER

Another chip fell out of the cornerstone of the British Empire when Sir Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, confessed that he knew no way of stopping the importation of cheap medals, commemorating the King's Jubilee celebration, from Japan and Yugoslavia. A member of the House of Commons had complained that these medals "crude misrepresentations of Their Majesty," were damaging the Birmingham metal industry.

Surely the remedy is not to check the importation of these parodies and caricatures of a genuine British medal, but to leave it to the true Briton to refuse to buy one that does not bear the stamp of Birmingham, thus leaving the false ones in the hands of the unpatriotic merchants who were base enough to buy them.

REFUSES LEGACY

Rev. Samuel Donovan, of Peak's Island, Me., a Roman Catholic priest, has refused to accept a legacy left him in the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Merrill, of Lunenburg, N. S. She had been a parishioner of his in Maine. The will left the legacy, an unstated amount, in view of his many acts of kindness to her husband. The lawyer, John E. Hayes, who acted for the priest, said his client declined because he preferred the legacy to go to her children.

Such an act of self abnegation should not go unnoticed. The fine spirit of this clergyman is one of the nicer bits gathered from the news of the day.

acres of Western Canada's finest wheat lands which have been ravaged by drought during the past few years. The bill was given third reading the day after it was introduced.

Use of spotters and stool pigeons by the R. C. M. P. is to be investigated, Mr. Guthrie told the House when a member complained that two men had planted smuggled liquor, cigarettes and a radio on unsuspecting merchants, caused their arrest, and split the fines.

Prime Minister Bennett, meanwhile, is rapidly recovering his health. He has just sailed for England where he will seek for a complete rest and attend the King's Jubilee Anniversary. There is no foundation for sensational rumours that he will not lead the Conservative forces in the coming election.

Of Interest to Women

CANAPES

Canapes are very similar to hors d'oeuvres with the exception that here the appetizer ingredients are served on crackers, toast or one form or another of bread or pastry. Unlike hors d'oeuvres, you can take the canapes up in your fingers. And so they have come to be used very extensively when you serve cocktails. It is equally good form to serve them at afternoon tea or to combine them with hors d'oeuvres. You may also use them correctly as the first course at the luncheon or dinner table. In that case, however, they must be eaten with a fork.

Crackers make an easy and varied base for canapes. There are a great number of varieties, many of them old familiars, but many of them very new and in some cases made especially for use as canapes, like those, for instance, that are baked with a small depression which makes a bed for the tiniest cocktail frankfurter you ever saw.

Ready-made canape spreads, butters and canape fillers can also be bought. And we have included a number of additional recipes for spreads and butters you can make yourself, if you prefer. Garnishes you will find pleasant for eye and palate when served with both hors d'oeuvres and canapes. The following make good ones: Parsley, watercress, hearts of spinach, mint, capers, olives, pimiento, hard-cooked egg butters, anchovies, lemon slices, radishes, pickled beets, red pepper, green pepper, cucumber, pickles, pickled nasturtium seeds, truffles, pearl onions, pickled cauliflower, smoked fish fillets, pickled walnuts.

Chicken Relish Canapes

Half cup chopped, cooked chicken.
Half cup chopped, cooked ham
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chutney
Quarter teaspoon curry powder
Quarter teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon paprika
3 hard-boiled eggs,
12 rounds buttered toast.
Mix all ingredients together except the eggs. Spread on rounds of toast. Garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg. This makes about 12 canapes.

Easter Lily Canapes

1 can sardines
3 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Dash of cayenne
3 hard-boiled eggs
Salt
Pepper
Bread
1 green pepper
Pearl onions
Bone, skin and mash sardines to a pulp. Cream 2 tablespoons of butter and mix well with the sardine paste. Season with lemon juice and cayenne. Mince egg white, mash yolk and mix to a paste with 1 tablespoon butter, salt and pepper to taste. Slice day-old bread thin; spread with sardine paste. Cut each slice in half crosswise to make triangles and shape into a cone. Fill partly with minced egg white. Make tiny balls from the egg yolk mixture. Place one ball in each cone. Cut very narrow strips from the green pepper that has been par-boiled with a pinch of soda. Use these strips for the stem end of the lily. Garnish with pickled pearl onions. Serve 2 lilies on individual plates to each person. This will make about 30 canapes.

"I'LL MAKE CUBS PAY FOR DAMAGED LEG," SAYS DIZZY

Big Noise Says the Cubs Will Pay For That Line Drive Before the Season is Over.

The baseball season already is old for that great man of the pitching hill, Jerome "Dizzy" Dean.

Although the 1935 campaign was only a few days old, Dizzy already has had more experiences, attracted more attention and furnished more headline copy than many hard plugging players do in a lifetime of toil.

Still Has That Fine Spirit

He has been fined $100 for missing a train—He has been on the carpet before Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball—He has been mowed down by a batted ball and rushed with all the dramatic flourishes to a hospital.

So, all Dizzy has left to do to retain his headline average for the year is to win 30 games again for the St. Louis Cardinals and repeat his world series glory in the fall.

Maybe he will and maybe he won't, but you can depend on one thing—Dizzy's got the same spirit, probably more, than he had last year when his tireless right arm hauled the Cards from down yonder to baseball fame.

Dizzy's left leg was sore today. A big red spot showed where it had been painfully bruised from a line drive off Freddie Lindstrom's bat in the very first inning of his seasonal debut against the Cubs. His physician, trainer, and Manager Frankie Frisch told him he was out of the game for a week, but O' Diz wouldn't listen.

"Say, I'll be back on that hill tomorrow and make the Cubs pay for this," he told Manager Frisch. "Diz" has got to do something about this right away. When they start hitting line drives back at me, I've got to get some revenge. Yes, sir, I'll pitch and beat 'em, and I'll pitch and win one game against Pittsburgh this trip, too. Gotta keep up my winning average and have two in the old sack by the time I get back to St. Looe."

"Aw, you'll be lucky to get back in a week," Frisch chimed in.

Yeah? Well, you watch!"

Dizzy's escape with nothing but a bruised bone was nothing short of miraculous. Lindstrom, a powerful hitter, put all his power behind his swing and the ball came back at Dizzy like a shot out of a cannon, travelling about two feet high.
