PODERJAY TO BE EXTRADITED TO UNITED STATES

Long Sought in Connection With Miss Tufverson's Disappearance

Vienna, Jan. 4—The Government notified the United States legation today that it had granted the extradition to New York of Ivan Poderjay.

Poderjay, long sought in connection with the disappearance of Miss Agnes C. Tufverson, New York and Detroit Lawyer, is held on a charge of bigamy. He is alleged to have gone through a wedding ceremony with her in New York, although already married.

He probably will be sent to the frontier and delivered to German police. The latter will take him to Hamburg, where he will be turned over to Detective Jacob von Weisenstein of the New York Police.

Austria yesterday decided to permit the extradition.

Poderjay was held for months in a Vienna prison pending investigation of his record and the Tufverson disappearance.

Miss Tufverson has not been seen by friends or relatives since a few days after her marriage on December 4, 1933. Relatives advanced the theory that Poderjay murdered her, but so far there has been insufficient evidence to try him on that charge.

He said the last he heard of her she had left him to go on a world tour.

Soldiers-Then and Now

(By Theodore Goodridge Roberts)
This series of Articles by a well-known Fredericton Writer will appear each day until further notice.

It is pleasant to hear of any real "old soldier" getting on in the world. And there is no denying that J. E. B. Seely is an honest-to-goodness old soldier. He has been shaken and singed by every sort of hostile explosion. Just what he has been doing since 1918 I don't know; but whatever he did was well done, evidently, for the King made a lord of him about a year ago. Seely is rich in this world's goods. He was born that way. He was a rich young man when he sweated and shivered and ate dust in the Boer War. He was free to live soft, in the lap of luxury, but he chose to live hard and in peril of his life. He might have sat soft through the Great War and been an arm-chair critic. He was old enough for he was not a professional soldier. Though an Englishman and a one-time Minister of the Crown, he had a pull with Sir Sam Hughes; and he must have started exercising that pull in the autumn of 1914, for he was gazetted to the command of the partially formed Canadian Cavalry Brigade on January 28th, 1915. If his command was weak numerically in those days, it was of the finest quality, for there were Lt. Colonel A. C. Macdonell (the Lt. General Sir Archibald of today) with a squadron or two of his Strathconas, Nelles with a detachment of the Royal Canadian Dragoons and Patterson with his Fort Garry "originals." The 2nd King Edward's Horse was added to it soon after its arrival in France.

Seely's horsemen — Strathconas, Dragoons, Fort Garry's and King Edward's — were divorced from their horses and spurs in May, 1915, and sent into action on their own feet. They hopped right to it; and many of them never saw their horses and spurs again. They first came to grips with the enemy at a stronghold of fortified trenches, redoubts and machine-guns nests known to the troops as "Bexhill." A bad business, that! A bad place! Though not worth a drop of human blood, in itself, Canadian blood was spilled there like water. "Bexhill" near Festubert had to be taken from the enemy; and toll was taken from ten or more Canadian infantry and cavalry units in the taking of it; and what is it now? And that chances are that after Canada has paid the German blood price for it, England paid rent for it to France or Belgium.

Rented Trenches

This may not have been so in the case of "Bexhill," nor of any position or ground taken or retaken by British

VANCOUVER SEEKS LOWER GRAIN RATE

OTTAWA, Jan. 4—Downward readjustment of freight rates on grain for export from points in the Prairie Provinces, particularly Alberta to Vancouver, is sought in an application presented by the Vancouver Grain Exchange today to the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners.

The exchange in a voluminous submission contends the requested revision is necessary by reason of the reduced rate voluntarily put into operation by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways on grain shipments from Bay ports in Ontario, including Goderich and Port Colborne, to Halifax and Saint John. These lower rates went into operation on Nov. 18 to meet competitive rates across the border at Buffalo and New York.
