

F. W. PIRIE TO MOVE THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT BE ASKED FOR POTATO BONUS

Opposition Member of Victoria County Claims Bonus Necessary Because of Unsatisfactory Policies of Marketing Board—Some Discussion Expected.

F. W. Pirie, opposition member from Victoria gave a notice of motion in the New Brunswick Legislature yesterday that he will on Tuesday next move that the New Brunswick Government should demand a bonus of the Federal Government sufficient to ensure the farmers of this province a return of 50 cents a barrel on potatoes.

In giving notice of this motion Mr. Pirie wished to make it perfectly clear that the suggested benefits will not be claimed by himself as a potato grower, that he will not claim or accept any benefits under the proposed bonus but that there are hundreds of other farmers in New Brunswick to whom the proposal, if adopted, will prove a great benefit.

The motion, which will be seconded by Hon. A. A. Dysart, leader of the Opposition, will no doubt cause considerable discussion in the House on Tuesday. It reads as follows:

That I will on Tuesday next move, seconded by Mr. Dysart the following resolution:

Whereas the potato growers of New Brunswick are suffering serious losses due to the lack of general markets for their products and the low prices consequent thereon,

And whereas, the markets in Ontario and Quebec, which heretofore afforded to our producers a limited outlet for their potatoes, have been practically lost to them through the operations of the federal potato marketing scheme which, with its system of pegged prices, restrictions and arbitrary regulations, has created conditions under which our producers cannot compete in those markets with the farmers of Ontario and Quebec; for which conditions the Dominion Government must accept responsibility.

And whereas the Dominion Government has, for a number of years, given substantial financial assistance to the wheat growers of the West in various forms including bonuses on their entire crop during a certain period; while the fishermen of New Brunswick have also received during recent years financial assistance through bonuses granted them,

Therefore resolved that in the opinion of this House, the Government of this Province should immediately demand that the Government of Canada, in order to meet the present emergent conditions, grant to the potato growers of New Brunswick on the merchantable portion of their 1934 crop a sufficient bonus to ensure them a return of fifty cents a barrel on all stock marketed or to be marketed by them and on all excess stock a bonus of twenty five cents a barrel.

U. S. WOMEN'S CLUB ENTERTAINS MRS. ROOSEVELT

Satire on Perpetual Motion Propensities of President's Wife

WASHINGTON, March 7—A newspaper women's satire on the current United States scene—Huey Long and Hugh Johnson, Cabinet dives exploring capital alleys—was staged last night before Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and other women notables.

The perpetual-motion propensities of the President's wife were the subject of one skit in this annual affair presented by the Women's Press Club of the United States.

An imperial scene, with Huey Long enthroned as emperor, started off the satire. Dictating a letter to the head referee of the House of Representatives, Emperor Huey demanded more gold crowns ("every man a king"). Then issued a proclamation ordering every husband and wife in his domain to take a second honeymoon as a stimulant to business recovery.

Next came a scene from the Eleanor Roosevelt home for broken down newspaper women, where a large sign said, "One bell means Mrs. Roosevelt goes by train; two bells by plane, three bells by auto; four bells on foot."

HOUSE AND LOBBY

(By H. M. Morden, Star Staff Correspondent).

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8—All but killed by kindness was the fate of Wednesday's vote of $200,000 for the expenses of the Canadian Travel Bureau. True, the item in the estimates was not killed, but it was successfully blockaded by its admiring friends.

Just how an excess of support for the item could defeat its own ends was amply demonstrated. Everyone seemingly, wanted to tell how much he favored spending money for attracting tourists to Canada. Unfortunately, however, Parliament can sit only during stated hours. The time for adjournment comes inexorably.

It arrived Wednesday in time to prevent passage of the item. That another day may be spent in co-called debate was evident. When the adjournment hour arrived, Olaf Hanson, Liberal member for Skeena, was on his feet, prepared to tell of what his Province and district had to offer the tourist, and there appeared to be others who had the same urge.

Such a vote as this presents a brand new opportunity for members to talk about their own particular districts. In fact, the discussion sounded very much like an old-fashioned debate on the Speech from the Throne.

The debate traditionally brings forth an outpouring of parochialism. It is almost unrestricted in its scope, and it usually brings to their feet some members who are not heard at any other time during the session. A great many of them neglect entirely the matters of policy which are dealt with in the Throne Speech, and use their time in telling the House—and incidentally the country—about the fine places they come from. It does not add much to the wealth of Parliamentary discussion, but it looks well in the papers back home.

This year, the haste to get down to business on the reform program had the effect of choking off the debate on the Speech in short order. Many of the members were moved to forego their usual praises of their home constituencies. When the House got on the subject of attractions for tourists, opportunity seemed to be defying tradition and knocking for the second time. The chance was too good to be missed, so the local advertising flowed freely.

Logic is not always an outstanding characteristic of parliamentary speeches. Neither is consistency. There have been many occasions when a member, making a certain argument has been suddenly brought face to face with one of his own utterances in a previous session almost diametrically opposed to his later ideas.

However, Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior, managed to do, in two sentences, what it usually takes a member two sessions to accomplish. Though he perhaps will not realize it until he reads his remarks in the official record he made a statement in one sentence which he completely contradicted in the next.

He was upbraiding the Government for its alleged failure to continue the work done by the Liberals in encouraging tourist traffic. He pointed out that the traffic had fallen off since the Conservatives came into power and failed to carry on Liberal policies.

"Had they done so," he said, "I do not believe there would have been a drop in the tourist traffic. To be quite fair to the Minister (Dr. Manion) and the Government, may I say that I recognize conditions which prevailed in Canada as well as the United States were bound to have a depressing effect on tourist traffic."

VICTORIA, B. C., March 8—A Co-operative Commonwealth Federation motion of non-confidence in the Liberal Government of Premier T. D. Pattullo was defeated in the British Columbia Legislature last night 30 to 9. Herbert Anscomb (Ind. Victoria), and Clive Planta (Ind., Peace River, voted with the Government and Tom Uphill (Labor Fernie), and Hugh Savage (Ind., Cowichan-Newcastle) voted with the Opposition.

Consternation reached a climax when the bells went into sudden action—five bells, a number not listed on their chart. A news ticker informed: "Mrs. Roosevelt just shot to Mars in a rocket ship!" The exhausted newspaper women, like old fire horses galloped off to cover the story.

LOTTERY PROVES AN ALLY OF THE FORTUNE TELLERS

Blossom Forth With Offers to Help Clients to Pick Winners

PARIS, France, March 8—France's national lottery planned to help plug that gap between receipts and expenditures, has helped along one flourishing industry that the framers of the lottery bill never thought of—fortune telling.

Fortune tellers, generally frowzy old ladies with bad accents and great crops of unruly peroxide blonde hair, always have flourished in France, usually with no accessories except a greasy pack of cards but the elaborate professors of astronomy, astrology and psychology have begun to blossom out with elaborate installations and much advertising.

The increased prosperity of the fortune telling racket might be attributed just to bad times—if it were not for the inevitable line in each advertisement notifying the prospective client that one of the professor's specialties is getting winning lottery tickets for his customers.

Fortune tellers' advertisements are divided into two classes; those showing pictures of a handsome oriental young man with burning eyes and bulbous turban, and those showing pictures of white-bearded kindly old men, with benevolent expressions and skull caps. One of them has a winning lottery ticket mailed to the wall and invites you to come and see for yourself the evidence of his powers in winning lotteries.

60-Year Period "Lucky"

Another takes a full page advertisement to explain how five inhabitants of the same house all found fame, fortune, jobs or husbands, according to each one's need, from following Caliph El-Fakir's advice.

Best of all is the man whose advertisement is headed in flaring black type: Were you born between 1859 and 1919? Below he explains that if your birth happened to occur between November 15 of the first year and November 14 of the second, you should communicate with him at once, for his researchers have disclosed some startling good fortune that will come to these lucky individuals with proper guidance.
