FRIENDLY JAPAN

A report from Tokyo says the Japanese Government, worried by its military expenses and its mounting debt, is feeling out Russia regarding a non-aggression treaty.

All through 1932 the Soviet, troubled over the Manchurian situation, and not knowing where the Japanese penetration of the Asiatic mainland would stop, begged Japan to sign a non-aggression pact; and until early in 1933 Japan kept the Russians on tenterhooks by refusing a definite reply. Then Japan gave Russia a refusal. After 2½ years the shoe is on the other foot. Japan wants a treaty, and Russia, reported to have 300,000 soldiers and a heavy list of airplanes on the Siberian boundary, is in a dictatorial position.

Meanwhile, Japan has got what she wanted. Nobody threatens her position in Manchukuo. Russia has sold out her interest in the Chinese Eastern Railway. Many questions that might have led to conflict between the two powers have been settled by negotiation, and those who said in 1932 that war was inevitable have been shown ignorant of the pacific disposition of the Soviet rulers and misreaders of Japanese intentions. Modern diplomacy is not all made up of falsehoods; both Japan and Russia have been quite frank about their plans in the Far East, and only those were deceived who did not believe what they were told.

A non-aggression pact between the two countries would relieve nervousness on both sides, and take from Japan a good deal of fear that in case she were attacked by one country she would be leaped on by an international combine. She can not continue much longer to pile up deficits. With both the foreign office and the treasury opposed to heavy army and navy appropriations, Japan is being forced to consider the cheaper method of treaties to secure her position.

INVENTOR LINDBERGH

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh adds to his fame by applying the mechanical genius, which enabled him to maintain airplanes capable of flying without failures, to the needs of Dr. Alexis Carrel's studies of the mysteries lying over the border-line of death.

First and partial accounts tell of the Lindbergh "mechanical heart" pumping artificial blood to living parts of animal life after the living hearts are removed, thus keeping the segregated parts alive and growing. Kept in glass containers and nourished by the invention, essential glands or organs of the body may be watched and studied by scientists who thus may learn more of what makes them grow and how they fight off disease.

While Dr. Carrel's is the directing mind, Lindbergh seems to prove himself remarkably resourceful wherever there are "more worlds to conquer."

The gap in human knowledge of life and death remains both wide and deep. To span it even in a very partial way requires a machine. In providing it, Lindbergh participates in an adventure more a flight into the unknown than his flight from New York to Paris.

TASTE MATTER OF COUNTRY

Taste is a matter of country. What one nationality enjoys another does not for the reason, generally, that the food is foreign to them. This is the case with maple syrup and maple sugar, so familiar to Canadians but which is practically unknown in Scotland except to a small fraction of the public, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Golden syrup, on the other hand, which is made from cornstarch, is quite popular and much cheaper so that there is a considerable amount of difficulty in introducing maple syrup to the Scottish market. Efforts, however, are being continued and there is already a small but growing trade in Scotland.

SNAPSHOTS

What about that public park in the west end. Have the river bank covered with top soil to kill the smell of the disgraceful public dump on our principal street. Then seed it down and make a nice river front like our Waterloo Row. It can be done without much expense.

Chicago woman who put soap in her husband's coffee had probably figured it out that he was thirsting for suds.

Mussolini and Der Fuehrer have buried the hatchet. The handle, of course, will be left sticking out for ready reference.

Living will be altered in many particulars by a renaissance of the horse and buggy. You can't bring on a needed rain by washing a horse.

A further report on the Atlantic City policeman, who spent six weeks seeking his wife who eloped with a trombone player, says he is letting it slide.

The only fault in freedom is that the wrong people get it.

The chief objection to an ideal place to live is that cranks like it too.

He is middle-aged if he mixes pork, mince pie and ice cream and calls the result heart trouble.

C.N.R. CELEBRATES 35TH BIRTHDAY ON JULY FIRST

MONTREAL, June 29—Railways, like kings, commoners, and quintuplets, have their birthdays and state occasions, and thus July 1st notes the 35th anniversary of the first running of the "International Limited" train of the Canadian National Railways, which has been in continuous daily operation between Montreal and Chicago since July, 1900, and is still going strong. During the 35 years the "International Limited" has travelled 21,715,760 miles carrying approximately 2,500,000 passengers on its 25,556 trips. Over part of the route there are severe winter conditions of frost and snow which render steaming difficult and yet, despite this annual handicap, the train has a record of 82.3 per cent "on time" performances during the entire period. An "International Limited" starts every afternoon from Montreal its opposite number leaving Chicago the same evening, each train to traverse 854 miles between terminals; from Montreal the train serves large centres such as Toronto and London, and important communities in Michigan and Indiana. At Sarnia it leaves the Canadian border to enter the St. Clair tunnel and emerge at Port Huron on the Grand Trunk western lines of the Canadian National Railways to continue its run to Chicago. Allowing for "dead time" caused by necessary station halts, the train maintains an average speed of 52 miles per hour. To attain that average and to take up time spent at stations for the movement of passengers, the transfer of mails and express, the train must operate at a much higher actual speed with sprints of over 80 miles per hour, and there is a record of 87 miles per hour clocked off on certain portions of the line.

Toronto, June 29 — D. St. Pierre, of Toronto, today was awarded $5,270 with interest in his suit against F. O'Hearn and Company, Toronto stock brokers.

Editor Daily Mail

City.

Dear Sir,

Just a word about the help employed on the Poles at the booths yesterday.

Can you Sir, or anyone else explain why people who have jobs, some employed by the City, should take those few dollars from men who have nothing and who have been out of work for months, yes — years.

May I be so bold as to say men out of the City Offices and from the relief office.

We read in the papers about the march to Ottawa, is it any wonder.

As stated in your valuable paper this evening. We have a good Government elect, and we are looking for a clean up in affairs in general. Now what we should have next is a clean up in Civic Government or in other words another Dysart. Mussolini Governments are no good in this Country.

It is true Mr. Editor that some swear at you and others by you, but I have always found in your Editorials — good sound sense — because you advocate even shares to all.

I would like to hear from someone who saw this Polling work handled in the same light as I did.

Yours truly,
TAX PAYER.

N. B. ELECTION GIVES QUEBEC PREMIER IDEAS

Quebec, June 29—Premier L. A. Taschereau today smilingly admitted that the New Brunswick election results had given him "ideas."

"Have you any new statement to make concerning the Quebec elections in view of what took place yesterday in the Maritimes?" he was asked by a reporter today.

"Well—it certainly gives us ideas," replied the prime minister with a broad grin.

But this was as far as he would go.

A Crime Puzzle

DETROIT, June 29—Police issued a statewide order today to search for Lee Ferris, known to have been an acquaintance of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney found slain in a Detroit park yesterday. The police said that Ferris checked out of a Detroit hotel yesterday and has been missing since.

Police officials refused to say in what connection they were searching for Ferris.

Dr. Robert Kaliman, Wayne county medical examiner, said he believed Dickinson was killed by a person or persons, who took extreme precautions to make sure Dickinson died instantly.

Washington, June 28— President Roosevelt today signed the resolution extending the $500,000,000 in "nuisance" taxes for a two-year period.

Ottawa, June 29 — The Supreme Court of Canada today dismissed the appeal of Ross Mason from a conviction for stealing the ship Kromhout and its cargo after it had been seized by R. C. M. P. officers.
