Today another Freshmen Class starts its career at the University of New Brunswick, and another college year gets under way. The old Alma Mater of such distinguished men as Bliss Carman, Sir Charles Roberts, Sir George Foster, Hon. P. C. Keegan and other distinguished men, has for over a century sent from its halls graduates who have in one walk and another made her name famous not only in this country but overseas. She has given to the world her share of poets, of statesmen, and of scholars. There is no reason to believe that she will not long continue to do so. The present faculty of the University compares favourably with any in her long history.

It is up to the students entering the college today to do their part and to enter faithfully and heartily into every phase of college activities. Many of them are away from home and are thrown on their own resources for the first time. Let them remember that they are no longer children but are young ladies and gentlemen. Let them do their duty towards their parents, their university and themselves. If they do this they should make a success of their university course.

New students, and older students, members of the Faculty, The Daily Mail wishes you every success and happiness during the coming college year.

POLITICAL DUET

There are those who persist in believing that Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens are singing a duet: You'll take the "high road" and I'll take the "low road," and we'll both be in Ottawa together. Or, as Premier Gardiner expressed it: They are both driving in the same direction, with Mr. Stevens on a detour. At any rate, Mr. Bennett in his closing radio address dealt very leniently with Mr. Stevens, which was an indication that their "hatred" was not very deep-seated.

MR. STEVENS' LIFE-LONG STORY

Mr. Bennett radioed that he was not inclined to take serious opposition to Mr. Stevens. Because Mr. Stevens had all his life endorsed all the fundamentals of Conservatism, and fought for those principles. That's right, and on his tour of the Maritimes he was closeted with the nominated Tory candidates in each constituency as he passed through. Straws and weather vanes show which way the wind blows.

CHIPS OF SPEECH

Small words are best. Leave the long ones to those who need to show they have been to school. Short words have force. Most of the strong thoughts and acts and hopes of men take short words to tell them. Might and right, strength, faith, are words of just one sound each.

And such words speak well in small groups. From start to the full stop need be a few sounds—each sound a word, each word a punch, and the whole a cause won. Things for which men feel awe may be held in a small word. Things they love, too, like trees and grass and lakes and the sea, the blooms in the yard by the door. The things they hate need not be told, nor things they fear, but these too, can be felt in the sweep of a short string of short words.

More could be found to say for words of one sound, for chains of words with few links. This should show that one can talk long though he use short words, and he may say less in long ones and more of them.

AS GREEN GROWS GOLDEN

September, like April, has varying moods but on the whole 'tis a month in which summer loves to linger. Green is still the predominant arbor-deal shade although each day marks the tempering of its vividness with the beginnings of invading autumnal browns. Where farmers are seizing every hour of daylight building haystacks and thatching them with straw, the laborers still seek the grateful shade of tree or hedge at the short midday respite.

Throughout the temperate zones September showers reach deep into the brown earth and let loose the imprisoned warmth of July and August days. At such a time to walk along a country lane is to wander in Elysian fields odorous with the pungent perfumes which nature sprinkles so generously on the trailing train of summer. Perhaps because the atmosphere is washed so clean, September skies take on a deeper blue. Not really, of course. It just seems so, as across their azure windows fleecy white curtains of gossamer cloud are drawn ever so lightly by the playful breezes of early fall.

Although the September sun leaves western hemispheres earlier of evenings for China and other points East it lingers lovingly over its setting as it floods the heavens with its glorious rose pinks, its rich bronze and old gold. There is a log on the hearth after dusk, and a fragrant smell of smoky pine fills the house. But tomorrow's noonday sun will still be warm. And an October draws nearer the yellow goldenrod and the orange-tinted berries of the mountain ash splash old earth with their glowing flame.

Is it any wonder summer loves to linger in September?

On Saturday a farmer went into a local feed store to get shorts for his pig. A man who was standing by and was not familiar with the term as applied to feed for cattle said "My Lord, are they putting shorts on cattle as well as on girls."

The Reconstruction party on the North Shore is advertising a bean supper "to be followed by music". Quite the usual thing.

The new rules at the Beaverbrook Building provide against Wine, Women and Song in the rooms. The new rules look nice and lady-like and are sure to be popular with the boys.

The Liberals should use every effort to have a good majority in each riding. If no party has a majority the resulting chaos will be tragic.

It was a great joke on the Reconstruction candidate today when he drove all around town with a sign "Vote Liberal" on the back of his car.

The merchants would do well to close on Thursday afternoon from two to four o'clock, and attend the public memorial exercises to the 104th as suggested by the Board of Trade.

President C. C. Jones, of U. N. B., is to be commended for putting his foot down on hazing at U. N. B. this year. The boys may miss a little bit of fun but it is for the good of the college.

Red and Black sweaters are again in evidence on the streets. Welcome back boys.

Early birds those farmers, who come to town on Friday afternoons.

Marysville News

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 23—Contrary to current reports here no bears have been shot in or around handy to the town although several local nimrods have at different times taken occasional shots at them, still the bruins remain elusive and unaffected and continue unconcernedly their asocial shuffling about the fields.

As far as can be ascertained Mr. Joseph Dolphin shot no bear as was reported although several persist in remaining in the field just in the rear of his residence.

Frank Arnold reports seeing two bears on the base ball hill Friday night at dusk when he was on his way home from the slaughter house.

At the home of Mrs. Miles White Friday evening a variety shower was held in honour of Miss Eva Robichaud. The gifts were handsomely arranged and the room was decorously strung with festoons of streamers. Miss Robichaud received many useful gifts.

Church services were well attended last night despite the shower.

Some excitement was caused this morning when a group of men apparently tried to capture a bear pursuing it about the fields back of Canada Street being unable to shoot at it for fear of shooting some person.

It pays to advertise in The Daily Mail.
