MUSSOLINI HAS DESERTERS

Thanks to a warm spring which has opened the Alpine passes ahead of schedule, from three to five deserters from the Italian army, it is reported, have been arriving daily at Innsbruck, in Austria. Most of them give as their reason for fleeing Italy a desire to escape African service.

An American press correspondent with a reputation for truthfulness has been deported from Rome for suggesting that the Abyssinian expedition has by no means the unanimous approval of Italians. He cited the King as unfavorable to the venture. It is interesting that not all of those on whom the brunt of carrying out Il Duce's dream would directly fall are hypnotized by it, but it is not surprising. The conception of a united Italy subscribing to a renaissance of older Roman glories by force of arms as concerned by Mussolini has been a strain on credulity.

The security of the regime in Italy rests on a national morale in the military pattern—a state of mind in which the instinct of the individual is dulled by forms of unremitting discipline. The military itself should be the chief exponent of this morale. Evidently there are malingerers in it, and it would be illuminating to know to what extent they represent a feeling in the armed forces, and a naturally larger spirit of misgiving in a civilian population, on whom the rigors of a discipline which looks to unquestioning amenability lies less heavily than on the soldiery.

ENEMIES EMBRACE

An affecting and instructive scene is that described as passing between the wife of a Bolivian Minister and the wife of a Paraguayan Minister. Accompanying their husbands who had gone to Buenos Aires to arrange terms, they met in a cathedral and were so overcome with joy that they embraced each other.

The women, who had had sons at the front during the three-year war, doubtless expressed the feeling of the common people of both countries. They never did hate each other, and had everything to lose and nothing to gain by the war's continuance. Accordingly, for them the essential peace terms were arranged right there. Forgiving and forgetting, they spontaneously embraced, and were then ready to go back home and attend to their own business. That was the end of it.

We recall, however, that at the close of the World War the common people of hostile countries were quite willing to embrace, but that fact by no means insured an early settlement of differences or the restoration of tranquillity. There were diplomats, who still had to go through the motions of embracing, and when they did so each had a knife up his sleeve. The embrace proved to be only the beginning of further trouble.

Let us hope the diplomats of Paraguay and Bolivia will make peace as genuinely and completely as their wives.

SUEZ CANAL DIVIDENDS

There are plenty of corporations, which are still struggling to keep alive, but the Compagnie Universelle du Canal Maritime de Suez seems to be doing quite well, thank you. It held its annual meeting last month, and reported that in the year 1934 it took in 895,000,000 francs, spent 229,000,000 francs and devoted 522,000,000 francs or $34,660,800 at the present rate of exchange, to dividends.

Seven-sixteenths of the dividend went to Great Britain, as the result of the little deal Disraeli made in 1875, when he brought out the interest of the Khedive of Egypt for some $20,000,000. When anyone can get back three-fourths of his invested capital in a single year's dividends, he has made a good investment. Suez Canal shares issued at 250 francs, now are worth 19,350 francs; and even though the franc is now worth only one-third of fun.

what it stood at in 1875, the Canal's stock is worth more than 25 times the price of issue.

SNAPSHOTS

We said in May that in July the people would be complaining about the heat. We were right!

Humorists do have scruples. A movie queen reported the theft of perfume worth $2,000 from her flat, and nothing was said of authorities being on the scent.

NEW HARBOR FIGURES PRINTED INCORRECTLY

OTTAWA, July 6—In its news report yesterday, the Canadian Press inadvertently reversed the figures in quoting Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, as to the total amount paid the Quebec Harbor Commissioners for the purchase of automobiles, travelling expenses, chauffeurs and other personal expenses during the last five years and during a similar previous term.

The amount paid during the last five years was $79,507 and that paid the predecessors of the present commissioner during a similar term of office was $132,752, Mr. Duranleau said. The Canadian Press regrets its erroneous report and is glad to make this correction.

AUSTRALIA HAS FISCAL SURPLUS

CANBERRA, Australia, July 6—A surplus of £710,000 (about $3,500,000) for the fiscal year 1934-35 was announced yesterday by R. G. Casey, assistant Commonwealth Treasurer. This was achieved despite payment of £4,000,000 ($20,000,000) for wheat relief, not included for in the budget. General improvements in conditions during the financial year is considered responsible for the result.

Revenue from taxation at £58,754,000 was £3,269,000 above the estimate.

QUEBEC, July 6—The Island of Orleans bridge will be open for the use of private pleasure automobiles only, tomorrow, it was announced by the Prov. Department of Public Works today.

ROME, July 6—The supreme Naval Defense Council has decided to increase Italy's naval forces, it was announced officially today.

Don't miss the Merry-go-Round tonight at St. Anthony's Grounds. Lots of fun.

Bennett and King To Lead Parties

ivities will extend beyond his own riding, through invitations from other candidates to assist them in their own private battles. Some announcement from Mr. Stevens on this point may be forthcoming within the next few days.

With the final declaration by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett at the government party caucus today, that he would continue as head of the Conservatives as long as his health permitted, it became apparent that the forthcoming political struggle for the privilege of forming the next government would see Mr. Bennett leading the Conservative forces and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King as head of the Liberals.

In the third group represented in the House of Commons there is not the same simplicity of leadership. James S. Woodsworth (Lab., Winnipeg North Centre), is leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and the United Farmers are affiliated with that political body. But the United Farmers, whose leader is Robert Gardiner, member for Acadia, have jealously retained their identity and it was doubted that many of its members in the present Parliament would run under the name of C.C.F. candidates although affiliated officially with that body.

It was not anticipated that the leaders would take to the hustings until late in July or early in August, and judging from the statement of Mr. Bennett when asked by the Liberal leader today as to the date of the elections, it was expected voting will take place late in August or September.

Mr. Bennett said he would give the date if he could but it was impossible at this time to be definite. Voting would take place as soon as all the necessary preliminaries, particularly, printing of the revised voters' list, could be completed, he said. This would indicate that the date of elections could not occur earlier than September.

N. B. Political Pot Bubbling Again

far as I have seen to openly condemn this religious canvass which has been carried on by our friends in York and Sunbury counties."

It looks as though a merry old fight is going to be waged in the Dominion elections in New Brunswick within the next month or so.

So far as The Daily Mail hears each party is claiming victory. The Tories claim that Mr. Bennett will sweep Canada. The Liberals claim that the results will be quite similar to those of the late election in New Brunswick. So there you are!

LATE J. S. ARMSTRONG

The funeral of John Simeon Armstrong, one of Fredericton's best-known citizens took place this afternoon with a private service of prayer at the home of Mrs. Robinson 763 Brunswick street, at 2:45 o'clock after which the remains were taken to Christchurch Cathedral where Very Rev. Dean J. H. A. Holmes conducted a brief though impressive service. Pallbearers were Luke S. Morrison, Robin Randolph, H. W. Woods, E. C. Armstrong, George E. Howie, and Arthur W. Anderson. The chief mourners were Beverly Armstrong, Dr. Oliver Peters, P. Fairweather R. Armstrong, H. F. G. Bridges W. W. Hubbard, Gerald Hubbard Phillip Gregory, G. E. Stopford, Prof. John Stephens, and J. Alex. Thompson. Interment was made in the Old Burial Grounds.

AN N. B. BOOSTER

Dr. Charles E. B. Chase, of Boston, Mass., arrived here a few days ago and is now at Burnt Hill on the Southwest Miramichi, where he owns sporting camps and fishing rights. He has for a guide, Donald MacKay, a veteran of the Miramichi who several years ago figured in one of Arthur Train's "Mr. Tutt" stories published in the Saturday Evening Post. This is Dr. Chase's twenty-eighth fishing trip to the Miramichi and he can be put down as one of the "old guard" of non-resident anglers. He has always been a good friend and a booster for the sporting attractions of New Brunswick. A number of other anglers have arrived in the Province and are at their respective camps.

WEEK-END MARKET

Today's market was as usual, a large one and many farmers were present. One of the big sellers was strawberries, there being an excess supply of these for sale at prices ranging from 10 to 20 cents per box. The strawberry season is now at its peak and housewives are busily engaged in making jam and preserves while the prices are low and the quantity high. Today's market prices were as follows: Strawberries, 10 cents per box; potatoes, per barrel, 75 cents; wood, per load, $4 to $6; lettuce, per head, 10 cents; beets, per bunch, 10 cents; eggs, per dozen, 25 cents; butter, per pound, 22 cents; lamb, per pound, 15 to 20 cents; veal, per pound, 7 to 11 cents; salmon, per pound, 18 cents.

BUSY AT DESK

H. H. Morton, official at the Dept. of Public Works, who spent some days in Kings county early in the week, has returned and is busy at his desk in the Departmental Buildings.

Dominion Parliament Prorogued Yesterday

er considerable debating and over the protests of Liberals, the House passed a bill substituting an affidavit for the oath subscribed for challenged voters.

The House opened January 17 being the sixth session of the 17th Parliament. The feature of the legislative program was the reform bills passed, unemployment insurance minimum wage laws eight-hour day and 48-hour week legislation and establishment of a trade and industry board.

Liberals took each bill in turn predicted some of them would be tossed out by the courts as going beyond Parliament's power but declining to make an election issue of them.

For the past week the House has been engaged with minor legislation with the exception of the wheat board bill which passed Thursday and money votes in the supplementary estimates.

The House met at 11 A. M. and continued in session until prorogation. The Governor-General was scheduled to appear in the Senate at 1 o'clock, then it was changed to 2:15 but was about 3:30 when he arrived with his military escort.

The House although actually in session for the hiatus of two hours, spent it mostly in a sing-song. There were Irish songs, Scotch songs, French songs and even a German song. At one time a group of French-Can-

A. W. Neil (Independent, Comox-Alberni) produced the biggest laugh of the day. The whole House joined in "Show Me the Way to Go Home" and then he formally suggested the members show him "How to Come Back".

Only a handful of members took the walk from the House to the Senate in the final wind-up. Most of them had left for home Thursday night or early yesterday.
