MAYOR McEVOY

The Town of Devon made a good selection yesterday in selecting Arthur J. McEvoy, F.C.A.S., F.C.I. as their mayor for the ensuing year. Many larger towns and cities would be glad to have a man like Mayor McEvoy at the head of their civic affairs. It speaks well for the town when busy men of affairs such as A. J. McEvoy are willing to step in and give their time and energy to their home town.

Mayor McEvoy who holds degrees and fellowships in several British, Canadian and American institutes of accounting is considered by those who know him to be one of the best chartered accountants in Canada. He has been connected with various big contracting concerns including important work right here in the province. He was for years and is yet confidential financial man in a large and important Fredericton institution. All this experience is valuable and Mayor McEvoy will place it at the disposal of his home town. Personally everyone likes "Mac". If he has any enemies no person seems to have heard of them.

A leading Devon clergyman who is a next door neighbour of the new mayor said to The Mail today, Mr. McEvoy is one of the best fellows and best neighbors whom I ever knew and everybody says the same thing. He is connected through marriage with one of Devon's oldest families and he has a very interesting family. He was in Devon's first council. Devon has been fortunate in the selection of its mayors and aldermen. They have as a rule had a fine body of representative citizens at the council board. Mayors Malloy, Dayton, Henry, Pickard, Neill and Coombes have been good civic heads and a credit to their town. Mayor McEvoy will be another.

Congratulations are also due to Roy Flowers and Gerald Ashfield the two new members at the council board.

THE ROYAL BANK

The sixty-sixth annual report of the Royal Bank of Canada which has just been made public shows that the bank has enjoyed improved conditions both at home and abroad.

Referring to improved conditions in Canada Morris W. Wilson the president and managing director points out that during the past year manufacturing and employment have practically approximately the levels of 1926; iron and steel production, the output of automobiles, textiles and electrical energy had increased and the value of exports, notably lumber and minerals, had advanced substantially. The wheat crop was no larger, but fortunately, higher prices prevailed. The value of field crops had increased over $100,000,000 and the enhanced purchasing power of the farmers had stimulated trade throughout the country. There has been increased demand for Canadian mineral products abroad and it is anticipated that the output of Canadian gold mines will exceed $100,000,000, as compared with $85,000,000 in 1933. The building boom in Great Britain created unprecedented demand for Canadian lumber and a record volume of shipments has been made during the past year. He mentioned the importance of the tourist trade to Canada which had amounted to over $300,000,000 a year and for several years brought more money into Canada than our wheat exports.

The report which is published elsewhere in the Daily Mail deals with other features of the financial and commercial and business life of the country and also gives an interesting forecast of the outlook.

The address of the General Manager S. G. Dobson points out the strong position of the Royal Bank of Canada which is one of the strong financial institutions of the Dominion. He refers to the satisfactory results achieved by the branches of his bank outside of Canada and to the valuable assistance that these branches have given to exporters and others in the development of their business.

All citizens of Canada have faith in the Royal Bank of Canada. From coast to coast it has done its part to help the rural as well as the urban business man of the community. All business men will wish this strong old institution a prosperous year during 1935.

The Royal Bank of Canada should be proud of their record during the year.

The Board of Trade meeting tonight promises to be a hum dinger. It is either a case of the business men boosting the Board of Trade tonight or else letting it drop. A couple of men cannot hold the line alone.

Fresh Surprise In Hauptmann Case

At York Pa., Arthur P. Myers, who with Samuel C. Malone quite the defence staff of handwriting experts, declared the action was taken "because our findings were not favorable to the defence."

The New Jersey State Senate, moving to preclude any possibility of a mistrial, hastened confirmation of the appointment of Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, presiding at the Hauptmann trial. His present term expires Saturday.

The appellate division of supreme court in Brooklyn, although reserving decision on the appeal of Hauptmann's attorneys for access to data on the case, indicated it would favor the Bronx carpenter. The data now is in the hands of James M. Fawcett, former attorneys for Hauptmann, who retained it as security for counsel fee payment on a supreme court order.

Fear Reprisals From Hitlerites

As the result came to them, district by district and the totals for German rule mounted beyond the expectation of any foreign experts, there were scenes of wildest joy.

Spontaneously they, people now without a nationality, broke into the Nazi shout: 'Heil Hitler', and began to sing the Nazi hymn: Horst Wessel'.

Beleaguered anti-Nazis fled across the border, locked themselves in their homes or went into hiding today when riotous crowds of Nazis swarmed through the streets of the Saar, celebrating the overwhelming vote for Germany in the plebiscite.

The exuberance of the Nazis spread terror among their opponents, cowering in fear of reprisals.

Jewish stores were closing everywhere.

Jeering mobs gathered outside stores in Saarbruecken and several towns in the provinces.

Leaders of the opposition reported that individual Nazis had warned members of the United Front—which favored continuance of League of Nations rule—not to sleep in their own houses tonight.

Socialists and Communists, who had been sleeping in their party club-houses for safety in numbers were warned to spend the night elsewhere.

At Fenne, 15 anti-Nazis fled from their homes and took refuge in a school-building, which was threatened with attack.

Thongs milled through the flag-covered streets, singing Nazi songs and shouting slogans and threats. Police hesitated to intervene unless general violence started.

The exodus to the border was slowed up by the reluctance of the authorities to grant visas until it was plain the applicants were in imminent danger. Thirty Jews, representing 11 families, entrained for France after receiving French visas. More than 400 other applicants appeared, and 200 had already crossed the border yesterday and today.

BERLIN, Jan. 16—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in congratulating Saarlanders yesterday upon their vote to return to the Reich, said, 'Your decision gives me the possibility of contributing to the solution of Europe's problems'.

"Once we have attained equality we can co-operate in those tasks of international solidarity which are so necessary for pacification of the world", the leader said.

"Saarlanders' decision permit me to make a solemn declaration. That is with the return of the Saar to Germany, we have no more territorial claims to make of France. We want to obtain equality of rights for Germany, but we also want to achieve solidarity among nations.

"Fifteen years of injustice have been erased", the Fuehrer added.

Church bell rang throughout Germany when the vote was announced. In his impassioned address Hitler asserted he regarded the Saar vote as "a decisive step on the road to ending the most terrible and the most unfruitful fight that ever tore European nations asunder."

The plebiscite, he said, "means that the indissoluble unity of the German people once again has been demonstrated. Germany thanks you from millions of hearts."

Schools were closed for the day after a short and solemn ceremony celebrating the victory.

Flags appeared as if by magic and torchlight parades and mass meetings were arranged by Nazi district leaders to close the "historic day."

Pupils at all German schools and higher institutes of learning were or-trail they must work for 'a government of the people, for the people and by the people, that will legislate solely for the people, and we feel confident that Premier Tilley and his government, in these trying times, are trying to do just that'.

Her Candidature

She had offered as a candidate in Northumberland County, Miss Fish said, in the hope of promoting broader and more desirable forms of social legislation. Among these measures she endorsed old age pensions, mothers allowances, contributory unemployment insurance, which she termed "better than dole", and fairer and more equal distribution of wealth. She characterized as "a step in the right direction" the minimum wage schedule for woods workers introduced as a result of legislation passed by the present government.

Dealing with conditions in her own county of Northumberland, Miss Fish praised the Tilley government and the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission for extending hydro from Minto to the Miramichi district.

"It is to be hoped", she said, "that in 1935 we may see both a pulp and a paper mill in the Miramichi Valley so that 70 or 80 ships will not sail down the Miramichi River next summer, carrying our pulpwood elsewhere. The raw pulp should be manufactured on the Miramichi where it would increase 10 times in value and employ Miramichi labor."

Miss Fish said she would like to see improvement for debt done away with. 'If I am elected this is the first thing I will ask for', she said.

Miss Fish pledged herself "to promote goodwill and understanding between Saint John and the Miramichi, that both may work for the general good of the province". During her address she spoke of the need of organization also.

Other Speakers

The first speaker of the evening was Robert McAllister, M. L. A., "I consider this audience a tribute to Premier Tilley", said Mr. McAllister, adding that he is "proud to be a supporter of the present government", and predicting victory for Miss Fish in Northumberland County in the next election.

The next speaker, Dr. White, said that it is a matter of satisfaction to all who have anything to do with public life to see the increasing interest which the public is taking in questions of the day. He paid a graceful tribute to Miss Fish, who, he said, had never been in Saint John before.

"She has had a wonderfully successful educational career, is a barrister-at-law, and knows much about the political questions of the day", he said. "It was a great step forward when the advantage of the franchise was extended to the feminine part of the community. All the great events of history, if traced back, originated with women. . . . The Girl behind the lad who fires the gun wins the battles, and the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world."

dered to reach their classes by 8 a.m. to listen to the plebiscite broadcast. In factories throughout the Reich all workers were called together by Nazi leaders to listen to the results.

Paul Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, also thanked the population of the Saar for their vote.

"You, brethren and sisters of the Saar," he asserted, "fought a battle for Germany with ballot papers. We assure you we shall stand in the same fidelity to you that you showed to."
