

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS MEET AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 18.—The controlling powers for the game of golf throughout a large section of the country rounded up at the Blackstone Hotel this afternoon and began the transaction of business in connection with the annual meeting of the Western Golf Association. Clubs from Pittsburg to Denver and from the lakes to the gulf were represented. Chief interest in the meeting centers in the allotment of the championship tournaments for the coming season. Spirited competition is on for the honor of entertaining the amateur championship event. All of the present officers of the association are slated for re-election. They are President John D. Cady of Rock Island, Vice-President F. L. Woodward of Denver, Secretary C. E. Wilford of Chicago, and Treasurer B. D. Smith of Chicago.

It's a woman's nature to love the villain more than the hero.

A WEAK, ACHING BACK Caused Her Much Misery. Kept Her From Sleeping Nights.

Weak back is caused by weak kidneys, and on the first approach or evidence of kidney trouble Doan's Kidney Pills should be used, and serious trouble avoided.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right to the seat of the trouble, cure the weak aching back, and prevent any further complications arising.

Mrs. W. R. Hodge, Fielding, Sask., writes:—"A few lines highly recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. For this last year I have been troubled very much with nasty sick headaches, and a weak aching back which caused me much misery, for I could not work and had no ambition for anything. My kidneys were very badly out of order, and kept me from sleeping at nights. I tried many kinds of pills and medicines, but it seemed almost in vain. I began to give up in despair of ever being well and strong again, when a kind neighbor advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and am thankful for the relief I obtained from them, for now I am never troubled with a sore back or sick headaches. I will always say Doan's Kidney Pills for mine and can highly recommend them to any sufferer."

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"Goodbye!" he said casually. "I'll come and see you some time."

Wesley Sinton gave a smothered sob and strode from the room.

Mrs. Comstock started for the door, dragging at Billy as Elnora pulled back, but Mrs. Sinton was before them, her eyes flashing.

"Kate Comstock, you think you are mighty smart, don't you?" she cried.

"I ain't in the lunatic asylum, where you belong, anyway," said Mrs. Comstock. "I am smart enough to tell a dandy boy when I see him, and I'm good and glad to get him. I'll love to have him!"

"Well, you won't have him!" exclaimed Margaret Sinton. "That boy is Wesley's. He got him and brought him here. You can't come in and take him like that. Let go of him!"

Wesley Sinton appeared behind Margaret in the doorway, and she turned to him. "Make Kate Comstock let go of our boy!" she demanded.

"Billy, she wants you now," said Wesley Sinton. "She won't whip you, and she won't let any one else. You can have stacks of good things to eat, ride in the carriage and have a great time. Won't you stay with us?"

Billy drew away from Mrs. Comstock and Elnora.

He faced Margaret, his eyes shrewd with childish wisdom. Necessity had taught him to strike the not iron, to drive the hard bargain.

"Can I have Soap to live here all ways?" he demanded.

"Yes, you can have all the dogs you want," said Margaret Sinton.

"Can I sleep close enough so's I can touch you?"

"Yes, you can move your lounge up so that you can hold my hand," said Margaret.

"Do you love me now?" questioned Billy.

"I'll try to love you if you are a good boy," said Margaret.

"Then I guess I'll stay," said Billy, looking over to her.

Out in the night Elnora and her mother went down the road in the moonlight, and every few rods Mrs. Comstock laughed aloud.

"Mother, I don't understand you," sobbed Elnora.

"Well, maybe when you have gone to high school long you will," said Mrs. Comstock. "Anyway, you saw me bring Mag Sinton to her senses, didn't you?"

On Sunday, while Mrs. Comstock was in town with the Sintons, Elnora, although repeatedly cautioned not to enter the Limberlost alone, went after specimens and was soon carrying five fine cocoons of different species as her reward. She pushed back her hair and gazed around longingly. A few rods inside she thought she saw cocoons on a bush, to which she went and found several. Sense of caution was rapidly vanishing; she was in a fair way to forget everything and plunge into the swamp when she thought she heard footsteps coming down the trail. She went back and came out almost facing Pete Corson.

That ended her difficulty. She had known him since childhood. When she sat on the front bench of the Brushwood schoolhouse Pete had been one of the big boys at the back of the room. He had been rough and wild, but she never had been afraid of him, and often he had given her pretty things from the swamp.

"What luck!" she cried. "I promised mother I would not go inside the swamp alone, and will you look at the cocoons I've found! There are more just screaming for me to come get them, because the leaves will fall with the first frost, and then the jays and crows will begin to tear them open. I haven't much time, since I'm going to school. You will go with me, Pete! Please say yes! Just a little way!"

"What are those things?" asked the man, his keen black eyes fast upon her.

"They are the cases these big caterpillars spin for winter, and in the spring they come out great night moths, and I can sell them. Oh, Pete,

I can sell them for enough to take me through high school and dress me so like the rest that I don't look different, and if I have very good luck I can save some for college. Pete, please go with me?"

"Why don't you go like you always have?"

"Well, the truth is, I had a little scare," said Elnora. "I never did mean to go alone. Sometimes I sort of wandered inside farther than I intended, chasing things. You know Duncan gave me Freckles' books, and I have been gathering moths like he did. Lately I found I could sell them. If I can make a complete collection I can get $300 for it. Three such collections would take me almost through college and I've four years in the high school yet. That's a long time. I might get them."

"Can every kind there is be found here?"

"No; not all of them, but when I get more than I need of one kind I can trade them with collectors farther north and west so I can complete sets. It's the only way I see to earn the money. Look what I have already. Big gray caterpillars come from this kind, brown polyphemus from that and green lunas from these. You aren't working on Sunday. Go with me just an hour, Pete!"

The man looked at her narrowly. She was young, wholesome and beautiful. She was innocent, intensely in earnest and she needed the money—he knew that.

"You didn't tell me what scared you," he said.

"Oh, I thought I did! Why, you know, I had Freckles' box packed full of moths and specimens, and one evening I sold some to the Bird Woman. Next morning I found a note telling me it wasn't safe to go inside the swamp. That sort of scared me. I think I'll go alone rather than miss the chance, but I'd be so happy if you would take care of me. Then I could go anywhere I chose, because if I missed you could pull me out. You will take care of me, Pete?"

That was the finishing stroke.

"Yes, I'll take care of you," promised Pete Corson.

"Goodbye!" said Elnora. "Let's start quick! And Pete, you look at these closely, and when you are hunting or going along the road if one dangles under your nose you cut off the little twig and save it for me, will you?"

"Yes, I'll save you all I see," promised Pete.

DEMOCRATS WILL LOWER THE TARIFF

Washington, Jan. 17.—A substantial reduction of the tariff all along the line in wood pulp and print paper schedule and the retention of approximately the existing duties on tobacco, cigars and similar articles constitute part of the Democratic tariff revision program to be presented to the coming extra session of congress.

This was the situation as viewed tonight by Democratic leaders following two sessions today and another tonight in the marshalling of testimony on schedule on pulp, paper and books and tobacco and its manufactures. Just how far the Democratic members will go in cutting the paper schedule is problematical. So far they have not held a conference on the subject, but the consensus of their sentiment favors a reduction wherever possible in this part of the tariff law.

Chief interest of the day centered in the presentation of the arguments of the spokesmen of the newspaper publishers and of the diametrically opposed paper manufacturers. John Norris of New York, chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, representing consumers who pay $55,000,000 a year for newspaper throughout the country, presented testimony, frequently marked by colloquies with Republican members of the committee, in favor of letting down the tariff bars that shut out Canadian paper, and the cutting off of all restrictions upon the importation of the cheaper grades of paper and wood pulps entering into paper manufacture.

PAPER TRUST OBJECTS.

The American Paper and Pulp Association, through Arthur C. Hastings of New York City, its president, representing, he said, the paper industry with an investment of $400,000,000 and an annual business of $300,000,000, voiced opposition to a change in the present tariff.

Mr. Norris in his plea for newspaper paper from across the Canadian border, said that the American newspaper publishers wanted congress "to ensure the procurement of a permanent and adequate supply of cheap paper by broadening the paper market to the utmost."

Mr. Norris asserted that the paper makers had been coddled and enervated by the tariff, that the International Paper Company had falsified and juggled the figures, and had starved the market; that there have been fixed prices for years among the paper manufacturers and that he could not buy a ton from the paper mills at a price within reason.

He charged that paper makers had attacked the credit of projectors of new enterprises and had urged banks to refuse them loans and since 1898, when the International Paper Company was formed, the paper makers in substantially all the groups had been trying to regulate the market by combinations and to maintain prices.

Mr. Norris further stated that exports of the paper trade in 1912 exceeded the 1912 imports by more than $2,000,000.

"The paper makers," he said, "fail to tell you that while three-quarters of the machines operating in American mills are fit only for the scrap heap, nearly all the Canadian mills are equipped with modern machines made in the United States and manned by American paper makers."

He also declared that the tariff board had punctured the labor protection fallacy; that the average cost of labor in all Canadian mills was only eight cents less a ton than in the American mills, yet congress had retained a $3.75 duty on newsprint paper, "professedly in the interest of labor."

Had Pimples on Face And Back Was Literally

Covered With Them.

Bad blood is the direct cause of pimples breaking out on the face and body, and it is impossible to get rid of them unless you cleanse the blood of all its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this purpose.

This old and reliable remedy has been used for over thirty-five years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other for purifying the blood.

Mr. Peter La Pierre, Assistant Postmaster, Touchwood Hills, Sask., writes: "The fall before last, I was very much troubled with pimples on my face and back. My back was literally covered with them, and I could not lie on it at night, they were so painful. One day my sister advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got two bottles, and before I had taken all the first one, the pimples had nearly disappeared, and now I am completely cured."
