I KNOW

COD LIVER OIL

Is the thing I need but I can't take it on account of its horrible taste. Ever say that? If you did you had in mind the old blue bottle of cod liver oil and its taste and smell really were something to be dreaded.

Nyal's Emulsion

of cod liver oil is a modern scientific remedy palatable and pleasant. You can take Nyal's Emulsion. Anybody can. And everybody should who feels the need of a body builder and strength-giver particularly those who have lung trouble or are in a run-down and weak condition.

Nyal's Emulsion contains pure cod liver oil combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda to strengthen the nervous system. If you want to nourish the body and fortify the nervous system take Nyal's Emulsion.

STOMACH GONE BAD
SOUR, GASSY, UPSET?

"Pape's Diapiesin" Cures Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia in Five Minutes

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapiesin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know now it is needless to have a bad stomach.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Diapiesin belongs in your home anyway. It should be kept handy, should one of the family eat something which doesn't agree with them or in case of an attack of indigestion, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night it is there to give the quickest, surest relief known.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

To the Editor of The Mail

Dear Sir,—So much is being said about naval policies may I venture to ask a question.

Suppose we accept the Borden policy, and at some future time we were attacked by some foreign nation, and Great Britain came to our assistance, the enemy, who would pay the expenses, Canada or Great Britain?

Now Mr. Editor, I think that this is a fair question and one that should be answered before the proposal is accepted or rejected. This question opens up several others of which I may speak of later.

Yours,

GEO. A. BARTLETT,
Temperance Vale, N. B.

CENTENNIAL OF BIRTH OF
J. C. FREMONT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—In no year of American history have there been offered such abundant opportunities for centenary celebrations as the year now begun. During the ensuing twelve months there will occur the centennial anniversary of the births of such notable figures in American history as Stephen A. Douglas, the Democratic candidate for president against Lincoln; Admiral David D. Porter, one of the celebrated naval commanders in the civil war; Henry Ward Beecher, the famous pulpit orator; Allen G. Thurman, Ohio senator and one of the noted leaders of the Democratic party; General John Sedgewick, one of the ablest and bravest officers of the Army of the Potomac; Zachariah R. Mallory, who is best remembered as the secretary of the navy of the Confederate States.

Of the men named in the foregoing list, however, there is none whose career was half so picturesque as that of John C. Fremont, who was born one hundred years ago today in Savannah, Ga. Soldier, explorer, civil engineer, governor of California and Arizona and first candidate of the Republican Party for president, General Fremont for many years was a conspicuous and at times a very romantic figure in the public eye.

General Fremont's father was a Frenchman, who, coming to the United States, married into a Virginia family, and died when John was five years old. After leaving college the future soldier and political leader lived for some years teaching mathematics, in which occupation he made a long cruise on a United States warship. When he returned he obtained a position in the United States topographical corps and explored the mountain passes of North Carolina and Tennessee.

In 1841 Fremont met in Washington the young daughter of Senator Benton of Missouri, and they were married secretly. The couple afterward were accepted by the bride's father, who subsequently had Fremont placed in command of the expedition to explore the western United States territories, and Fremont began the work which gave to him the title of the Pathfinder and resulted in his candidacy for the presidency of the United States.

He made five expeditions in all. In the first he gathered much needed and accurate knowledge of the Indians in Nebraska, Wyoming and the south pass to Oregon, and planted the American flag on the highest peak of the Rocky Mountains. The little band suffered terrible hardships and encountered many dangers but the results of the expedition were so valuable that Fremont started on another one the following year. He explored Utah this time and it was his report of the resources of the Salt Lake region that attracted the Mormons.

On the third expedition to California Fremont got into complications, and on charges was found guilty and sentenced to be dismissed from the army in which he had risen to the rank of colonel. President Polk, while approving the verdict, remitted the penalty, but Fremont resigned. This was in 1848, and he conducted his last two expeditions at his own expense. He had settled in California and had come to the United States senate in 1850, but he could not be re-elected on account of his hostility to the extension of slavery. In 1856 he was nominated for president by the new Republican and "National American" parties, but was defeated.

When the civil war broke out Fremont received a command but was involved in controversy and relieved of active service. At this period the discontent with Lincoln's administration centered in Fremont and in 1864 he was nominated by radical Republicans for president but as it appeared that his nomination could only result in the defeat of both Lincoln and himself, he withdrew.

General Fremont was governor of Arizona from 1878 to 1881 and in 1890, a few months before his death, which occurred in New York City on July 13 of that year, Congress authorized his appointment as a major-general of the army.
