MUTINY IN THE "PRISON" HOTEL

London, Dec. 31.—The plan of the British government to cure habitual prisoners by kindness has received a temporary setback.

Early in the year there was established at Camp Hill, Isle of Wight, what is known as "prison hotel," where men sent for an indefinite term of detention after penal servitude have privileges that are not available to the men in the neighboring penal servitude prison.

There is a canteen from which they can obtain certain luxuries; they are permitted to smoke and to write to their friends and there is a common hall for meals and recreation. A certain period of good behavior however, is required before the men are eligible for these privileges. Recently some new arrivals demanded exceptional treatment immediately upon arrival, and being refused it started a mutiny. They refused to do their allotted work, smashed the self-furnishings and demolished the cottage windows.

Soft words had no effect and not until the ringleaders were transferred to Parkhurst Prison and the birch applied to them did the trouble end. For a time the military were held in readiness so violent did the prisoners become.

MAINE REPUBLICAN AGAIN

Augusta, Me., Jan. 1.—After an interval of two years, during which time the entire affairs of the State have been in the hands of the Democrats, the Republican party resumed sway in Maine today with the inauguration of William T. Haines, Republican, as governor, and the assembling of a Republican legislature. The first work of the legislature will be to elect a successor to United States Senator Obadiah Gardner, a Democrat appointed by Governor Plaisted to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Frye. The contest for the toga promises to be an interesting one. In the ordinary course of events the plum would go to ex-Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, who was indorsed for the senatorship in the Republican primaries last June. But an element of doubt is added to the situation by the presence of a number of Progressives among the Republican members of the legislature. The senatorial primary was held before the organization of a third party and now the Progressives claim that they are in no way bound to respect the results of the Republican primary. Senator Gardner entertains a hope that he may be re-elected through a combination of the Democrats and Progressives Mr. Burleigh, on the other hand, is confident there are enough Republican votes on joint ballot to bring about his own election.

MAZERALL SETTLEMENT

Mazerall Settlement, Dec. 12.—This little place as usual is making much progress.

Hog killing and fattening cattle is the principal feature.

Mr. Allen Mazerall is making sleepers for Mr. Gilbert Bergoyne. Allen has also helped himself to a nice overcoat, I presume he thinks he will out shine some of our bachelors and I don't doubt it a bit.

Very few people have weak eyes from looking on the bright side of things.

Mr. Geo. Mazerall has helped himself to a coon coat.

Mr. John Foy of Hanwell has been calling on friends in this place.

Mr. Smith of Lincoln has passed through here, travelling for Mr. Van Burkhirk. He has nice goods and is a good salesman.

Mr. Lewis Mazerall, one of our oldest residents seems to be hale and hearty. He is in his eighties.

Mr. Geo. Mazerall has purchased a nice mare of Mr. Sam Boyle, Fredericton.

POLLARDS OPERA CO.

That great big, happy, clever company of youngsters, The Pollard Juvenile Opera Company, is due at the City Opera House for an engagement of two nights beginning Tuesday, January 7th. It has been six or seven years since this company appeared in this city, and the record then left by the little Australians is still fresh in the memories of thousands of delighted theatregoers. Of course the "Kiddies" are larger now but they are also experienced. The operas and musical comedies which they produce are among the most difficult in the category of the musical stage, but these little veterans handle every feature with fully cleverness as the grown-ups, who must really now look to their laurels.

Teddy McNamara, Willie Pollard, Eva Pollard and a host of other old time favorites will appear with the juveniles which comprises some thirty five members. The company will open their engagement with the musical comedy "The Toy Maker."

Richard Tankersly, first settler of Western Texas, who has just died at Tankersly the town in that State named after him, boasted that since he was 20 years of age he had never slept indoors.

DIAMOND DUST

Kid Gleason and Jack Doyle make a good pair to put "pepper" into the Chicago White Sox.

Wilson, Carey and Holman look to be about the right dope to form the Pittsburg outfield next season.

President Murphy of the Cubs, is sweet on "Stub" Hauser, and is willing to trade several of his players for the St. Louis star.

It looks as if Art Griggs, the Cleveland first baseman, is to become a victim of the axe in order to make room for "Doc" Johnston.

When Fenway Park, the home of the Boston champions, is ready for business next spring the fans will find a very generous allotment of 25-cent seats.

Pitcher Charles E. (Buster) Brown has sent in his 1913 contract to the Boston Nationals. Manager Stallings figures that "Buster" will be one of the Braves' stars next season.

Mr. R. J. Maxwell of the Fredericton & Grand Lake engineering staff, leaves for St. John tonight to spend New Year's Day.
