TAFT FAVORS

"When there is a difference that cannot be reconciled by international negotiation and adjustment, then we are entirely willing to submit it to an impartial tribunal. I am hopeful that we may get it either to a settlement or to a submission before the administration in which I have the honor to be a dissolving view, shall cease, but it may not be, because these negotiations move slowly. But I am glad to take this opportunity in this presence to say that if the time comes there will be no doubt about what I will do in respect to the submission of that question, as far as my power goes, to an impartial tribunal for its settlement, if that is necessary."

SAYS UNCLE SAM IS WRONG.

The President's remarks were apparently prompted by a declaration in a speech by Henry Claws, the banker, asserting that for President Taft's administration "to concede the right to arbitrate the difference would be a splendid achievement," but holding that "we are in the wrong and would most likely be defeated if it would go to The Hague for decision."

Referring to the Panama Canal treaty, the President who had said, at the outset of his remarks, that he rose "with mingled feelings of sorrow and pleasure," continued:

"My friend, Mr. Claws, differs with me and with the administration in the construction of that treaty. That is all right. I suppose questions before have arisen as to construction of contracts in which good honest people have seen on both sides Now that presents to me a very significant and useful example with respect to arbitration. A good many people are saying: 'Don't arbitrate because you are going to lose. This is our own canal and while England is making a point of it, England would not fight and therefore why give up when you are not likely to get an arbitration that will be satisfactory to you and your view of the construction.'"

"Now that, even if this view were correct as to probability of result, which I need not admit, is just the time when I am in favor of an arbitration. I mean that I have not gone about the country urging arbitration for the purpose of using that as a platform subject to attract the attention and approval of the audience."

"I hope I was more conscientious in advocating what I did advocate through the country on that head, and when I said to them that we never would have an arbitration that would be effective until we entered into an obligation that brought us into arbitration when we did not think we would win. That is the time to test your faith in that method of settlement."

DENOUNCES SENATE.

Mr. Taft warmly denounced the senate in connection with the defeat of the proposed arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France.

bers will try and put in an appearance and not neglect the business as they did last month and have to call three different meetings in the town lock-up in order to get enough members together to pass the monthly bills. It is rumored that Aldermen Brown and Gilbert have not yet filed their nomination papers and therefore are not entitled to take any part in the proceedings of the council and the action they took during the last session is not legal. An interesting topic to be discussed tomorrow night will be the bill of damages and costs entered by Mr. Charles McConaghey, ex-road commissioner, against the town, through the council, who discharged him. The suit is to recover $27 for sand the town took from Mr. McConaghey's property and used on the roads, also for rental of tools that were stored in his barn. Costs have been added to the bill, making the amount over $40. His Worship the Mayor, C. H. Hatt, was served with the bill by Mr. P. A. Guthrie of Fredericton. Mr. Hatt did not care to produce the bill and judgment was taken and costs added.

The church services were all well attended yesterday—a good beginning for the new year.

LATE MRS. HENRY HOWE

The funeral of the late Mrs. Henry Howe took place Sunday afternoon. The remains were taken to Geary where service was held in the Baptist Church and interment made.
