STAND FOR GAG METHODS*Strong Speech in the House of Commons
by Mr. Verville, Labor Member for Maisonneuve—Will Tell Labor Men of St. John and Halifax of Happenings in House—Hooted by the Tories

Ottawa, April 16—Reinforced by direct messages from 171 labor organizations in Canada representing some 80,000 artisans and mechanics, Mr. Alphonse Verville, Labor member from Maisonneuve, served notice upon the Government in a spirited speech tonight that labor in Canada definitely declined to submit to an arbitrary and unconstitutional gag methods not approved by the electors of Canada. "So strong is the feeling against this thing among the Labor interests which I represent here," said Mr. Verville, "that they have lost all confidence in the present Government. Labor knows the hurt of arbitrary methods and dictatorship. It is exactly what Labor will not stand for in this country, it is exactly what common sense people of all classes will not stand for in Canada, and it is exactly what their representatives in Parliament will not stand for."

WANT FAIR PLAY

"You have my sympathy Mr. Speaker," continued the Labor man. "I imagine the position you are going to be in if they call on you to enforce this thing especially in my case. I see the Premier and the Minister of Marine from St. John here. I want to play fair with them and tell them frankly what is going on in their ridings. If the government does not bring on the election too quickly I am going down to his constituency of St. John to meet the Labor men there, particularly the 1,200 Longshoremen to tell them exactly what transpired in this House last Wednesday and how good and kind the minister from St. John was to take from me the right that I had as their representative to make amendment to this iniquitous measure. I want to tell the Premier that I am accepting the same invitation from his riding of Halifax, and I shall tell the Labor men there the same story." Conservative hoots.)

NO "GAG" FOR LABOR

"Right gentlemen," responded Mr. Verville. "That is my intention, and when I make up my mind I have not seen any of you stop me, and the men of those cities won't gag me, they won't put any closure in force and there will be no moving of the previous question, and if either the Premier or Minister of Marine want to come there and move amendments they will be welcome." (Conservative hooting.)

"All right hoot away," replied Mr. Verville, and if this gag rule passes—" (Conservative here, hears.) "Yes, here, here" reiterated Mr. Verville, amid Liberal applause, "but remember this—you just try and apply it for me, when I am talking. You will learn that Russian rule is not for Canada."

Mr. Verville followed Hon. Charles Murphy, and was succeeded by Mr. Lapointe of Kamouraska.

Mr. F. M. Thompson has for a long time been Mr. Osman's right-hand man in the management; Mr. Joshua Ward, confidential clerk, is the son of Mr. James Ward, an old St. John friend of the writer, and Miss Blake is the stenographer of the company. M. McDADE.

THE HILLSBORO GYPSUM MILLS FINEST IN WORLD

ness had been established here for a great many years, and had a good reputation for its manufacture as well as for its general business methods, and it would have been a serious blow to the prosperity of Hillsboro had this inclination to refrain from rebuilding been carried out. A number of considerations finally decided the company to rebuild—not the least of which was, the hope and expectation that sooner or later the American market would be more easily available, owing to a reduction in the duty. "I may say that I think my own feeling of loyalty to the place had very considerable influence in the final decision of the company to rebuild," was Mr. Osman's modest way of speaking of his own potent efforts in favor of having the new mills built at this place. He added: "We have now a splendid mill, with a capacity of about 1,000 barrels per day, which affords occupation for a good many workmen, and which, I hope, will in the end prove profitable to the investors."

One of the quarries here consists of underground operation, in reality, mining, which is especially interesting to geologists, as the different varieties of gypsum are exposed, from the surface formation to the deepest point, and vary from pure white stone (which is the most valuable output of any of our quarries) to the very low grade, mixed rock, which is suitable only for Land Plaster. Geologists are especially interested in this working as it offers an illustration of the vagaries of gypsum more than any open quarry can yield.

The system of blasting is with dynamite, blockite or ordinary blasting powder. A hole is bored into the gypsum with a machine auger, a charge put in and tamped and fired with ordinary fuse, except in some cases where the shots are fired with an electrical battery.

The company are using the natural gas in their mills entirely now, and operating the underground working, also, with gas as fuel for hoisting, etc., with a total consumption of something over 200,000 feet per day. They find it more economical to use gas in making steam, than coal, but they find no saving in using gas for calcining, as compared with their old system of wood. This company has ten miles of railroad, two locomotives and about 200 cars.

Mr. Osman has been connected with the Albert Manufacturing Company for over thirty-five years, and is familiar with every detail of quarry and mill work. He is one of the most popular employers of labor in Canada and has a high appreciation of his associates in the management of the big concern of which he is the local head, as well as of the devotion and loyalty of his small army of foremen and other employees.
