BULGARIA'S RECORD IS EPITOME OF HISTORY

The history of nations is epitomized in the recent history of Bulgaria. To rise through sturdy patriotism and national and racial pride to greatness; and to fall, through arrogance, to great confidence, and overreaching greed—such has been the life of nations since nations began to be. But where the story has usually taken long centuries to tell the story of Bulgaria has been told in thirty-five years.

The end of Bulgaria is not yet. Bulgaria will live on and on. But her history is written. The history of the Roman empire ended before the centuries of Byzantine decadence. The history of Spain ended long ago, but the ghost of Spain still walks. The history of Venice has been written to the final chapter, but Venice still exists. There is yet a Turkish empire, but the story of the Turks is told.

The story of Bulgaria is remarkable for many things, but for nothing is it more remarkable than for its extreme brevity. Within half the span of years allotted to a man's lifetime this nation has achieved greatness and has kicked greatness away.

BEGAN IN 1878

The Bulgarian national existence began in 1878. The signatories of the treaty of Berlin recognized the new aspirations of the untutored Bulgarian tribesmen and granted them an autonomous government under Turkish suzerainty. Seven years later the Servians, alarmed at the progress of their upstart neighbor, aggressively made war and were overwhelmingly defeated. Shortly thereafter Bulgaria took over the government of eastern Roumania, thereby nearly doubling her area. In 1908 the Bulgarian prince, without adding the permission of the Powers, formally threw off the shadowy Turkish suzerainty and declared himself independent czar. In 1912 Bulgarian took the leadership of the Balkan allies and by a brilliant campaign practically drove the Turks out of Europe.

RAPID ADVANCE

All this time the Bulgarian nation and the Bulgarian people had been advancing at a marvellously rapid pace. The wild and illiterate tribesmen of 1878 had been succeeded by an educated and intelligent generation. There was miraculous progress made in every line, but the military progress made was most amazing. The Bulgarian advance from 1878 to 1913 was an advance from nothingness to a position of power and honor among the nations of the world.

FAIL AS RAPID

But if the rise of Bulgaria was unprecedented, her fall has been rapid beyond belief. It has required scarcely two months for greed and arrogance to lay low a nation which seemed established for centuries to come.

Patriotism, perseverance and a national ambition spurred Bulgaria to her greatness. She has fallen almost as far in a day as other erring and sinning nations have fallen in the gradual processes of time, and her fall is deserved. Herself not a generation removed from Turkish oppression, she essayed the tactics of the irresponsible bully.

Today Bulgaria is begging for peace; two months ago she was the product of nations.

Bulgaria, like Rome and like Spain thought she was too great to be vanquished. She was contemptuous of opposition. The Servians, so soundly beaten by her in 1885, appeared to be an inferior people; while the Greeks had been traditional and not formidable foes ever since the separation of the Greek and Bulgarian churches some years before the first dawn of Bulgarian independence. Surely these States possessed no rights which a great new victorious nation was bound to respect. The attitude of Bulgaria toward these smaller nations was like the attitude of Rome toward some temporarily useful barbarian ally. The work on hand accomplished, the next step was to mulct or crush the ally.

Bulgarian's reward for patriotism and zealous devotion came speedily, her punishment for selfishness and unwarrantable ambition has descended upon her with the swiftness of a thunderbolt.

The history of the world, as it may be read in Bulgaria's little tale of thirty-five years, is a tale full of useful morals for individuals as well as for nations.

14 YEARS FOR FATAL JOY RIDE

Chicago, July 26—Fred Hrodek, a 23-year-old chauffeur, took his employer's automobile on March 19th without his employer's knowledge, and, accompanied by Fred Cordes, went joy riding. They stopped at a number of saloons and drank liquor.

While speeding through Austin at fifty miles an hour, they ran down and killed Patrick J. Condon. Last night Hrodek was convicted of murder and sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary. Cordes, who showed he was only a passenger, was acquitted. Two members of the jury owned motor cars.

Hrodek's heartlessness went a long way to convict him. He asked the spectators not to overturn his car in removing the body as he was certain that the man was dead.

"I didn't mean to do it," he sobbed on the stand. "My brakes would not work and I struck the man trying to avoid a street car."

He was under the influence of liquor when arrested. This is the second conviction for murder of a motor car driver in Chicago.

HELPLESS CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

Toronto Lady Took "Fruit-a-lives" And Cured Herself.

4 HOME PLACE, TORONTO, DEC. 15th, 1909
"I was a helpless cripple from Rheumatism for nearly a year. All down the right side the pain was dreadful and I could not move for the agony. I was treated by two physicians without benefit. I saw 'Fruit-a-lives' advertised and decided to try them. After taking one box, I was much better."

When I had taken three boxes, I could use my arm and the pain was almost gone.

After taking five boxes, I was entirely well again. The cure of my case by "Fruit-a-lives" was indeed splendid because all the doctors failed to even relieve me. "Fruit-a-lives" cured me."

HAWK SPOILS A GOLFER'S DRIVE

New York, July 26—After making a long shot from the tee on the Hackensack golf links, H. O. Yerkes yesterday watched the ball as it sped through the air. It was one of those drives which the average player thinks he ought to make all the time.

Mr. Yerkes had not bargained for interference with the ball and he was amazed to see a big hawk follow the white speck. When the ball fell to the fair green the hawk was seen to alight on it and carry it away. Mr. Yerkes was dumfounded, as also was his opponent, George W. Lyle. But even they had not bargained on evil intentions of the bird. Therefore they were still more surprised when the bird dropped the ball further down the fair green, but in a very bad spot in a bunker. Mr. Yerkes was displeased that such a fine drive had been spoiled but his friend was somewhat gratified.

Mr. Yerkes thought he ought to be permitted to put the ball back where it landed before the bird picked it up but Mr. Lyle declared that he thought his opponent ought to let his ball lie where it was and count an extra shot. However it was determined that it was a rub of the green and Mr. Yerkes took more than one to get out of the bunker.

Moncton Transcript—There is a revolt among the Conservatives in the eastern portion of Westmorland county, as well as the western. One of the hitherto most pronounced and leading Conservatives in a leading parish the other day publicly stated that he had never cast a Liberal vote in his life, but at the coming general election he proposed to vote for Henry R. Emmerson, because he was the only dominion representative we have had since the death of Sir Albert Smith, who did anything for the County of Westmorland. One of his friends said:—"Oh, you will not vote for him," and the Conservative replied:—"Yes, I will." There are hundreds just like him throughout the County of Westmorland.
