BABIES SORES

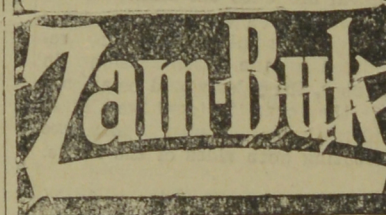

Every mother should realize that the skin of her baby is so tender that the secretions of the body often lead to rashes, eruptions, etc., all of which may be removed by Zam-Buk. Scores of restless, crying babies, upon examination, are found to be suffering from some form of skin irritation or "heat." Don't let the little one suffer when Zam-Buk will cure!

Mrs. L. Hood, of 475 Alexander Avenue, Winnipeg, says: "I have proved the value of Zam-Buk when applied to children's sores. Some nasty sores broke out around my baby's mouth, and despite all the preparations used, they refused to heal. I took him to St. Boniface hospital and he remained there for two weeks. At the end of that time he was no better, and we again took him home. I was then advised to try Zam-Buk and obtained a supply. The effect of the first few applications was very gratifying, and I continued with the use of the balm. A little perseverance resulted in a complete cure."

Scars of similar cases could be quoted. Zam-Buk is absolutely pure—contains no harsh, irritating poisons. It is the ideal balm for baby.

Zam-Buk cures eczema, rashes, ringworm, chapped hands, scurvy, heat rashes, cuts, burns, ulcers, discharging sores and all skin injuries and diseases. See box, all drug stores and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Don't take the risk of using harmful imitations!

Addresses then will be delivered setting forth the principles of the congress. Sectional meetings for the discussion of various questions affecting the welfare and progress of the Catholic Church will be held every day in St. John's Cathedral and in some of larger churches. The last and crowning function of the congress will take place Sunday morning when an immense procession will march from the cathedral to Floriana where the benediction will be imparted from a tribune erected in the avenue outside Porta Peale. SOME STATISTICS ON CANADA'S FIELD CROPS

Ottawa April 17—A bulletin issued by the Census and Statistics Office states, that according to reports made by correspondents at the end of March, 92 p.c. of last year's wheat crop in Canada, i.e., 183,611,000 bushels out of the total estimated production of 199,236,000 bushels proved to be of merchantable quality. In the Maritime Provinces, in Quebec and in Ontario the proportions were smaller than this, being 88 p.c., in Prince Edward Island, 86 p.c., in Nova Scotia 82 p.c., in New Brunswick 75 p.c., in Quebec and 83 p.c., in Ontario; but in the three Northwest provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, where the bulk of the wheat crop is produced, the percentage of merchantable quality was in each case about 93 per cent. In British Columbia the quality proving merchantable was only about 76 p.c., but in this province the total production was exceedingly small.

It is estimated that about 22 p.c. of the total wheat crop in Canada viz., 41,668,000 bushels, remained in farmers' hands on March 31 as compared with 27 p.c. representing 58,129,000 bushels of the crop of 1911 which remained in farmers' hands on March 31, 1912. The quantity of wheat estimated as remaining in farmers' hands on March 31, 1913, was in the Maritime Provinces, 336,000, in Quebec 350,000, in Ontario 3,232,000 in the three Northwest provinces 40,704,000 and in British Columbia 46,000 bushels.

Oats the estimated yield of which was last year 361,733,000 bushels was of merchantable quality to the extent of 91 p.c., or 328,483,000 bushels and the quantity remaining in farmers' hands was 44,22 p.c., or 159,948,000 bushels as compared with last year's figure of 89 p.c. merchantable, or 310,074,000 bushels and 44.18 p.c. or 153,846,000 bushels in farmers' hands on March 31, 1912. The proportions merchantable of the crop of 1912 were by provinces: Prince Edward Island 93 p.c., 687,000 bushels, Nova Scotia 87 p.c., 2,753,000 bushels, New Brunswick, 86 p.c., 4,312,000 bushels, Quebec 73 p.c., 22,016,000 bushels, Ontario 83 p.c., 76,374,000 bushels, Manitoba 99 p.c., 53,171,000 bushels, Saskatchewan, 94 p.c., 99,239,000 bushels, Alberta 99 p.c., 62,193,999 bushels, and British Columbia 80 p.c., 1,568,000 bushels.

Of the total barley crop of 44,014,000 bushels it is estimated that 87 p.c., or 38,299,000 bushels were of merchantable quality and that 35 p.c., or 15,404,000 bushels, remained in the hands of farmers at the end of March. The corresponding figures for last year were 90.26 p.c. or 36,683,000 bushels merchantable, and 32.56 p.c., or 13,235,000 bushels in farmers' hands on March 31, 1912. The bulk of the barley crop is produced in Ontario and Manitoba. In the former province 12,001,000 bushels or 81 p.c., and in the latter 13,416,000 bushels or 90 p.c., was of merchantable quality.

The merchantable yield of corn for husking was 76 p.c., of the total crop of buckwheat 81 p.c., of flaxseed 89 p.c., of potatoes, 78 p.c., of turnips and other roots, 90 p.c., of hay and clover 81 p.c. The quantities on hand at March 31 were: corn 3,969,000 bushels, flaxseed 5,803,000 bushels, potatoes 35,097,000 bushels, turnips and other roots 18,884,000 bushels and hay and clover 3,444,000 tons.

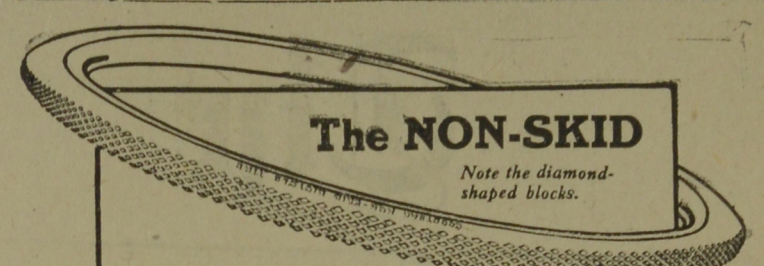

As a general rule live stock wintered well and their average condition for all Canada expressed in a percentage of 100 representing a healthy and thrifty state was for horses 95, milch cows, 53, other cattle 91, sheep 25 and swine 94. In the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Ontario, the winter proved exceptionally mild; and with an abundance of fodder, all descriptions of farm live stock came well through. In the Northwest provinces live stock did well on the whole but in many localities cattle suffered through the lack of prairie hay, which was spoiled by last year's heavy rains. Many deaths amongst young pigs were attributed to the cold farrowing season. The winter proved long and cold in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, but was unusually mild and open in Alberta.

Indications at the end of March were for an early spring and sowing season throughout the eastern part of Canada; but in the Northwest provinces, where deep snows and severe cold persisted during March, it was anticipated that sowing would be late. With few exceptions the fall wheat in southern Ontario was reported to be in fine condition. It was too early to report on the fall wheat of Alberta.

THE NEW U. S. TARIFF AND ITS EFFECT

(Economist in Toronto Saturday Night)

Through the general feeling of satisfaction in Canada over the provisions of the tariff bill now being considered at Washington, runs a discordant note. Certain politicians and journals have pointed out the great sagacity shown by Canadians a few years ago in refusing to grant the United States reciprocity in certain products, the wisdom of this act being shown in the likelihood that the United States is now about to give Canada for nothing, all that Canada was to have received by way of quid pro quo for tariff concessions to the United States.

This sort of talk is neither intelligent nor dignified. The United States is not a philanthropist. If any Canadian is simple enough to imagine that she is giving Canada something for nothing, let him be undeceived. Let him get it into his head at once, in preference to a decade hence, that when a people lower their tariff they are not doing it to help anyone but themselves. If anyone else is benefitted thereby, so much the better—it contributes to international good feeling and minimizes the expenditure on soldiers and navies. But any advantage which Canada may receive from this lowering of the tariff will be merely incidental, just as would be advantages which would come to the United States if Canada were to lower her tariff. The only difference is, that after many long years experience with tariffs low and tariffs high, the United States seems to have reached the place where she is convinced that the tariff is largely responsible for the high cost of living, for the maintenance of graft and special privilege; and for the great inequalities in wealth in the republic. Canada, apparently, does not see it that way yet.

It is not greatly to be wondered at then, that the United States in her own interest wholly, has decided to pull down the tariff. She would naturally prefer that Canada would pull down hers also, but whether Canada pulls hers down or not makes no difference. The important point is to place herself as quickly as possible, by a lowering of the duties, in a position to take advantage of the best markets. If Canada happens to be one of these, Canada will suit her purpose as well as England or Germany or China. England, of course, has long been an exponent of this view, so that she has nothing to alter. As to Canada or Germany or China, if these countries prefer to maintain their walls so as to keep our competition, they are, from the standpoint of the United States, placing themselves just that much farther behind in the race. Time, no doubt, will tell which is the more correct attitude, that adopted by Canada or that being adopted by the United States.

But even were we in some mysterious manner getting something from the United States, yet giving nothing in return, it should not be very satisfactory to our national dignity to dwell particularly on that phase of the matter. In the final analysis there are only two classes of individuals getting something for nothing, namely, thieves and beggars. If any of us have the misfortune to belong to one or both classes, we should at least have the good taste to say nothing about it instead of thrusting ourselves forward, as some of these politicians and newspapers have done, to declaim with pride upon our qualifications. If we really hold the view that the United States is assisting us at her own expense, and if we do not wish to indulge in any reciprocity in the matter, let us at least accept in thanks and modesty.

As already stated, however, no one is giving something for nothing. What is more, this way we have of talking about the trade which goes between one country and another as being national or international leads to much trouble and misunderstanding. To talk of Canada trading with the United States is, nine times out of ten, to indicate that we use the language loosely and think loosely. Unfortunately, for statistical and other purposes, it becomes necessary apparently, to use phraseology of this nature, but it is generally utterly misleading. There is no such thing and cannot be any such thing, as one nation trading with another. It is nothing subterfuge nor mere technicality to make this statement, nor is it of small importance. Only individuals trade with each other, and the motives underlying trading in Canada are exactly the same as those in the United States or the centre of Africa. We trade with each other because it is advantageous so to do, and when we talk of the disadvantage of trading with the Yankee or the Englishman or German and the way the foreigner always gets the advantage of us, we are talking rot, and the next blue book will show that we are. After all the hot air which is exuded over the manner in which the foreigner. Nor does he compel us to buy from him. The actual transaction is always the same. He offers the good through advertisements, correspondence or agents we compare them with other goods of a similar nature and we buy those which, desirability considered, we deem the cheapest. We sell goods in exactly the same manner. Then we go away and talk about trade between Canada and the United States as though it were something separate and distinct from the trade just described.

Every trade classed as international was a trade between individuals and on neither side was there any other consideration than advantage. But not for one minute did this mean that either got the advantage of the other. It meant the very opposite, because the other fellow, whether fellow countryman or foreigner, has just as much sense, knowledge and honesty or other qualities as we have. He would not trade with us if it involved that we got the advantage of him. The advantage we get is the advantage he gets, namely, that each receives that which the other wants to part with, and each parts with that which the other wants to receive. Not infrequently one or both may be deceived in the goods dealt in, but that has nothing to do with the question.

CANADA'S INTEREST.

That Canada will be much affected by the proposed changes in the American tariff there can be no question, though this was no part of the consideration so far as the United States was concerned. If iron ore goes on the free list, no doubt much Canadian iron ore will be shipped to the United States. This will mean in all probability that the amount of the tariff on ore will be divided between importer and exporter. We
