MEXICAN TROOPS

slightly wounded. The minister of war, General Garcia Pena, received a minor injury of the head.

At the first call to arms President Madero took command of a force of approximately 1,000, consisting of mounted police, Chapultepec cadets and a small detachment of volunteers.

The attack on the National Palace found the government not altogether unprepared. Riding at the head of their troops, Generals Diaz and Reyes approached from the east into the Zocalo, the big square in front of the palace. General Reyes appeared for the first time in many months in the uniform of a general, but Diaz was clothed in the ordinary blue sack suit and soft grey hat of a citizen. Quickly the invading forces assumed positions around the square which soon was clouded with the smoke from their rifles. Immediately from the palace came an answering fire. The defenders of the palace were using rifles and machine guns.

When the fighting in the Zocalo ceased, ambulances of the Red and White Cross engaged in the work of picking up the dead and succoring the wounded. The plaza, an area of four city blocks, was strewn with the bodies of men and horses. Within the palace there were few victims but Colonel Morales, one of the most loyal of Madero's adherents, was killed.

MUTINOUS OFFICERS EXECUTED.

General Gregorio Ruiz, a retired officer, two captains and three lieutenants were executed in the patio of the national palace. It is officially reported that this was by order of the government but another story is that they were killed by a detachment of their own men because they opposed their joining in the revolt. Added to this is the report that these mutinous troops were overpowered and disarmed. The Red and White Cross ambulances carried the wounded to provisional hospitals, where, investigation showed, there were almost as many victims among civilians as among the soldiers.

Outside of the fighting between the two opposing sides there was little disorder and tonight the streets are patrolled by rebel troops. Diaz succeeded in capturing the arsenal after a strong resistance by the federals. A large number of rurales and mounted police then went over to his cause. Later an artillery company from the Acapulco with a dozen field guns rode into the arsenal grounds shouting for Diaz.

It is reported that revolutionary movements have begun in other places and the Zapatistas are said to be fighting a short distance south of the capital.

MR. KILBURN

He had been over the site of the proposed dam many times. He knew the Meductic Falls at that place with proper sluiceways for logs, sheer booms, etc. alone it would be of less damage than the present natural obstructions. It would not create a dead water, as long as the water ran over the top of the dam, and he thought there would always be a flow of water over the dam. It would also help to flood a sand bar above which has always caused trouble.

All the lumbermen were not opposed to the dam. To Mr. Gregory he said he was not retiring from the lumber business and would approve the dam if he were to continue in business twenty years.

To Mr. Taylor he said he was not interested in the power project but he thought the development of cheap power would be a benefit to the country generally. He admitted a difference in the effect of dams erected for driving purposes and a power dam.

If they would let the water out of the dam to help drives which had passed, which he did not know they would do, it would help the drives. Loose logs would pass through and a sluiceway could be built which would allow rafts to pass over. There had been some vagueness regarding the exact site of the dam and Mr. Kilburn said that it was to be at the foot of Meductic Falls where a point runs out from the left side going down, three-quarters of a mile below the mouth of the Shogomoc River.

A dam at Grand Falls with a proper sluice for logs would have a good effect. At present many logs were broken up and detained there. He would recommend a dam at Grand Falls for the benefit of the lumber men.

If the proposed dam at the Meductic Falls were only twelve feet instead of twenty-five feet high it would not be of as much value to lumber men.

The witness would recommend the erection of dams at Baker Lake, Northwest Rapids, Priestly Rapids, Big Black Rapids and Big Rapids for the improvement of log driving, and also a storage dam at Temiscouata Lake to improve the flow of water.

BORDEN CAPITULATES TO NATIONALISTS

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 7—The Hon. G. P. Graham, M.P., for South Renfrew, last night, renewed the acquaintance of his former Brockville constituents at a Liberal rally, held in the town hall, which was well attended. The former Minister of Railways and Canals, was supported by Dr. Beland, ex-Postmaster-General, and Senator Derbyshire. The naval question was the subject that occupied greatest consideration, both Mr. Graham and Dr. Beland adhering to the line of argument adopted by the Liberal opposition at Ottawa.

They charged the Prime Minister, in changing his attitude in 1909, which was then for a Canadian navy, to a direct contribution now, was guilty of a capitulation to the Nationalist sentiment, which controlled the election campaign of 1911, and still holds the whiphand over the Government. The contention was also made that there was no emergency.

Mr. Graham intimated that he would fight to the bitter end against the changes of the National Transcontinental grades.

References were made to the revision of the Bank Act by Senator Derbyshire, and Mr. Graham. The latter said that in committee he would insist that the Banking laws be changed to make it clear that the Bank Act does not override the provincial act, which gives workmen preference for his wage over 'secret liens,' a procedure now followed in banking.

The anthracite miners averaged more working time in 1911 than the bituminous miners, working 246 days, against 211 days for the bituminous miners.

In Winnipeg, Man., classes in building construction and steel square have been instituted by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.
