"In the Case of MY Little Girl—"

In choosing and using a soap for your "Little Fairy" you will find no soap so mild, so neutral, so agreeable to tender skins as FAIRY SOAP.

Being made from products that you could eat, FAIRY SOAP agrees with even the tender skin of a babe.

FAIRY SOAP

is white—pure—floating. It comes in a handy oval cake. We could charge you five times the price asked for FAIRY SOAP and we could add nothing to its quality.

In higher-priced soaps you are paying for high-priced perfume and fancy wrappers—not better soap.

WOODBURN'S VOCALIZINGS CAUSE OF HIS RELEASE

Cincinnati, O., January 27.—"The mystery of the Wandering Voice," or "Why Woodburn Got the Hook," This thrilling title, so says Bill Sweeney, might justly be prefixed to the romantic story of Eugene Woodburn, until recently a pitcher for the Cardinals, and whose firing, it is alleged, was about the last official act of Roger Bresnahan. It will all so explain why Woodburn got the prong so suddenly, after being carried nearly two seasons without much parable excuse. "Gene Woodburn," says Mr. Sweeney, "is a ventriloquist, and far better than any of the voice throwers I have ever heard in vaudeville. He also has a strongly developed sense of humor and combined the two qualities last summer to the intense discomfiture of Roger Bresnahan. Roger always sat on a little extension to the St. Louis bench, and Woodburn would locate near the other end. Pretty soon a coarse, rough-necked sort of a voice would growl in Roger's ear: 'Say, Bresnahan why don't you get in the game? Roger would pick up his ears, scowl and try to figure out who could be making the remark. Then the voice would sound again: 'You four-flusher, what right have you got to call yourself a manager? And Roger would hop up and down on the bench. Pretty soon the mysterious voice would make some remarks concerning Roger's ancestry, place of future destination, and personal habits. By this time Bresnahan would be about dippy and would run around in circles, glaring

Skip "Chip" Olive Changed Probable Tie to Victory by Making Six-end on His Last Shot-- Some Great Curling and much Excitement

It was not until the last stone was curled last night that the Thistles of St. John won out from the tles of St. John won out from the Fredericton Curlers in the five-rink match played yesterday. To Skip "chip" Olive of the Thistles fell the honor of winning the match. Skip R. F. Randolph Ras lying one on the last end and if that one remained the score would be tied 7 to 7. Skip Olive took the shot against him out and made a six-end doing so. To say that the Thistles yelled is putting it mildly.

The match was one of the closest and most exciting ever played on Fredericton ice. The excitement all developed in the evening, however, for the two Thistle rinks which played in the afternoon ended with a margin of 18 points against them. In the evening Skip "Johnnie" Malcolm of the Thistles ran away from Skip "Chipper" Hatt of Fredericton and almost made up for the points lost in the afternoon. Skip Hawthorn of Fredericton lost to Skip Chesley 21 to 13, the St. John rink doing its greatest damage with a fatal six-end near the close of the match. Skip Olive was being beaten by Skip Randolph and upon the play of these rinks the match depended. The last play began with Randolph leading by six points and ended as described before.

The score by rinks was as follows:

WOODBURN'S VOCALIZINGS CAUSE OF HIS RELEASE

into the stand in search of the mysterious tormentor. One day, noticing that Woodburn had nothing to do, Roger capped the climax by asking him, as a personal favor, to go up into the stand and see if he could locate the insulting individual. Woodburn almost choked, faithfully searched the pavilion, returning with the report that he couldn't find the guy. One day when we were playing in St. Louis, Hub Purdue was warming 'up, and the mysterious voice boomed out: 'If that stiff of a Purdue wins 'the game, I'll bounce a rock off his head.' Purdue looked around, and saw Woodburn nearby. 'Say, Woodie' wailed Purdue, 'who was that?' 'Why that was a bad kid, a tough guy. liable to hurt you, sure.' Purdue began practising and the voice spoke up again: 'That's on the level, now—If this big gorilla Purdue itches and beats St. Louis, I'll kill him.' 'Gtrat Moses,' cried Purdue, 'I think he means it! I gotta get a look at him!' And Purdue, running to the dressing room, began peering through the windows, up and down the walk trying to locate his enemy. The mysterious voice called Johnny Evers a little crab and a human wart one day, and Evers galloped up and the front of the pavilion shaking his fist for 10 minutes. There's no knowing how long it would have lasted, but Bresnahan caught Woodie with the good' on him one day late in the season—and now Louisville is to have the benefit of Gene Woodburn and his mysterious vocalizings."

GOVERNOR GENERAL TO SEE HOCKEY MATCH TOMORROW

Vote on Retention of Seven-Men Hockey Being Taken by Wire--- Defeat Expected

Montreal, Feb. 6.—For the first time in his life the Duke of Connaught is going to see a professional hockey match. His Royal Highness has been an occasional spectator at amateur games in Ottawa but has never been persuaded to see a game as played by professional teams. He has decided however to visit the Montreal arena on Saturday night when the Tecumsehs and Wanderers will play The National Hockey Association fans have probably seen their last seven men hockey for this season. After last night's games, President T. Emmett Quinn decided that during today he would call a telegraphic vote among the six clubs of the league on the matter. The result of the vote looks like a foregone conclusion.

The Wanderers, Quebec, Canadiens and Toronto are in favor of a return to the six men style; Tecumseh is doubtful and Ottawa is frankly in favor of the seven men game. The playing of last Saturday's games has demonstrated pretty clearly that if any change in the number of players in the teams should be made at all it should be made at the beginning of a season and not in the middle.

The attendance has started to fall off with the seven men game, however, six men hockey is likely to be restored at next Saturday's games.
