NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 26—The situation with regards to the attitude of the United States toward Mexico is expected to be brought to a focus early in the week, when Minister Wilson will arrive in Washington to confer with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. Minister Wilson will be quizzed as to the strength of the Huerta Government, the extent and character of the revolutionary movement and the real facts concerning the outrages in which Americans and their property are alleged to have fallen victims. Either intervention or some form of recognition of the Huerta Government is expected to follow this conference.

Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and the two minor parties are to engage in a primary Monday to select candidates for congressmen from the Third Maine district, to succeed the late Congressman Forrest Goodwin. The political situation in the district is full of interesting possibilities. The late Congressman Goodwin, Republican, was elected last September over Gould, Democrat the sitting member, by a plurality of only 709. At that time the Progressive party had no candidate in the field. In the coming election the Progressives will have a candidate of their own, and the result is expected to show to some extent the relative strength of the three parties.

Other events that will figure more or less prominently in the news of the week will include the Perry centennial celebration at Toledo, the international peace celebration at Fort Erie, Ont., the charter election in Cincinnati, the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchange in Winnipeg, and the constitutional amendment demonstration scheduled to take place in Washington on Thursday, and which will be participated in by delegations of suffragists from all parts of the country.

On the calendar of sporting and athletic events appear the Grand Circuit races at Grand Rapids, the annual horse show at Long Branch, N. J., the sailing yacht and motor boat races at Toledo and Put-in-Bay, a big athletic meet in connection with the laying of the corner-stone for the new home of the Minneapolis Athletic Club, the "Canadian Henley" rowing regatta at St. Catharines, Ont., and the championship races of the Canadian Canoe Association at St. Johns Que.
