GIANTS' RECRUIT SUCCUMBS TO ATTACK OF APPENDICITIS

Tom Hanley, Promising Young Pitcher, Operated Upon at Marlin and Died in the Hospital

Marlin, Tex., March 9.—The heavy hand of death was laid on Manager McGraw's big baseball family early this morning when Tom Hanley, a young pitcher who had shown much promise, succumbed to the effects of an operation for acute appendicitis performed Saturday afternoon.

Hanley died shortly after seven o'clock this morning in a physician's office across the street from the hotel. He was conscious for about three hours before death and bravely waited the end after a priest had administered the last rites of the church.

Shortly after Hanley died Wilbert Robinson telephoned the news to McGraw, who ordered that no expense be spared in sending the body back to the dead youth's home in Marletta, O.

RED SOX STARS JOIN HOT SPRINGS TRAINING CAMP

Tris Speaker, Among Latest Addition
---Ray Collins on the Way Touted as Great Pitcher

Hot Springs, Ark., March 9.—There was some reception about five o'clock this evening when the brightest stars of the Boston Red Sox arrived with several war correspondents and royal rooters.

The first to appear was Tristram Speaker, wearing a soft white felt hat and a Texas sunset smile. Then came Duffy Lewis, Larry Gardner, Capt. Charles Wagner, Steve Yerkes, Duke Farrell, wreathed in smiles; Neal Ball, Harold Janvrin, Carlstrom and Scott, two young short-stops; Mike McDonough of Lewiston; Bill Sheridan and the correspondents. Lewis joined the party at Memphis and Tris Speaker boarded the train at Little Rock.

Joe Burns, the Taunton roofer, remained too long at lunch and missed connections at Memphis but is due here tonight. Jake Stahl's father and Mr. Mahan of Chicago, arrived about the same time for a two weeks' visit.

All the party were feeling fine and delighted to be at the training camp once more. Ray Collins is on the way.

The players are all rooting hard for Collins as an asset.

"Why," said one of them today, "Collins is the one pitcher who can beat the Athletics for us and that looks like the club that we will have to fight the hardest."

The men here now are Catchers Carrigan, Nunamaker, Thomas and Cady; Pitchers Wood, O'Brien, Hall, Bedford, Leonard, Moseley, Foster, Ainsworth, Watkins, Brant and Martina; Infielders Stahl, Yerkes, Wagner, Gardner, Janvrin, Ball, Carlstrom, Engle and Scott; Outfielders Lewis, Speaker, Hooper and Henriksen. Pres. McAleer is expected tomorrow evening.

New Market, Ont., March 8.—Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King received the unanimous federal nomination Saturday afternoon at the largest convention of the North York Liberal Association in its history.

T. C. Robinette, in withdrawing in favor of Mr. King, said that since coming into the meeting he had almost been tempted to change his mind.

"I feel it my duty, however, to stand aside when such a man of sterling ability as Mr. King is available. I will stand behind Mr. King if he needs me, as Sir Alan Aylesworth stood so nobly behind me at the last election."

W. S. FIELDING'S REPLY TO THE LONDON TELEGRAPH

(London Daily Telegraph)
To the Editor of The Daily Telegraph:

Sir—The footnote to my letter, which you kindly published on Wednesday, and your leading article of today, suggest to me that, in my desire for brevity and to avoid anything like a discussion of the Canadian Government's naval proposal, I have left you under an erroneous impression. If I have done so I should be glad to be allowed to remove it.

You remark that I do not "definitely deny that the Radical M. P.'s who have been making efforts to undermine the naval policy of the Canadian Prime Minister have been 'working in close association' with me. As to that, it seemed to me that if I made denial on my own behalf it was as much as I had a right to do. I thought that those other persons—if they existed—might be left to speak for themselves if they wished to do so.

In your article today you speak of Radical members doing certain things "in the hope of embarrassing the Canadian Government responsible to the Parliament at Ottawa," "intriguing to undermine the stability of the Canadian Government," "to assist the Liberal party in the Dominion." If there are any members of the British Parliament, Radical or non-Radical, having these dreadful aims, let me assure you, not only that I have not met them, but that I never heard of them except through your no reason to suppose that any considerable number of persons on this side of the Atlantic have been lying awake at night thinking of how they could promote the interests of "the Liberal party in the Dominion." There is, I am glad to know, among men of all parties, a warm interest in Canada, and a cordial desire that the Dominion shall prosper as an important member of the Empire. During my visit to this country I have had the pleasure of meeting many members of both House of Parliament, of all shades of political opinion. In no case have I volunteered any views on the Canadian naval question. When information has been sought, or my opinions invited, I have responded to the best of my knowledge and judgment. I have met members who—approaching the question, not from a Canadian Liberal point of view, not from any other Canadian point of view, but from what they claimed to be an English and an Imperial point of view—expressed grave doubt as to the wisdom of the proposed arrangement between the Imperial and Canadian Governments. I have met no member at Parliament who assumes the attitude described by you towards the Canadian Government.

Your statement that "the outgoing (Canadian) Administration had made little or no effective program with the naval scheme of a local Navy," is a great temptation to further remark, but I must resist. Yours faithfully,

W. S. FIELDING.

Brown's Hotel, Dover Street, W., Feb. 13.
(We need only add that it is a fact, although apparently Mr. Fielding is not aware of it, that a considerable number of Radical members have been working on the lines indicated, and have interviewed the Prime Minister and the First Lord of the Admiralty.)

1891—France consented to arbitration of the Newfoundland fisheries dispute.

MOOSE JAW WILL GO AFTER ALLAN CUP

SPEAKER SPROULE AS AN OBSTRUCTIONIST

(Toronto Globe.)

In April, 1896, the present occupant of the Speaker's chair in the House of Commons at Ottawa was engaged in the task of talking out the Remedial Bill by which Sir Charles Tupper sought to restore separate schools in Manitoba. The bill was talked out and the country, when appealed to on the issue, buried the Tupper government beneath a huge adverse majority. The "obstructionists" of 1896 had no one in their ranks more fertile of resource than Mr. Speaker Sproule. Does he remember how during that historic hold-up of the Remedial Bill he spoke thirteen times in committee, and was still going strong when the end came? Here is one of those speeches. Does Dr. Sproule remember it?

"Now, I have here a series of the books used in those schools and from a cursory examination I regard them as very suitable for children. I take Sadler's First Reader. If I would be in order in going through these books I would gladly do it because they contain some very valuable information which I presume this House would like to hear. This book commences by giving the alphabet—the A, B, C—which is the same as we have in the common schools, because as a boy I remember going over these same letters. Then we have some beautiful pictures. The first is that of an axe and below is the spelling, 'A-x-e,' commencing with a capital 'A,' because the compiler thinks it well to teach spelling with the aid of pictures. It might be assumed that this axe was for the purpose of splitting wood, which would bring up the question of cooking, for the compiler evidently had in view the imparting of knowledge to the budding intellects of the juveniles who used this book. Then we have a picture of a bell. That bell might be for calling you to dinner."

Mr. Deputy Speaker—"I do not think the hon. gentleman should go through all that."

Mr. Sproule—"I do not propose to go through it all because if I did I would have a job that would be too much for my strength. But I am merely referring to them to show the kind of work which the Advisory Board has to perform. For that purpose I shall only refer cursorily to a few of them in order to show that the Advisory Board of the Department of Education under the Manitoba Act can do the work equally as well, if not better, than the board created by this bill. I take up the Second Reader."

Mr. Foster—"Order."

Mr. Sproule—"I simply wish to show what the board can do."

Mr. Deputy Speaker—"The hon. gentleman should confine himself to the amendment and not give us a dissertation on these books."

Mr. Sproule—"I am not proposing to do so because that would take up too much time. I am only referring to the educational series of the elementary schools of Ontario to show how easy it would be for the Advisory Board to select the books required and thus save the expense of the additional board."

And so on, and so on, and so on.

That was real obstruction. Does Mr. Speaker Sproule remember the days of Ninety-six?
