LIBERALS WILL NOT SUBMIT TO GAG RULE AT OTTAWA

minister had got his Churchill statement.

Mr. White replied that he read it from a cable to The Montreal Star whereupon the Red Deer man produced the full text of Mr. Churchill's speech on the occasion in question and read the sentence in question, showing that Mr. Churchill had distinctly stated that these vessels were not necessary to maintain the required supremacy. "Churchill could not have said anything else," commented Dr. Clark, "without impeaching himself. Let this be a lesson to an inexperienced politician not to base his position on the untruthful cables inspired by a ring of international jingoes. Most of us read the cable from which my hon. friend quoted, but none of us believed it."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he proceeded, did not know what had gone on in his absence when members of the Liberal party were discussing the issue in continuous sitting of the house, and the varied positions they took. Some favored the Laurier fleet unit policy; some favored no policy at all. Dr. Pugsley had driven the chariot in the absence of the real charioteer.

LAURIER LAUDS PUGSLEY

"I think he did nobly," observed Sir Wilfrid, amid renewed Liberal cheering.

"While the real charioteer was away the make-shift charioteer nearly wrecked his party," persisted the finance minister.

"He more nearly wrecked the government," put in Mr. Carvell, while the Liberals cheered again.

Mr. White persisted that it was no disparagement of the Canadian people to say they could not build dreadnoughts. The British Admiralty had stated that some of the smaller vessels might be built in Canada.

Mr. Macdonald asked whether it was proposed to put these smaller vessels in a Canadian navy.

Mr. White replied amid Liberal laughter, that he was "unable to say."

DR. CLARK.

The Borden policy, Dr. Clark, who followed, maintained was not an imperial policy much less a Canadian policy. It was a Churchill-Malay policy. It committed Canada's destiny in the matter of her naval dedence to Downing Street. The Canadian government had to be told from Downing Street what was to be done with the colonial contribution.

Premier Borden, Mr. Bennett of Calgary, and others had talked magnificently about Armageddon and the North Sea and the necessity of "erecting naval dykes" to protect British naval supremacy in these waters. But along came Mr. Churchill and Downing Street and said "Who is this talking nonsense about Armageddon and the North Sea and dykes? That's not what we are going to do with you, we are going to link you up with the Malays at Gibraltar." (Prolonged laughter and applause.)

FRANK B. CARVELL.

Frank B. Carvell, who followed, declared that the minister of finance had misled the House in the afternoon when he said that Britain had fallen from the two standard naval power and was now on a sixteen to ten standard with Germany. He quoted Burgoyne's Naval Annual that since 1905 Britain had laid down and launched sixty-five capital warships, while Germany had in that time launched only thirty-one. The British ships mounted 300 12-inch guns and 144 13.2 inch guns, while the German vessels had only 118 12-inch guns and 116 11-inch guns and nothing heavier.

This did not indicate that Britain was falling behind in naval strength. The fact was that Britain was well able to cope on the sea today with any two nations of Europe.

In conclusion, Mr. Carvell spoke for the development of more intense national spirit in Canada. He would like to see the first of July observed here with the enthusiasm the fourth of July was observed in the United States.

He declared that one statue to the sons of Canada who fell in South Africa was worth more for the development of such a spirit in the country than three empty dreadnoughts floating on the North Sea or anchored to the Rock of Gibraltar.

Mr. Carvell closed at 11.30. Mr. Rogers moved the house out of committee.

"What will be the business tomorrow?" asked Mr. Graham on adjournment.

"We will take up the closure resolution standing in the name of the prime minister," replied Mr. Rogers.

performed stood beneath a true-lover's knot of flowers. The bride was gown in white satin with pearl trimming and wore a bridal veil and orange blossoms. STOCK MARKET

New York, N.Y., April 9.—Although the market was firm during the second hour and there was a slight tendency towards improvement at the end of the period, as most of the selling had been of short account, it might not take much in the way of bullish effort to produce a covering movement.

Johnny Evers has always been known as a "crab" among ball players, but back of his peculiarities of disposition, as exhibited in the game, he has so much that is worth while that it would be too bad if he should "crab" his chances of success as a manager by unnecessary displays of temper toward his players and his newspaper friends.

WILL BE A BOON TO NEW BRUNSWICK

Abolition of American Duty on Coal and Farm Products Will Benefit
This Province

Mr. F. DeL. Clements of Clements & Co., interviewed by The St. John Times on the new U. S. tariff, gave his views as follows:

"It would be difficult to over-estimate the value of the American tariff reductions to the agricultural interests of this province. Placing potatoes on the free list will greatly encourage their production as it will afford a market of sufficient size for all that can be raised. The reduction of duty on other farm products will also enable the New Brunswick farmers to take advantage of the big American market. One of the results will be to increase the value of farmlands in this province and especially along the banks of the St. John River."

Mr. Peters said:

"The reduction of the duty on farm products will naturally tend to increase the shipments from New Brunswick to the United States as better prices will be obtainable and the producers and dealers alike on this side of the line will reap the benefit."

J. S. Gibbon of J. S. Gibbon & Co., said:

"With coal on the free list, an immense market will be opened up for the Canadian mine owners and those of New Brunswick will get a good share of the business. At present large quantities of soft coal are brought from the southern states to the ports of Maine and Massachusetts and transhipped by rail to inland places. When the new Fredericton-Minto railway is complete the Queens county coal fields will be only eighty miles by rail from the Maine border and it will be easy to ship coal to that state in competition with the American mines. For seven months of the year the coal can be shipped by all-water route down the river to American ports and thus supply Maine seaports and even go as far as Massachusetts. The proposed change would prove a great stimulus to coal mining in Brunswick."
