

THOUSANDS OF SUFFRAGISTS ASSEMBLE AT BUDAPEST

Seventh Conference of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance Will Open on Monday and Continue for a Week--Hundreds of Men Among the Delegates--The United States Strongly Represented--The Cause Will be Given a Great Impetus

Budapest, June 14--Thousands of women, representing nearly every race, language and religion of the world, have gathered in the ancient capital of Hungary to part in the seventh conference of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance, which opens Monday and continues in session through the week. The hostesses of the city are taxed to their capacity, and many of the leading families have opened their homes for the accommodation of the visitors.

The convention promises to give to "the cause" the most notable impetus since the inception of the equal suffrage movement. The delegates include hundreds of men and women who are ranked among the intellectual leaders in their own countries. From Spain has come Comtesa Emilia de Pardo Basan, the famous novelist, while among the delegate from Sweden is Selma Lagerlof, also famous as a writer of fiction. Flor Anna Steele, the English novelist Herman Bahr, the Austrian writer the Marchesa Lucifera, Italian orator Keir Hardie, English labor leader Catherine von Renne, the Dutch composer, and Lawrence Housman, the English author, are among the notable delegates.

Several countries will be represented for the first time, among them Egypt, China, India, Burmah, Japan and the Philippines. Other countries that will take a prominent part are Great Britain, Australia, Canada, South Africa, France, Austria, Germany, Sweden, Belgium, Bulgaria, Iceland, Denmark, Bohemia, Serbia, Hungary, Switzerland, Italy and the United States.

As representatives of the country where the equal suffrage movement has won its most notable victories the delegates from the United States naturally will have a leading part in the proceedings of the international conference. The American delegation numbers several hundred members and includes such noted leaders as Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president and founder of the alliance; Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the American Woman Suffrage Association; Miss Jane Adams, of Chicago; Mrs. Henry Villard, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. William Tod Helms, of New York; Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of Boston, and Miss Anna Maswell Jones, of Texas. Frederick Nathan of New York is here as a delegate to the Men's International Alliance for Woman Suffrage, which is to meet at the same time as the women's organization.

Preliminary meetings will be held tomorrow in many of the churches of Budapest. Prominent among these will be the services of the American delegations, which will be attended by all delegates who speak the English language. This assemblage will listen to an address on the equal franchise problem from the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw of Philadelphia.

Following the exchange of greetings and the other formalities of the opening the delegates will assemble Monday for the first of the regular sessions. Each morning of the week the delegates will meet to discuss the business problems that have perplexed diversified membership of the International Alliance. The afternoons will be devoted to sightseeing and the evening to mass meetings and features of the social entertainment.

Each of the afternoon sessions will be devoted to the consideration of different subjects bearing upon the propagation of woman's suffrage throughout the world. There will be a report from each of the delegations representing their constituent countries. These reports will embody a narration of the progress made during the past few years, the plans of campaign found most effective in that particular country and an exchange of ideas through debate.

THE PAPER SCHEDULES

Paper and Pulp Clauses of the Tariff Bill Amended

Committee of U. S. Senate Adopts a Provision of the Reciprocity Agreement of 1911

Washington, June 13--Amending the section of the Underwood tariff bill, which would place on the free list all print paper valued at not more than 2 1/2 cents a pound, the majority members of the senate finance committee today voted to incorporate in the bill the provisions of the Canadian reciprocity, passed in 1911.

This action would extend the free list to include all print paper valued at not more than four cents a pound on the condition "that on export duty, export license fee, or other export charges of any kind whatsoever, or any prohibition or restriction in any way of the exportation shall have been imposed upon such paper, board or woodpulp, or the woodpulp used in the manufacture of such paper or board."

Although the word "Canada" is omitted from the amendment adopted by the committee, it would operate against Canada, because of that nation's restrictions on exports of wood and chemical pulp.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, said that other restriction, provisions or countervailing duties aimed against Canada which have been proposed, have yet been acted upon by the majority, and that the matter would be taken up again tomorrow. He said there might be a reconsideration of the action thus far taken.

Under the reciprocity amendment pulpwood or paper could come in free from Canada, when it is the product of free lands in Canada, lands unrestricted by export duty or license fee.

CARETAKER JONAH'S JUDGEMENT AT FAULT

Had More Solicitude for a Woodboat Than for a Waiting Multitude

Caretaker Jonah of the highway bridge is in some respects a good man for the job but he seems to be lacking in judgment on some occasions. For instance this morning when the bridge was well filled with country teams on their way to market, he opened the draw to allow a woodboat to pass through. The craft being several hundred yards away and a mighty slow sailer, it looked like an all-day job for the waiting throng. They let fall some observations not complimentary to the caretaker and one bold spirit talking out said that he deserved the treatment that was meted out to one of his prototypes in the days of old. Some of the foot-passengers becoming impatient finally took hold and closed the draw and the waiting army passed over. The draw was then reopened and the woodboat continued on her way rejoicing. Secretary Blair ought to take Caretaker Jonah to one side and tell him that in the matter of opening and closing the draw he should adhere closely to the principle of doing the greatest good to the greatest number. In future when there is any waiting to be done especially on market days it should be done by the woodboat.

MANY WITNESSES TESTIFY IN INFANTICIDE CASE

Preliminary Examination of Fredericton Junction Girl Going on Before Police Magistrate Ritchie at St. John--Samuel Alexander, David Duplisea, Dr. Bailey, Samuel Burns and Miss Cooke Give Testimony--Case Postponed Until Friday of Next Week

St. John, June 14--The evidence for the prosecution in the case against Viola Reid, charged with the murder of her infant son, was continued all yesterday afternoon and until late last night, adjournment being taken until Friday next.

The facts of the case as brought out in yesterday's evidence go to show that the accused gave birth to a child in this city on March 23, that she left the Evangeline Home, where she was staying, on April 16, with her baby, and a practically empty suit case, that she arrived at Fredericton Junction that evening with nothing but a very heavy suit case; that the dead body of an infant, identified by Miss Phoebe Cooke of the Evangeline Home, as the one born to the prisoner, was found near Fredericton Junction and that the accused returned to the home after the baby had been found and asked the matron to keep secret the nature of her illness when she was in the institution.

Court opened yesterday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock. P. A. Guthrie, for the defence, continued his cross-examination of Dr. G. W. Bailey, who was the physician called when the body was found. He expressed his opinion that the child was not dead at all when it was thrown in the bushes where it was found, because it had grasped in its fist a growing weed, showing that it had moved its muscles after it had been placed there. He did not think that the cord around the neck was alone responsible for the death, but that the dampness, the atmosphere and the tightly bound wrappings also assisted in killing the infant. He refused to express an opinion as to the direct cause of the death.

FINDING OF BODY.

Samuel Alexander, poor commissioner of Fredericton Junction, corroborated his son's evidence, given in the morning, as regards the description of the body when found.

It was his opinion that the child was not dead long before the body was found. When asked by Mr. Guthrie concerning the cord about the baby's neck, the witness said that it was not tight.

One of the star witnesses of the investigation was David Duplisea of Fredericton Junction.

"Do you remember anything unusual about April 28, the day the body was found?" asked Mr. Gerow.

"No," answered the witness, "but I do remember on April 16. About seven o'clock on that evening I met the accused at Fredericton Junction. The Montreal train had just arrived from St. John and I think she came from St. John. She was carrying a suit case, which appeared to be too heavy for her. I asked her if I could assist her. She refused at first to let me carry the suit case but later consented. I remember that it was unusually heavy. I walked with the girl from the station platform for about a quarter of a mile to a short cut that leads to her home. I left her here and gave her the suit case."

MET GIRL COMING BACK.

Samuel Burns, also of Fredericton Junction, testified. He well remembered the night of April 16. He had noticed Duplisea carrying the suit case on the road up from the station and he was surprised a few minutes later to see the girl return in the direction of the station alone. The witness expressed his surprise and the girl replied that she had expected to meet her father but had been disappointed and was going back to the station. He carried her suit case for her to the platform and was surprised at its weight.

Miss Phoebe Cooke, nurse and assistant matron of the Evangeline Home, was by far the most important witness on the case. The prisoner, she said, came to the home on February 19 and remained there. On March 23 she gave birth to a boy.

About fourteen days after the baby was born the girl's brother arrived at the home late at night and took away some of the girl's clothing. On April 16 the girl herself left the institution, taking with her the baby and a very light suit case. She said that she was going to the depot to hand the child over to her cousin.

On May 24, the accused returned to the home and gave the witness a blanket which had been loaned to her to keep the baby warm. In the meantime the baby had been found at Fredericton Junction. On her return the Reid girl appeared agitated. She told the witness that a police official had asked her why she had been in the Evangeline Home. She asked the witness to keep secret the nature of her illness while she was in the institution. She asked many questions regarding what action the police would take in the matter because her cousin had taken her boy away to Michigan and she did not know his address. The witness advised the girl to make a clean breast of the affair.

NOT POSITIVE.

The witness identified the articles of clothing taken off the dead child as having come from the Evangeline Home. In cross examining the witness, Mr. Guthrie asked:

"Knowing that the girl's life depends upon the outcome of this will you positively swear that this napkin taken from the infant's head, came from the home?"

Witness answered "No."

Under continued examination witness stated that she stayed at Fredericton Junction in the same room as the accused and stated that under the permission of Chief Rideout of Moncton, she (witness) told the accused to make a clean breast of the whole thing. Witness also stated in reply to examination by Mr. Guthrie that she (witness) reported back the conversation to Chief Rideout.

Mr. Guthrie: "Are you prepared to swear before this girl who is accused of this terrible crime that the body found was positively that of the one born in the home?"

Witness: "No."

The case was adjourned until Friday, June 20.
