MR. BORDEN'S SOMERSAULT ON THE NAVAL QUESTION

right and from the left, but the object would be the same, the destruction of the government.

And should these tactics succeed and the government be defeated, the Conservatives and Nationalists would be at the table falling upon each other's neck, embracing each other in the ecstasy of delight that the government had at last been defeated. That would be a jolly time, to be followed, however, by a jolly row, for the time would come to divide the spoils, to form a government, to define a policy, and to determine whether the Tory lion was to swallow the Nationalist lamb or the Nationalist lamb was to swallow the Tory lion.

Mr. Borden was already beginning to endure the punishment which would follow his course. Both the amendments now offered were a lame and impotent conclusion to the violence of the language with which the government policy had been attacked both in Quebec and the other provinces. They were simply a subterfuge to escape responsibility.

Sir Wilfrid said that he had been sneered at for the supreme importance he attached to the principle of autonomy, but he took the ground that the very basis on which the British Empire rests, the basis upon which it alone could be maintained, was the autonomy of all its component parts.

He believed that whatever might be the opinion at a time of passion or excitement, the opposition, in their calmer moments, would agree that Canada had to protect its shores either by fortifications or by ships, and if that duty was to be undertaken, it could only be undertaken by one of two parties, either by England or Canada.

"Our answer is," said Sir Wilfrid, "that Canada must do it and that is my answer to the motions of Mr. Monk and Mr. Borden."

BORDEN'S VOLTE FACE

The Liberal party had always fought against the idea that Canada should be dragged on the maelstrom of European militarism, and Sir Wilfrid recalled the position he had taken at the imperial conferences in 1902 and 1907. He pointed out that the leader of the opposition himself had adopted the ideas which he (Sir Wilfrid) presented at these conferences.

Last year Mr. Borden, without knowing what was the condition of affairs, rushed in and asked parliament to vote $25,000,000 to purchase Dreadnaughts, but now Mr. Borden told his followers that they should not have taken his advice last year and that he should have consulted the authorities to ascertain whether there was or was not an emergency.

Sir Wilfrid then directed his attention to Mr. Monk. The latter had charged him with having misrepresented the policy of the government on the navy, and that he had concealed certain things with respect to it. Mr. Monk had stated that the government had kept hidden an order-in-council passed on Feb. 10, 1909, approving of the plan which had previously been rejected by the Canadian ministers at the conference of 1907, and which pledged Canada to participate in the military armaments of Great Britain.

Sir Wilfrid pointed out that at the conference of 1907 a resolution was passed providing for uniform military training standards for the empire and the collection and distribution of intelligence relating to defence. It in no way provided for Canada's participation in the maelstrom of militarism of Europe.

"Does not common sense," said Sir Wilfrid, "demand that if our troops are to fight for the defence of this country, our system of organization should be absolutely the same as that of the other parts of the empire. Mr. Monk had objected that the approval of the order-in-council, referred to, should have been left to parliament and had stated that the order had not been laid before the house. As a matter of fact it was moved for on Feb. 22, 1909, and was tabled on March 5, 1909.

"It was with such accusations that Mr. Monk had met the government in the province of Quebec. It was with such fabrications that he had been trying to poison the minds of the people of that province."

ONE POLICY FOR ALL.

"It is now twenty-two years that I have been the leader of the Liberal party," concluded Sir Wilfrid. "My endeavor has always been to keep the policy of the party upon lines which would appeal to the conscience of all races and all creeds. At the present time there is in my own province a certain section of my fellow-countrymen, Nationalists they are called today, who have seceded from my party, and from myself, because I have endeavored at all times to maintain that policy which would appeal to no race or creed, as such, a policy of moderation.

If there was one man who did more than another for Irishman that man was Daniel O'Connell. The day came, however, when he was attacked by some young enthusiasts who thought his policy too moderate. His policy was to ask for the repeal of the union and for the re-establishment of an Irish parliament upon College Green, but there were certain enthusiasts, the young Irish party they called themselves, who thought this policy too moderate and preached complete separation from Great Britain. However, this party did not go very far. The insanity of their policy was soon found out and many of them, I am glad to say, lived to recant their former opinions, and the policy followed today by these young men in the province of Quebec will not go far either.

"The naval policy of the government is a policy broad in its conception, a policy Canadian, and not sectional. It may meet with defeat here and there but this will not affect our courage. We will go on to the end, for we know we are in the right and that right will prevail."

The debate was adjourned by Mr. Crothers and will be resumed tomorrow.

MINISTER OF MARINE DEFENDS THE NAVY

Bt. John's Que. Nov. 27--A definite opening was today given by the Government to a campaign throughout this province to oppose the Bourassa and anti-naval propaganda. Hon. L. P. Brodeur was the main speaker, and made a fighting speech, full of his old time vim, in which he declared that he had prepared most of the naval bill and regarded it as the best and most important measure presented to Parliament during the Laurier regime. He declared that there were three policies before the country--the direct contribution idea of the Conservatives, the do-nothing policy of the Bourassites and the project of giving the Dominion a navy of its own, as provided by the Government measures. This he said meant that the ships would be built in the Dominion, and controlled by the Canadian government. There were about 1,500 people at the meeting, and although there was a little heckling the speakers were all well received.

MR. BRODEUR'S SPEECH

Hon. L. P. Brodeur stated that the cost of the navy would not hinder the Government from going on with necessary works for the development of the Dominion as a whole. Of all the great measures put on the statute books since the advent of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to power, the greatest and most patriotic, both from a Canadian as well as from an Imperial standpoint, was the bill to provide for the proper defence of our coasts. The Ministerial policy meant he said, that the ships will be built in the Dominion, and that the Government of the Dominion will be in a position to control its ships.

NATIONAL POLICIES

Hon. Mr. Brodeur then told of the different policies advocated by the Nationalist orators in Ontario and Quebec and claimed that the Nationalists were allies of Mr. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, consequently they stood for a direct contribution. He declared that if England were attacked Canada would of course fly to her support. The speaker said that he was in a great measure responsible for the introduction of the navy bill, and never, he thought, had he rendered better service to his country than in preparing such a measure. As a matter of fact, he explained that of the 220 members of the House of Commons there were only five supporting the Nationalist leader, Mr. Henri Bourassa, who represented a very small portion of the Canadian public opinion.

AN EXPENSIVE PROPOSAL

The group supporting direct contribution did not stop to think that such a policy would cost not less than $25,000,000 to the people of this country. The great majority of the people, he claimed were with the Ministry in its desire to provide the country with an national navy, for

BOHEMIAN DRAMATIC CLUB SCORED SUCCESS WITH "A BROKEN LINK"

A crowded house greeted the performance of "A Broken Link" at the Opera House by the members of the Bohemian Dramatic Club. The amateurs under the direction of Mr. W. A. Walsh put the play on in an excellent manner and earned frequent applause. The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Ruth Winthrop, Miss Pearl L. Mabie; Douglas Winthrop, (her son), Mr. B. Arthur Coyle; Herbert Mawson (Douglas' nephew), Mr. Ernest J. Hanlon; Constance Winthrop (Douglas' wife), Miss Mayme Roberts; Buxton Scott (the family lawyer), Mr. N. Dougherty; Edith Watson (Constance' blind sister), Miss Ethel Moore; Mrs. Dick Chetwyn (a social leader), Miss Minna Parker; Dr. Melabanke (the family physician), Mr. Jos. F. Walsh; John Whitby (the butler), Mr. Jas. N. Collins; Baby Rosie Winthrop (the link), Little Helen Walsh.

Miss Roberts, who played the leading female role needs no introduction to a Fredericton audience. As Constance Winthrop she could not be improved upon. Mr. Coyle made a leading man of fine appearance and good voice. With the exception of a few details his work was excellent. Messrs. N. Dougherty and James Collins were two of the best performers in the cast. Mr. Dougherty as the old family lawyer, whose tact and scheming finally brings about a reconciliation between the estranged husband and wife gave an excellent portrayal of a difficult character and as the butler Mr. Collins scored a big hit. Miss Moore played a difficult part well as Edith, the blind sister of Constance. Mr. Ernest Hanlon as he has often done before played his part with marked ability and the same can be said of Misses Mabie and Parker and Mr. Walsh. Little Helen Walsh, as Baby Rosie displayed a dramatic ability which is evidently inherited.

Last night's performance was given under the Auspices of the Fredericton Curling Club. The recently organized Opera House orchestra was present.

RIVER DE CHUTE

Nov. 24--We have had a very warm and pleasant fall up here so far and hope it will continue all winter.

Rev. S. H. Clark, of Perth, preached two eloquent sermons to large congregations on Sunday last in the United Baptist church.

Miller Bros. have finished sawing for the present and the mill is closed down waiting for sledding.

The young people of this place and Bairdsville hold a grand ball every second Friday evening in the Bairdsville Hall. Mr. Benjamin Bull furnishes the music.

Mr. D. W. Jackson, bridge superintendent for Carleton Co., has had a large crew of men rebuilding the bridge over river De Chute. Mr. Jackson thoroughly understands the business and has done a first class job very cheaply.

Mr. Wilmot Clair is doing a rushing business buying potatoes for a company in Perth. He is at present paying $1.15 per barrel.

Messrs. William and Medley Miller have gone to the Miramichi on a moose hunting expedition. We wish them every success.

Mr. Thomas Kimball of Upper Woodstock, is spending the winter with Mr. Frank Bishop, fox hunting. Mr. Kimball is a great hunter and if he gets his eagle eye on a fox the jig is up with "Mr. Fox." He also does painting as a side line. Samples of his work may be seen on the new bridge.

Mr. Miles Jackson, one of the bridge crew, is negotiating the taking over of a farm and "incidentally" a female assistant thrown in. We all wish him every success and happiness.

UNIQUE TONIGHT

A great drama "Settled out of Court" (Selig) will be shown tonight at the Unique. Two splendid Biograph comedies "The Proposal" and "Passing of the Grouch" and a clever western comedy feature "The Cowboys ma-in-law" by Essanay will be given. Altogether it is laugh tonight at the Unique.

th's country wanted protection on the sea as well as on the land. He ridiculed the alarmists who were talking of tearing the children of this Province from their families to light in foreign wars. In Cartier's militia bill of 1868 there was a clause that placed all the male inhabitants of Canada at the disposition of the Emire in time of war but when the Minister was preparing the naval bill that clause was omitted, so as a matter of fact, there is no obligation whatever on the matter of service in the Canadian navy.

PLENTY OF VOLUNTEERS

Hon. Mr. Brodeur announced that there were far more applications from people who wanted to serve their country than there were positions to fill, consequently it was absurd to talk of conscription and of forcing people to serve in the navy of their country when it is created.

The Minister was loudly cheered when he resumed his seat. Senator Dandurand also made a speech along the same lines; also Dr. Beland, M. P., for Beauce.
