WHY DO THE BOYS AND GIRLS LEAVE THE OLD FARM

This is a very ancient chestnut; it has been discussed ever since we can remember, and no solution satisfactory to everybody has yet been offered. Nevertheless it is a rather simple proposition, if we may be allowed to say so.

If you ask the boys or girls themselves, they will tell you that it is because they can do better in the town and have more advantages. They know the country, all its disadvantages, its long hours, its drudgery as they call it. They do not know the town. They are lured by its gregariousness or in other words, by the opportunity it offers for mixing with their fellows, its life and movement and the apparently easy time the successful men and women have. They know nothing of its disadvantages and hardships. Hence they take their chances, to be very often grievously and sorely disappointed, and realizing that they have made a mistake and a vital one they only wish they were back in the country.

The real problem is: How are we to make life enjoyable and satisfactory to these young people on the farm? How are we to induce them to like the farm well enough not to be lured by the surface attractions of the city? Obviously one of the first things to do is to interest them in the work of the farm. The drudgery that is complained of ceases to be drudgery when we can take a vital interest in it, when we study it, when we use mind as well as muscle in performing the work of the farm. All work in which there is no room for action of the mind is necessarily drudgery, while where the mind is actively employed in it, the work ceases to be drudgery.

The physician operating upon a patient has some very unpleasant work before him, but it requires such careful study beforehand and such close attention at the time being that the disagreeable features of it are entirely lost sight of. There is a vast amount of work done by professional men which is the very hardest and most wearing kind of drudgery. The feature that relieves it is that it requires close attention and keeps the mind fully occupied.

The great thing, therefore, needed to interest the boy and girl on the farm is to show them the great scope and room for the exercise of every faculty of mind as well as body. Digging ditches is very hard and disagreeable work; but if the man or boy who is digging ditches is at the same time studying the laws that govern in the movement of water in the soil, and anticipating the profits he forgets about the drudgery. Hauling out manure is not pleasant work—at least we did not think it such—but if the boy is given to understand how it operates and what it does to the land, the drudgery is relieved.

Every boy on the farm, and every girl likewise, should have something coming to them from this work on the farm, not in the far future after father is laid away, but now; something that he can feel is his very own. If you want to keep you boy on the farm, in addition to teaching him about farming, given him an opportunity to make a little something for himself something that he can spend as he pleases.

In talking with the boy, don't say "my" farm, but "our" farm; don't say "my house" but "our home." Let the boy feel that he is part and parcel of the farm life, an indispensable part and parcel if you please. Interest him in it intellectually. Give him every opportunity to know something of this wonderful world of knowledge that is on every farm in the wide world, and you will have much less trouble in keeping the boy on the farm.

Let the girl realize that it is her home; that there is something in or about the home that she can do, of which she will receive the benefits or profits and there will be fewer girls coming to town to throw their lives away and, alas, too frequently to wreck and ruin their characters.

Once more, remember that one of the great inducements of the boy and girl to come to town is society. Therefore, let there be society for them in the country. Let the boys and girls of the neighborhood meet together, get acquainted with each other, enjoy each other's fellowship, and compete in lines that lead to mental improvement as well as physical recreation, and there will be less of this drift from the country to the town of which complaint is made all over the civilized world.

To use a phrase that is familiar to most boys: It won't do to let the "first nine" of the country go to town. They are needed on the farm. If the "first nine" goes, the "second nine" will want to follow, and the country will be sterilized by this loss of its best life and its best blood.

The keeping of the boys and girls on the farm depends very much on the attitude and the action of the parents. If you are always complaining about the drudgery of the farm, making the hours unnecessarily long, lamenting that you are farmers, regretting that you have not taken up some other business instead, and failing to magnify your own office, then do not complain if the boys and girls flee from the farm and abjure farm life.—Wallace's Farmer.

J. M. ROBINSON & SONS WEEKLY STOCK MARKET REVIEW

St. John, July 9.—After the somewhat extended holiday covering Saturday and Monday, and though influenced by strength on the London Exchange, the New York Market on Tuesday opened rather weak and for a time gave every indication of further liquidation, towards noon however good evidence of strength developed, and it became apparent that the low prices of stocks had attracted sufficient buying to prevent any further serious decline. Though on Wednesday there was some uncertainty in the price movements the strong closing made it evident that the liquidation was over; Thursday and Fridayday have been quiet and it now seems likely that a dull inactive stock market will develop to be followed by better prices later on.

Money rules very easy in the United States and is plentiful in Europe though the Bank of England rate remains unchanged; in Canada the Banks are holding onto their funds very firmly waiting for an autumn demand from the commercial and agricultural interests there is consequently only a limited supply for stock market purposes which leads to the remark by the Montreal Star that this is a rich man's market.

In monetary circles the feature of the week is the engagement of gold for importation to the United States a faction which had much to do with steadying the Stock Market; Sterling Exchange has declined to a considerable extent during the past few weeks and further imports of gold are probable.

Reviewing the market situation generally we find for almost twelve months there has been a falling market which has apparently culminated in the liquidation of June and early July; though it is quite possible that there will be further declines such does not appear to be probable because the investment buyer of stocks has recently put in an appearance and his purchases have much strengthened the market position, sales of American securities in Europe have so improved the international balance that gold is being imported and money is easy. The one feature of uncertainty is the crops and though these have been persistently reported as damaged yet with the increased acreage sown the probabilities of at least an average crop are good.

General business is quieter than at the first of the year and the prospects are that there will not be any improvement to speak of until after the crops are harvested.

CROPS

Agricultural conditions throughout the country this year have been largely unfavorable, there has been too much rain along the Atlantic Seaboard and not sufficient in the interior, which will result in a crop largely below the average for all products.

The government crop report just to hand shows the conditions of wheat to be considerably worse than was anticipated and will lead to considerable speculation in grains, probably a sharp advance while at the same time the stock market which has proved to be vulnerable to unfavorable crop reports is likely to show decline in sympathy.

There has been however, as noted above, considerably larger acreage planted this year than last and the net result will probably be returns equal to or nearly so, those of last year.

Unfavorable conditions in the crops usually cast their shadow before in the stock market and it is quite probable that when the returns of the soil are tallied up at the end of this will be issued partly in Sterling and in the stock market has discounted these results.

CANADA.

The developments of the week in the Canadian market are the sanction of the merger of the Hamilton Steel & Iron Company with the Canadian Bolt & Nut Company, Montreal, Wire Mills Company, Montreal Rolling Mills Company and the Canadian Screw Company. This merger will produce a large amount of new securities, the principle of which will be the first mortgage and collateral trust 6 per cent. gold bonds, of which $5,850,000 year it will be found that the decline partly in Canadian currency. It is understood that the underwriting has been arranged and that the bonds

During June, the net debt of the Dominion decreased by $2,333,467, the debt at the end of the month being $322,405,328.

THE COMMISSION'S TOUR.

The Technical Education Commission has mapped out a very extensive program of work for the next three months. The members will leave Montreal on Friday evening of next week for Halifax, and will sit there on the 18th, 19th and 20th.

Then it will proceed to other Nova Scotian points as follows: Lunenburg on the 21st, Liverpool to visit the summer school of science on the 22nd, Yarmouth, 23rd and 24th, Digby 25th, Middleton 26th, Wolfville and Kentville 27th, Windsor 28th, Truro 29th and 30th, Sydney 31st, Aug. 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th, New Glasgow 5th, Pictou, 6th, Charlottetown, 7th and 8th, Hillsboro, 9th, Summerside 10th, Amherst, Springhill, 11th and 12th, Shediac, 14th, Moncton 15th and 16th, Sussex and Hampton 17th, St. John 18th and 19th, Fredericton 21st, 22nd and 23rd, Woodstock, 24th.

The body of a new born infant was found lying by the bank of a stream at Notre Dame De La Salette, near Buckingham, on Tuesday last by Mr. Smith, a resident of the village. Pending the arrival of Coroner Lystee from Hull, he tied the body to a stake and covered it with brushwood. Thursday afternoon when the Coroner and Constable Groulx arrived to investigate, all that could be found were a few bones of the child's skull, with the foot marks of some four-footed animal, probably a wolf, surrounding the spot.

The telegraphers employed on the Intercolonial Railway have applied to the Minister of Labor for a Board of Conciliation and Investigation to adjudicate on matters in dispute with the Board of Management as to hours and conditions of work, wages, etc. The personnel of the Board will be announced shortly.

INDIAN POTENTATE VISITING NEW YORK

New York, July 9.—His Royal Highness the Gaekwar of Baroda and his high born consort, the Maharani, their only daughter, the princess Indra Ragi, Gaekwar, their son the Prince Jaising Gankwar and Captain C. N. Nubakher aide de camp of the British army, have arrived in New York from the west with a retinue of servants. This is his second visit to the country in four years.

The Gaekwar is one of the most interesting of all the east Indian potentates who have ever visited New York and he is now on a tour of the world. He recently left Japan where he studied educational conditions.

Japan, he says, is far ahead of India in the matter of diffusing education among the classes. He explains this that this is due to the fact that there are so many various elements represented among the people of India while Japan has far greater homogeneity among its people.

will be offered simultaneously in London and Canada.

The announcement that Canadian Pacific have earned 15 per cent. of the common stock for the year ending on June 30th, provides a very good and sufficient reason for the marked strength which that stock maintains on all exchanges.

On the whole, the Montreal list maintains a good degree of strength considering the severe decline which New York stocks have suffered. Attention, however, has been called to the present level of many investment securities and some prominent members of the exchange have expressed it as their opinion that at the present level many of these stocks are very attractive.

Thomas A. Edison was discussing with a reporter a criticism of his wonderful storage battery.

"The criticism is very laudatory," he said, "but it is the opposite of scientific. It really makes me think of a dialogue I once heard in a museum. Two young men stood gazing at a mummy.

"What makes him look so brown and dried up, though, Bill?" the other young man asked.

"Bill replied with this scientific information: 'In those days, George, they took the men they killed in battle and kipped 'em for export to cannibal trade.'"
