Crippen's Spirits Revive As He Gets More Used To Position

Detectives are Treating His Woman Companion with Every Consideration in the Hope that She will Make a Clean Breast of Affairs--As Matters Now Stand Both Prisoners will be Charged with the Murder of Crippen's Wife.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—(Special)—Dr. La bel, jail physician, made a careful physical examination of Dr. H. H. Crippen today. It was primarily intended to discover whether the murder suspect had any drugs or poisons concealed about him. Crippen continues to gain in cheerfulness and bravado. Today he acts like a man who thinks that the meshes of the law still leave a loop hole for him.

Ethel Clara Leneve has been transferred to the jail hospital. She is recovering from her nervous breakdown. She, too, was subjected to a rigid examination by the matrons of the jail.

Inspector Dew went to Crippen's cell, the guards were waved back and for a time the British detective talked earnestly in a low voice to the prisoner. Crippen seemed to take part in the talk, answering in monosyllables for the most part.

Dew was laying before him the facts he had wrong from Ethel Leneve in the mild form of the third degree permitted by the authorities, according to the prison officials. As far as can be learned Crippen made no confession.

Inspector Dew tonight denied the story in the afternoon, saying he believed the woman innocent. It was up to the courts to decide that, he declared.

BOTH CHARGED WITH MURDER.

(Associated Press.)

London, Aug. 2.—Fifteen persons, for the most part women, who will be called as witnesses at the trial of Dr. Crippen, appeared before the Bow street magistrate at a private hearing today for the purpose of making depositions, to facilitate the proceedings in Canada.

Paul Martinetti and his wife, who dined with the Crippens at their invitation on the evening of Jan 31, the night on which Mrs. Crippen is said to have disappeared, were among those who testified.

The documents which were prepared and the other papers connected with the extradition of the couple from Quebec, will be carried by Sergeant Mitchell, who will sail on the steamer Lake Manitoba on Thursday.

Scotland Yard officials today said that the warrants of arrest charge both Dr. Crippen and Ethel Leneve with murder. They must therefore be charged together, and will return to London on the same steamer. The question of altering the charge of murder against the Leneve woman to one of lesser degree, has not yet been discussed, and if it were decided to recommend such a course, this would only be done by application to the presiding judge at the commencement of the trial.

Arthur Newton, the London solicitor, who has cabled to Dr. Crippen his willingness to undertake Crippen's defense, is a well known and successful criminal advocate. He has been connected with many cases of a sensational character.

GIRL MAY CONFESS.

Quebec, Aug. 1.—Before Aug. 18, the date set when Dr. Crippen will be taken back to England charged with murder, the police confidently expect that Ethel Clara Leneve will have told them all she knows of those gruesome shreds of human flesh found in the cellar of the dentist's London home.

Urged on by cablegrams from her parents, it is believed that she will soon free her mind of the dreadful secret which is fast driving her insane.

The police see in the beautiful stenographer whose life has been ruined by Crippen, a girl, innocent at heart, but fascinated to she point of hypnotism by the dentist.

Separated from him a while they think she will become her normal self and give testimony which the police so much need to prove that Belle Elmore, the American actress, really was murdered and that it was her remains found in the cellar.

Chief Inspector Dew does not believe that Miss Ethel Leneve was an accomplice with Dr. Hawley H. Crippen in the slaying of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife, but he thinks the typewriter may be of material assistance to him as a witness for the prosecution.

His treatment of Miss Leneve today, which was sympathetic and considerate, in marked contrast to the severity he used with respect to Dr. Crippen, indicates that before he starts back to England with his prisoners he intends to have a full statement from the young woman who loved her employer well enough to leave her home in London with him and humiliate herself by parading for eleven days in masculine raiment before a ship-load of people.

It may be said positively that the Scotland Yard detective is endeavoring to gain the confidence of Miss Leneve to the end that her services may be had in the prosecution of Dr. Crippen for the murder of his wife.

In place of a subjection to the ordeal of an arraignment in court and its embarrassments, the young stenographer was practically a guest in the home of Chief McCarthy of the provincial police. Mrs. McCarthy ministered to her and was careful not to give the young woman the impression that she was under arrest.

GIRL ARRAIGNED IN PRIVATE.

As a matter of form she had to be held for extradition, but the proceeding was followed with leniency. The junior magistrate of the provincial court of sessions, C. P. Angers, received Miss Leneve into his home and in his own parlor put the questions which constituted the formula of holding her for deportation.

In the magistrate's home she was waited on by Mrs. Fred Ginnett, of New York, president of the ladies' music hall guild of London, of which Belle Elmore was honorary treasurer. Mrs. Ginnett is an old acquaintance of both Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve and had visited the Crippen home in London.

Inspector Dew allowed Mrs. Ginnett to see the young woman in order to make her feel that even her captors have a friendly interest in her.

Mrs. Ginnett identified three solitary diamond rings, a Chester diamond ring, a diamond brooch and three pairs of spectacles, which were found in a small bag sewed inside Dr. Crippen's undershirt, as the property of Mrs. Crippen, whom the doctor is accused of having slain.

WEEPS WHEN ASKED IF SHE WILL TELL ALL.

In her conversation with Miss Leneve at the home of Magistrate Angers, Mrs. Ginnett was not permitted to ask any questions relating to the disappearance of Belle Elmore, or what Dr. Crippen had said to his stenographer about his wife.

Mrs. Ginnett, however, did ask the young woman if she had received the cablegrams from her parents advising her to make full disclosures of all the information she had. Miss Leneve answered that she had read the messages from her father and mother.

"Do you intend to take their advice and tell the authorities all?" Mrs. Ginnett asked.

Miss Leneve dropped her head and wept, but did not answer.

Mrs. Ginnett was forbidden by Inspector Dew to pursue the subject further, and the rest of the interview was a gossip conversation about mutual acquaintances in London, which was calculated to raise the spirits of the distressed young woman.

After Mrs. Ginnett left Miss Leneve was told that she was to stay at the home of the magistrate for a day or two until she felt stronger, as it was not Inspector Dew's disposition to enforce the hardship of confinement in jail.

The young woman has improved remarkably today in such charitable and encouraging surroundings and already seems ready for suggestions that she testify against Dr. Crippen when he is tried in London for murder.

Inspector Dew this afternoon admitted that he was trying to ingratiate himself with Miss Leneve because the prosecution needed her testimony to corroborate and strengthen the evidence of a servant girl who is now the only witness of any probative value that Scotland Yard has against Dr. Crippen.

CLEW FROM SERVANT.

In all the accounts of the developments in the Crippen case which have been published in London and cabled to the United States there was no explanation of how the police happened to excavate in the cellar of Dr. Crippen's home and uncover portions of the body of Belle Elmore.

Also Scotland Yard has given the impression that there was no means of positive identification of the human fragments as the remains of Mrs. Crippen.

According to Inspector Dew's statement made to a Canadian detective this afternoon the London police with held the important statements of a servant in the Dr. Crippen household. The servant, the inspector said, gave the police the clew which suggested the examination of the cellar floor for evidence of recently disturbed bricks.

THE BI-CENTENARY OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND IN CANADA

Two hundred years ago the first regular services in Canada, according to the use of the Church of England, were held at Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, where after the capture of the fort by General Nicholson, a service of thanksgiving for the success of Her Majesty's (Queen Anne's) arms, was held by Rev. John Harrison, and a sermon preached by Rev. Samuel Heskier. Today the Church of England in Canada has twenty-two dioceses stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the Bicentenary of its work in this Dominion is to be celebrated by special events at Halifax, Windsor, and Annapolis Royal, the first week of September next.

At Halifax All Saints' Cathedral, today the finest church edifice in Canada, erected at a cost of some $15,000 is to be opened on September 3rd, as a memorial in stone of the Bicentenary and the three following days a great Canadian Church Congress is to be held, at which there promises to be a record attendance.

On September 8th, a special Convocation will be held at King's College, Windsor, the oldest university in the British Colonies, and on September 9th, special services commemorative of the first services will be held at
