UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER OF BRAZILIAN MUTINEERS

Maintained a Defiant Attitude During the Night but This Morning Gave Up the Fight Upon Learning That Amnesty Had Been Granted--Congress Met in Extraordinary Session and Complied with the Demands of the Mutineers.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 25.—The government of Brazil today yielded to its mutinous navy. Congress meeting in extraordinary session voted to concede every demand of the ultimatum presented yesterday, including general amnesty for the sailors who after murdering as many of their superiors as was necessary to put them in complete control trained the guns of the warships upon the capital.

As to the effect of the outcome in have eventually upon the discipline in the navy is a matter of concern. The immediate effect is to give the sailors increased pay, shorter hours of service and less work through the recruiting of additions to the crews and to abolish corporal punishment in the fleet.

Following the action of congress, the mutineers went through the formality of surrendering and by noon today the city had resumed its normal activities and the public excitement had subsided.

While the revolt lasted the people of the city were kept in a state of suspense, fearing the mutineers would make good their threat to blow up the capital unless their wishes were met.

It is doubtful, however, that they would have taken this step in any event because of the likelihood of complications with Great Britain. During the progress of the revolt, James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States, was the guest of Barão Rio Branco, the Brazilian foreign minister and he would have been as likely as any one to suffer from a bombardment.

London, Nov. 25.—A private despatch from Rio Janeiro today says that the mutineers in the Brazilian navy surrendered unconditionally.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 25.—The naval mutineers surrendered today, congress voting amnesty.

The demands of the mutineers were granted by the government. The capital slept last night with the guns of its own navy trained upon it. The mutineers remained seemingly masters of the situation. Towards 1 o'clock this morning one of the mutineers' fleets fired on the navy-arsenal. The scout cruiser Deodora joined the battieships Minas Geraes and São Paulo and the scout Bahia in revolt during the night. The rebellious sailors continued a defiant attitude this morning before congress met and there was nothing to indicate that they would compromise or surrender even though assured of amnesty, except in the event that the government yielded to their ultimatum of yesterday and granted an increase in pay, the abolition of corporal punishment in the navy and the adjustment of minor grievances.

Last evening the São Paulo and the Bahia withdrew from the harbor supposedly because they feared a night attack from the loyal torpedo boat destroyers. The Minas Geraes, however, remained opposite the government palace and was joined by the cruiser Deodora.

For several hours everything was quiet, then watchers on shore noted activity on board the Deodora.

The hours following midnight passed anxiously then the small guns of the Deodora woke the town. It was at first thought revolting vessels were making a combined attack upon the city. For a time a panicky feeling was general. Then it was discovered that the firing was confined to the naval arsenal. The cannonading did not last long and no great damage was done.

The local garrisons and the loyal torpedo boats did not respond, though according to this morning's papers their officers had received sinister orders as to their duty in certain contingencies. When the Deodora had ceased firing, she put to sea accompanied by the Minas Geraes.

Morning broke with the mutineers' craft still outside the harbor and they did not return to port until some hours later.

Congress met in extraordinary session this morning. The chamber of deputies first concurred with the senate in granting amnesty to the mutineers. Both houses passed resolutions conceding the demands of the sailors. As soon as the action of congress became known the mutinous crews surrendered and the revolt was at an end. The city was soon quiet and resumed its normal activities.

THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION

President Diaz Reported Today to Have Situation Well in Hand

Unpopular Governor to be Sent to a Foreign Mission--Federal Troops in Control.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—The absence of alarming reports today from the centres of disturbance in Mexico, is taken as additional confirmation of the declaration that President Diaz has the situation south of the Rio Grande well in hand.

The government is reported today in complete control everywhere except in Guerrero, whither troops have not yet penetrated. The insurrectionists in that place are reported to have appointed a city government of their own choosing. The town of Guerrero referred to in despatches from Eagle Pass in connection with the reported wounding of General Madero, is believed here to be a village five or seven miles from Eagle Pass and not the more southerly municipality said to be controlled by the insurgents.

Whether wounded or not, those familiar with the situation to the south declare that news that Madero is actually in the country is certain to augment the present unrest.

An opinion that was much expressed, however, was that the revolution which General Reyes forced a year ago went off "half-cocked," and nothing now can make a serious threat to the Diaz administration.

Monterey, Mexico, Nov. 25.—This city is as orderly as ever, the police and military having the situation completely in hand. There is no evidence of the revolution beyond the fact that the city is without telegraph connection with the outside world.

New York, Nov. 25.—The insurrectionary flames in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico have apparently subsided to a marked degree according to despatches received here by vice-president E. D. Kenna of the Mexico Northwestern Railway Company whose lines between Chihuahua and Madero and El Paso and Terranea. Dr. Spearon, president of the railroad who is now in the city of Mexico telegraphs as follows:

"Conditions in federal district and vicinity absolutely normal there have been no serious disturbances in Chihuahua greatly exaggerated. No damage done our property, trains running regularly with the exception of one interruption of service, no interruption or interference Mexico Northwestern operations."
