SIR WILFRID LAURIER

(Blanche E. Holt, Murison, in The Vancouver Fruit Magazine)

The kingship of true manhood on his brow

Is written large. Time's hand has failed to trace

Aught but the noblest on his kindly face:

So well remembered—ne'er revered as now.

His eyes hold quenchless fires that never fade;

With the prophetic vision of the seer

His dreams his dreams, interpreting it clear.

And smiles, where lesser souls would be afraid.

His voice holds music for the multitude;

His silver speech has all the power to sway

That ever won for him the triumph way

Among the discord of Party feud.

As leaders must be—oft misunderstood

He went his way, but kept his soul serene:

And through the years his steadfast aim has been

His country's welfare and her greatest good.

Before the naked gaze of all the world

The man in him has played a splendid game;

Well has he won the laurels of his fame

Beneath the flag he never yet has furled.

He viewed the mighty nations of the earth

And measured issues with unerring skill:

With broad-gauge judgment he pursued his will.

And nourished vital hope to joyous birth.

Truth lit for him a bright propitious star,

Whose light shines round him that all men may see

How Duty can attain a dignity

That meager motives have no power to mar.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. A. J. Ryan your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into Fredericton and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

Not as the leader of a party creed,
Greet we him now from East to West,
But rather as a welcome, honored guest:

Each heart can offer him no less a meed.

But factions fade before the larger thought—
Here is a man—whose for his country's weal
Has striven to achieve his own ideal,
And in the van has ever fairly fought.

For Canada we claim him as our own,
And lift on high the vintage in the bowl,
Pledging the courage of the stronger soul
That fears and faints not, and can stand alone.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER'S REPLY TO OPPOSITION LEADER

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

With regard to the question of the tariff he did not intend to say much, for it was not a question to be decided at the present juncture, but Mr. Borden knew that his friends in the west did not at all favor a policy which had been the shibboleth of the Conservative party.

"When we came into office fourteen years ago we endeavored to redeem the pledges we had made two years before to the people of the west and to the people of Canada generally. If it has taken the people of the west fourteen years to realize that they were unfairly treated, the wrong to which they were subjected cannot have been a very grievous one. But the country moves. Neither I nor anyone on this side has ever pretended that the tariff made in 1897 should be like the laws of the Medes and Persians, and never changed. On the contrary, we are Liberals and Reformers, and we believe in moving forward with the times. The tariff made in 1897 has been its own justification. But the people of the west are now asking for a reduction of duty on certain articles which they consume. That is a very proper subject of investigation, and we intend to investigate it, but at the proper time.

INVESTIGATION FIRST.

"We who have been in office for a number of years know if there is one thing more than another essential to the business prosperity of a country it is stability of the tariff. I stated to the people of the west during my recent trip that it would be our duty to consider their requests and to deal with them in the same spirit in which we have always dealt with requests from the people, and I repeat that now. I stated that we would have a commission of investigation before we undertook a revision of the tariff. Does any honorable member on the other side take issue with the promise I made? Would any of them advocate pushing into a revision of the tariff without previous investigation? They would not dare to say they would favor such a course.

FRIENDLY TRADE RELATIONS.

"If I gauge accurately the temper of the Canadian people at this moment, the one question which is engrossing their thoughts is that of the commercial relations with our neighbors to the south. When Mr. Borden spoke of the friendly relations which have existed for a hundred years between Canada and the United States nothing could be more admirable than the sentiments which he therein expressed. May I say, however, to my honorable friend that if there is a thing which is conducive to peace and harmony between nations, it is free and friendly commercial relations. There has been an impression in this country, nay, a positive conviction in this country, which has been expressed more than once on the floor of this House, that the attitude of our American neighbors towards Canada was not worthy of a great nation.

"Now, strange to say, while there is a better feeling appearing on the horizon, which seems to indicate the dawn of a better day, men there are in this country who tell us, 'Stop, stop; don't go any farther; put an end to these advances towards remedying a condition of things of which we have been complaining so long.'

TAFT'S SUGGESTION.

Sir Wilfrid then recalled the request made by President Taft, suggesting friendly negotiations with a view to improving commercial relations between the two countries, and read the communication which was received last session from Secretary Knox.

As a result of these negotiations, delegates had visited Ottawa a few weeks ago, and there had been an interchange of views between them and commissioners had been appointed by the Canadian Government.

"The Canadian commissioners," Sir Wilfrid said, "were the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Customs. They met the American commissioners, not under the rigid rules of a protocol, not by formal and official communications, but simply for the purpose of exchanging informal pour-parlers and mutual views so as to find whether it would not be possible to reach a common basis upon which they could act, and to devise a new policy for these two countries which have so much in common and between which there should prevail better commercial relations than we have had in the past.

REPLIES TO FOSTER.

"In the meantime advice to us has not been wanting. It has come to us in different forms, by letter, by resolution of public meetings and in the various manners by which the public voice expresses itself in these days. All our enemies, and some of our friends, have been very emphatic in telling us that we should eschew them as we would eschew a pestilence, that we had nothing whatever to gain by improving our present trade relations with them, that nothing could be expected which would conduce to the welfare of Canada. My honorable friend from North Toronto (Mr. Foster), has gone farther in this respect than anyone else.

"In a speech which he delivered a few weeks ago in Toronto, with characteristic exaggeration and with a serene disregard for truth, facts and common sense, he said that at this moment there were only two men in Canada who were anxious to have commercial intercourse with the United States, and these two men were the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance."

FOSTER'S CHANGE.

Sir Wilfrid regarded that as a compliment, but he refused to believe that out of eight millions of people in Canada he and the Minister of Finance were the only two men who could appreciate the great advantage it would be for those eight millions to have access to a market of 90,000,000 of people which had been denied to them up to the present time by a most rigid tariff. During the past fourteen years the Government had spared no effort to find new markets, and they claimed they had been reasonably successful, but there was at their very door a nation of nearly 100,000,000 of people which, man for man, was perhaps the wealthiest to be found on earth. Mr. Foster's statement was not so much a compliment to himself and Mr. Fielding as a reflection upon the blindness of the man who would convey such statements.

But there was a third man who believed in closer commercial intercourse with the United States, and that man was George Eulas Foster, who in 1891 went to Washington and endeavored to obtain reciprocity with the United States. Canada had a fiscal policy in which they had every confidence, but in human affairs it was always possible to do better.

"I feel," continued Sir Wilfrid, "that a great deal would be gained both for Canada and the British Empire if our relations with the United States were more friendly than they have been up to the present time."

BRITISH PREFERENCE SECURE.

He acknowledged that there were certain principles which must be conserved in these negotiations.

"There is in the Fielding tariff a cardinal principle of British preference and that preference will not be interfered with by anything we do with the United States. There is another principle as to which we have to take good care, and as to that I believe that confidence can be reposed in the negotiators we have appointed, Messrs. Fielding and Paterson, that they will not make any sacrifice of any kind, but will be guided by prudent consideration for the interests of Canada. The confidence of the Canadian people is altogether with these two men, and when they come back with a treaty, if they come back with a treaty, they will be able to say that they have brought back peace and honor, and prosperity as well."

DISLOYAL OPPOSITION.

Sir Wilfrid then turned to the question of the Government's naval policy. Mr. Borden had proudly declared that the Government should have taken the advice he offered last session, but he reminded the House that the leader of the Opposition had the previous year offered advice and had chosen to go back on it.

"There was recently an election in Drummond-Arthabaska," proceeded Sir Wilfrid. (Ironical cheers from the Opposition.)

"It is well known in history that the defeats there are more honorable than victory. Our Conservative friends are welcome to what comfort they can get out of the result of that election. It was not won by his Majesty's loyal Opposition. Were it not for certain recantations that have taken place on the part of the victors, I would say it was won by his Majesty's disloyal Opposition" (Loud Liberal cheers.)

YOUNG REACTIONARIES.

"That election was won by a combination of Conservatives of what was left of a once great Conservative party in the Province of Quebec, and certain young reactionaries who were brought up under Liberal principles, but for whom, as it turned out, Liberal principles were too broad and too generous.

"The election was won by appeals so desperate and by means so dastardly that when the smoke of battle had been removed the public conscience was aroused to shame and indignation.

"Can anyone here pretend, does anyone assert, that the policy which was adopted by Parliament last session was adopted by Parliament last session?" (Continued on page four.)

Your Danger From Kidney Troubles

BEGINS WHEN YOUR BACK ACHES

Backache is the first and the sure sign of kidney disease.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Next to the heart, the kidneys are, perhaps the most important organs in the body. It is no wonder then that if the kidneys are affected the whole system must be.

On the first sign of backache Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go right to the seat of the trouble, heal the delicate membranes of the kidneys and make their action regular and natural."

Mr. E. J. Saulnier, Lake Annis, N. S., writes:—"I take a great deal of pleasure in telling you the benefit I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for several years; my back was weak, I had terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's"

WORLD-WIDE HUNT FOR MISSING WAITER

New York, November 24.—An international search will be started for Wm. Lewis, the waiter, suspected in the trunk murder mystery. Evidence reported to the police lead them to believe that Albert Callier, the artist victim in the trunk mystery, had been slain by Lewis in a quarrel over the affections of a young woman. Callier intended going abroad. He had already purchased a ticket for South Africa and announced that he was going to join his brother, an ivory trader there. After getting his ticket Callier visited Lewis. The artist was never seen again.

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated, and easily polished.
