MANY SQUIRRELS HAVE TAKEN UP THEIR ABODE IN THE CITY

The Woods is Swarming With Them
This Year and They are Destroying Bird Life.

Squirrels have been unusually plentiful about the city during the last few weeks, and they have to bestir themselves to elude cats and dogs and dodge the missiles hurled at them by the small boys. They hop about on the branches of the shade trees and quite frequently disport themselves on sidewalks and fences.

Mr. Henry Braithwaite, the veteran guide, in speaking of the matter says that in all his long experience he never saw squirrels so plentiful in the woods as they have been this season. They are met with everywhere and seem to be on the increase. In fact the woods is fairly swarming with them. He says that squirrels rob the nests of birds and are thinning them out rapidly in the Miramichi woods.

Mr. Braithwaite is also authority for the statement that squirrels are causing a lot of damage to the black spruce of the Miramichi. He says they cut the tops from the trees to get the buds, and leave a chance for insects to get in their work. With the top cut from a tree its growth is stunted and in many cases the tree dies. He thinks that some steps will have to be taken to abate the squirrel nuisance.

IMPERIAL EXHIBITION

Viscount Hill is in Canada on its Behalf
--To Be Held in London, England, in 1915--It Will Be Purely British.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—The commission on which Lord Stratheona is acting, and which will carry out all arrangements for the great British Imperial Exhibition to be held in London, England, in 1915, is represented in Canada just now by Viscount Hill of Hawkstone Hall, Salop, England. In addition to securing pointers from the Canadian National Exhibition the Viscount is making preliminary arrangements for Canada's representation at the Exhibition in Britain.

The promoters are preparing for a purely British Empire Exposition on a scale never before attempted in Britain or anywhere else in the world. No foreign country will be represented at the Exposition. "The products," said Lord Hill, "in manufacture, art, agriculture, minerals, timber, fruit, grain, and probably cattle, horses, and other animals of every British possession, as well as of the British Isles, will be shown." Arrangements are being made so that these products will be brought to and taken from Britain over railways and ships owned by British capitalists and manned by British subjects. Each self-governing and Crown colony will have its own committee to arrange for it, and, as far as possible its own building to hold exhibits.

It is intended that the Exposition shall be self-supporting and no subsidy will be asked for it.

The opening ceremonies will be in June, 1915, as near as possible to the seven hundredth anniversary of the Magna Charta.

Government Will Remit Duties on Sugar
Used in the Industry.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—The government have decided that to promote the native wine industry, the makers are to be released of the customs charge on the sugar used in wine making. The duty will have to be paid on the sugar but will be refunded when it is used in wine making.

STAR GAZERS

CONFERENCE ENDED

Los Angeles, Sept. 3.—Astronomers from all parts of the world who, since Tuesday, have been attending the sessions of the International Union for co-operation in solar research, will leave today on a visit to various observatories. Bonna, Germany, was selected for the next place for the conference during the summer of 1913.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 2.—A passenger train from Bridgeport to Winsted on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad ran into several freight cars south of the station here yesterday injuring three persons.

BOOK NOTICES

PIERRE LE MOYNE

In bringing together for the first time the scattered incidents in the life of Itherville, Dr. Chas. B. Reed has completed a task that was well worth the doing, and has performed it exceedingly well. He has succeeded in keeping to the happy mean between the dry-as-dust historian and the historical novelist, and has given us a narrative that is both accurate and readable. The life of Pierre Le Moynes, the "Cid of New France," was, indeed, one to fire the imagination, and it is singular enough that at a time when the book market is flooded annually with every kind of rehash of worn-out themes, a subject so fresh and inspiring should have remained virtually untouched. Dr. Reed first introduces us to the remarkable family to which Itherville belonged; to his father, the original colonist, Charles Le Moynes, who came out to Canada in 1640, and, among many other notable achievements, obtained an unrivalled influence over the crafty and ferocious Iroquois; and to his famous brothers, Jean Baptiste de Bienville, who, after an adventurous career in the North, became Governor of Louisiana; Charles Le Moynes, Baron de Longueuil, who became Governor of Canada, as did his son after him; Joseph de Sirigny, who attained high rank in the French navy, and died Governor of Rochefort; and Antoine de Chateauguay, who was associated with Itherville and Bienville, both in Canada and Louisiana, and was afterward made Governor of Cayenne. Nor does this quite complete the tale of the Le Moynes; three other brothers met early deaths fighting for Canada in the Indian wars.

Of Itherville himself we have a more detailed account. Dr. Reed traces his adventurous career from his school-boy days in Canada, his training in the French navy, and his first expedition to Hudson Bay with De Troyes in 1686, to his death in 1706, at the moment when he had completed ambitious plans for raiding the British colonies from Virginia to Massachusetts. Into these twenty years were crowded such achievements as have rarely fallen to the lot of any single man. On four different occasions he made successful expeditions against the English on Hudson Bay; he devastated a much superior English fleet, off Port Nelson, in 1697; seven years before that he led the successful expedition against Schenectady; he captured St. Johns, and laid waste the coast settlements of Newfoundland in 1696, and the same year forced the surrender of Pemaquid. Two years later, "tired of conquering the Bay of Hudson," as he wrote the King, he obtained permission to establish a colony at the mouth of the Mississippi, where he could find full scope for both military and diplomatic genius in withstanding the English on one side and the Spanish on the other. Contrary to the predictions of jealous friends at court, he succeeded in this constructive work as conspicuously as he had in his destructive exploits in the north, and laid firm and sure the foundations upon which his brother Bienville afterward built the colony of Louisiana.

All such contributions to the little known but intensely interesting and romantic youth of our land should be immediately stocked for our libraries and put into the hands of the youth of Canada that we may live down the statement made recently in our midst that we are a people knowing little or nothing of ourselves or our country.

SKETCHES AND SNAPSHOTS.

The Right Honorable George William Erskine Russell, grandson of the sixth Duke of Bedford, having come during his youth and manhood closely into social and intellectual contact with a multitude of celebrities, has shown his powers of observation and memory in the writing of a series of entertaining volumes or reminiscences. Among them are "A Londoner's Log-Book," "Collections and Recollections," "Seeing and Hearing," and now as he approaches his sixtieth year he surpasses them all in variety and size with "Sketches and Snapshots." Its five hundred pages are frequently divided into chapters, each bearing as its title a familiar name such as Gladstone, Garibaldi, George Eliot, Matthew Arnold, and Cardinal Manning, or else a general subject in which the personal element is scarcely less strong. Among these latter are "Palace and Slum," "The Sixth of May," "Paganry," "Biographies," "Lord Mayor's Day," "The Platform," and "Kin Beyond Sea."

A unique interest attaches to the September number of Busy Man's Magazine because in it is to be found a striking prophecy about the future of the Hon. Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, based on the extraordinary likeness he bears to three great political leaders. These three men are Benjamin Disraeli, Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. This striking likeness is brought out clearly in the portraits of the four men which illustrate the article and which are placed together for purposes of comparison, Richard McBride is still a young man but even today he bears a marked resemblance to all three men referred to and in his mannerisms he is astonishingly like Sir John A. Macdonald. All inter-

DRASTIC REVISION OF BANKING ACT NOT ANTICIPATED

Wider Range of Investments--More
Rigid Inspection of Institutions

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—Revision of the Banking Act, one of the principal Government measures in the forthcoming Parliamentary session, is not expected to be of a drastic character.

Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, was in communication on the subject last session with prominent bankers, and the decision to defer the revision to this year permits of further representations.

The bankers, it is understood, would welcome an extension, to some degree of the powers of investment, but on the whole are not complaining much against the status quo.

It will not be surprising if the Government measure makes provision for a more rigid inspection in some cases than is now authorized, but having regard to the conservative policy always followed by the Canadian bankers and the manner in which they have weathered financial storms, anything in the line of sweeping amendment is not expected.

At the same time, some amendments will be made, but the department will duly advise the bankers of what to expect.

PREPARATION NOW FOR COLLEGE OPENING

Newcastle, Sept. 2.—From present indications the opening date of the new Roman Catholic College—St. Michael's—at Chatham, will be October 1st. Active preliminary preparations are now being made and a first class branch of the education system will be the establishment of the new institution with seat at Chatham.

With repair work progressing admirably on the buildings, arrangements were made this week for the furnishing of the rooms of the college. Hon. John Morrissey will supply the beds and a quantity of other furniture. J. D. Creaghan Co., Ltd., will supply the bedding. It is understood plans for this department were made this week.

Already a large number of parents are planning to send their boys to the new institution. Newcastle will be largely represented at St. Michael's.

Rev. Father Frank Powell, a former London man, and now head of a Roman Catholic College of the Basilian order at Houston, Texas, is to become president of St. Michael's College and Rev. Father W. Roche, the president, is to open a new Basilian institution at Chatham, N. B. Father Roche like his successor, Father Powell, was president of the college at Houston, where he remained six years. He is now in Chatham, where the Basilians have purchased the property and buildings of another and will convert it to their own use. These charges were decided upon at the recent meeting of the Basilian order in Geneva.
