Canada is greviously afflicted with the Pelorus Jack spirit in politics. There are public men by the score who are continually on the lookout and for movements of momentary populatity. These movements and men attract for a moment the Pelorus Jack of politics, who give them all a friendly rub in passing, and the go back to their lookout post to wait for the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the next ship that sails with the solution of the new ships, that frienhly recipied the nearly the enemy here that solution to duty or in their case of devotion to duty or in their case of devotion to duty or in their case of devotion to duty or in their case of the new ships, that frienhly recipied to the new ships, that frienhly recipied the new ships, that frienhly recipied the new ships, that frienhly recipied to the solution to duty or in their single-mind would be slow to try conclusions with us again.—(Laughter.)—I never shared that opinion are important to devotion to duty or in their single-mind would be slow to try conclusions with us again.—(Laughter.)—I never shared that opinion are important to devotion to duty or in their single-mind would be slow to try conclusions and the point of the new shared that opinion are important to devotion to duty or in their cases of devotion to duty or in their cases of devotion populatity. Two weeks ago when it looked as if Mr. Bourassa'a man had no chance of succeeding in Drummond-Arthabaska, a good many Ontario Conservative papers said very emphatically that the Nationalist movement was a menace to Nationalism made headway however and now these journalistic Pelorus Jacks are rubbing themselves alongside of it in the most friendly way. Mr. E. Bristol M. P. who has always been more or less of a Pelorus Jack, is even beginning to praise the patriotic spirit of Messrs Monk and Bourassa.

For years there was general condemnation of the conditions of trade between the United States and Canada as most unfair to this country because of the excessive duties levied on Canadian products . under the McKinley-Dingley and Payne-Aldrich tariffs. The parties were entirely united in . their reprobation of this state of affairs, and the refusal of the United States to play fair in tariff matters was deeply resented. More reasonable and conciliatory views began to prevail at Washington, and overtures were made for a conference with Canada to consider trade questions. A few men who had become adepts at manufacturing public opinion set to work to preverit any improvement in the trade relations of the two countries. Some of them were protectionists who Co, Limited, Toronto, Out.
