

FOUND QUICK CURE AFTER EIGHT YEARS

Dodd's Kidney Pills Triumph Where Belts and Plaster Fail.

Moses Sherwood, a long sufferer from Backache, found Permanent Relief in one Box of the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Poodiac, King's Co., N. B., Dec. 9.—(Special)—After suffering for eight years, while all the time the remedy was right at hand, Mr. Moses Sherwood, a well known farmer living near here, tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and is now as well as ever he was in his life.

Mr. Sherwood's experience is similar to that of thousands of other natives of New Brunswick. "About eight years ago I hurt my back from lifting," he states. "I used liniments and plasters and wore a wide belt, but in two years my trouble had developed into Kidney disease.

"My back was so sore I could not lift any weight, when reading a Dodd's Almanac led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before the first box was finished my backache was gone and I have never been troubled with it since."

Belts and plasters may give temporary relief in cases of Backache or Rheumatism, but the only way to cure them is to go to the seat of the trouble. Cure the Kidneys and the Backache or Rheumatism will disappear. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure the Kidneys.

ROBINSON'S LETTER

ian Bank of Commerce for the year ending November 20th, has been issued, net profits being over $300,000 greater than last year and being equivalent to 18.38 on the capital and 10.48 on the combined capital and rest.

The Eastern Townships Bank has increased its dividend rate from 8 per cent. to 9 per cent. It is reported that the bank has had an excellent year, showing a good increase in both business and profits. Since 1904 this bank has been paying 8 per cent., previous to that it paid 7 per cent.

The directors of the La Rose mine will meet on Saturday of this week. It is not expected that they will make any change in the dividend.

It is reported in Montreal that the Seminary Street Surplice has sold its holdings of Street Railway stock, amounting to something over 1,500 shares, which has all been taken up by the Canadian Light & Power Company interests. This is considered to show better than anything else the strong backing which this coterie enjoys, naturally the reinvestment of this money by the Seminary is now a subject of speculation.

The Bond Department of the Montreal market is still very active, sales being noted in Black Lake, Converter's, Quebec Railway, Textile, Iron Rubber and Canadian Car bonds. There has also been a considerable amount of trading recently in Municipal Bonds. The market in these securities however, does not show signs of an advance.

ASEPTIC DRINKING CUPS.

Asceptic drinking cups are the latest improvement introduced by the Canadian Pacific Railway on all their standard sleeping car, in order to as far as possible follow out the recommendations of health experts with regard to indiscriminate drinking out of the same glass. The cups are a model of ingenuity, and are made by a special process. They are simply a circle of paraffined cardboard, superimposed on a similar base, the whole being neatly folded in a waxed paper envelope. When the passenger goes to the wash room and wants a drink of water instead of using the glass which has been used by numerous other passengers, and, perhaps, for tooth cleaning purposes, he will simply demand a glass from the porter. He will then be handed a neat envelope containing the aseptic drinking cup, open it up, unfold the cup, have his drink and then throw the thing away thus avoiding the possibility of receiving or distributing contagion.

JOHN BURNS APPEALS TO THE MEN OF BATTERSEA

It was a characteristic old-time Battersea welcome that awaited Mr. John Burns in the Latchmere-road Baths, where he opened his sixth election campaign. Musical honors, familiar phrases of greeting and a resolution of confidence in their member, as fully conscious of the right of the Commons to give legislative effect to the will of the people, were the prelude to a rousing speech by the "live" President of a practical Government department.

"We enter tonight," said Mr. Burns, "upon a short, sharp and severe contest in this, my sixth Parliamentary election for the borough of Battersea; and I ask the Battersea people who for the last twenty years have more or less led London on serious problems that affect the municipal life, the political future, and the Parliamentary enfranchisement of the people, to show their confidence again on Tuesday week by a majority that will be repeated not only in every working-class constituency in London, but throughout the whole of the industrial areas of the United Kingdom." (Cheers.)

At the last election, Mr. Burns went on, the Tariff Reformer hoped to exploit the depression which then prevailed, and presume upon the ignorance of many. He thought he had his last chance. He did not get his chance. (Cheers.) He never would get it in Free Trade England. (Cheers.)

The past ten months had the greatest record of international trade that Great Britain has ever shown in its commercial and industrial history. (Cheers.) The amount of outdoor pauperism was lower than it had ever been in England and Wales since 1870. London had the lowest record of outdoor pauperism per thousand that it had shown for several years. Unemployment had dropped since the last election from seven to four per cent.

GOVERNMENT'S SPLENDID RECORD.

Owing to the action of the House of Lords the government has been compelled to fight three elections in five years. ("Shame.") Two of those had come in twelve months. The government had not, as had been alleged, killed trade, ruined industries, destroyed credit, and made British trade leap to other lands. They had kept peace with the world. They had consolidated the King's dominions overseas, making South Africa united, securing racial harmony where formerly there was red ruin and the breaking of laws.

They had improved the Army under adverse circumstances and in face of unwarrantable and unpatriotic criticism from those who ought to know better, especially, noble lords, who disgraced the uniform they wore by criticising the Territorials as they had done. (Cheers.)

The government had also increased numbers and improved in ships our invincible, overwhelming, indomitable Navy, which comprises the largest personnel and the best sailors the world could produce.

(Loud cheers.) At the present moment 42 per cent. of the world's capital ships and 43 per cent. of the world's capital guns belonged to Britain. Never in the history of the British Navy was there so much efficiency in the handling of its ships, mainly on the ocean and on stormy seas, and in-shooting and torpedo practice.

It was to be hoped that efficiency would never be used, but if, unfortunately, it was required there were more ships and men than the Tories gave. Lord Charles Beresford, who was contradicted by himself every other week, had been blown out of the water by Mr. Alan Burgoyne, the editor of the "Navy League Annual," the organ of the Imperial scaremongers. (Laughter and cheers.)

LORDS CLIMBING DOWN

The conflict between the 600 peers and the sixty millions of the Anglo-Saxon race could only have one ending. The lords saw now the mistake they had made. They were climbing down. (Laughter.) They were half-way down, and the people must shake the tree that the lords would come down the rest of the way with a run. (Loud cheers.)

If this struggle did not end in favor of the people what respect could the overseas Dominions have for the Mother Country.

Her sons and daughters across the seas would have little respect for her if she took the insult of the House of hereditary privilege and class monopoly lying down.

Men would be saying, "Have the sons of Pym and Hampden sunk so low that at the bidding of the House of Lords over a half-penny in the £ undeveloped land-tax they are prepared to put upon themselves the joke of the Chamber that has lasted too long, that has been endured with patience and almost with obsequiousness?"

If the peers were to win in this fight, he ventured to say that the beginning of the end of a great people was near. If the people lost their independence they would lose their character.

The lords were a narrow and small class, who regarded wealth and poverty as giving men in themselves Parliamentary and political supremacy. The late and great Marquis of Salisbury said: "We belong too much to one class, and the consequence is that with respect to a large number of questions we are too much of one mind." And so say all of us. (Cheers.)

THE CHAPEL OF EASE

The Lords were without ideals, lacking in generous impulses, and looked after their own needs irrespective of their effect upon the other estates of the realm. They stood for the worst of all qualities—the hereditary principle. The people must say that they would not again stand the action of the House of Lords. (Cheers.) That House was not only a chapel of ease to Carlton Club—laughter—it was too often an ante-chamber to a landowners' meeting, and, when temperance was afloat, an overflow meeting to a convention of the liquor trade. The people had made up their mind that that condition of things was not to continue. (Cheers.)

The Government was securing for the people access to the land slowly but surely, and not on confiscatory, revolutionary, or predatory terms. The Lords had been mainly instrumental in the locking up of the land. The Government wanted to popularise the countryside, destroy the tyranny of rural life, and put a stop to the downward trend. All that the Lords resisted. Politically and artistically the Lords had survived longer than they should have done.

Neither Lord Lansdowne's mending nor Lord Rosebery's blending would prevent the people from bending them to their will. (Cheers.)

The House of Lords was unrivalled also as a passive resister to popular reform and national business. Their mock reform was only another attempt to fool the country and prevent the people coming by their own. Lansdowne's referendum proposals were only intended as something for the people to play with.

"Pneumonia"

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than "Lung Fever," or as it used to be called, "Inflammation of the Lungs" and the results come entirely from a local source; such as taking a violent cold.

There is more or less difficulty in breathing; a cough, at first dry, but soon accompanied by raising a thick, sticky, rusty-colored matter, composed of a mixture of phlegm and blood.

There is only one way to prevent Pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold just as soon as it appears. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this quickly and effectively.

Mrs. G. W. Bowman, Pattullo, Ont. writes, "Three years ago I caught a cold which ended in a severe attack of Pneumonia. Since that time, at the beginning of each winter, I seem to catch cold very easily. I have been so hoarse that I was unable to speak loud enough to be heard across the room. Last winter, however, a friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, saying it had helped her. I bought a bottle and before it was half used I was completely cured. I also find it a good medicine for the children when they have colds."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is pine trees the trade mark; the price 25 cents.

ATHLETIC WORLD HAS MANY FINE ILLUSTRATIONS

The Athletic World by its December number more strongly than ever establishes its position as the best athletic and sports magazine in Canada. Its exhaustive treatment of the whole national and world aspects and occurrences in the realm of outdoor and indoor sports fills a long felt want. The illustrations are many and excellent, depicting the happenings in universal athletics, especially presenting to Canadians everything of sporting moment in the Dominion, giving a complete resume of the past month's seasonable sports. It is a national monthly of world scope for Canadian followers of athletic sports.

Palpitation of The Heart

When the heart begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beats fast for a time then so slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to effect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, through this unnatural action of the heart.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. John Thompson, Mill Cove, N. B., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness palpitation of the heart; would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all suffering with heart and nerve trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
