

FOR SPORTSMEN

I have been appointed a vendor of game licenses for the New Brunswick Government, and will have licenses for sale on and after the morning of September 15th. I want resident and non-resident sportsmen to buy their licenses from me and I guarantee all a square deal. In addition to licenses I can fit sportsmen out with supplies for a hunting trip, and I can tell you where to go to get the game. I have a full camp equipment, which I will rent at a reasonable price. I can furnish you with lunches at short notice. If you want a lunch put up, just notify me. Patronize a brother sportsman who knows the game and you will be satisfied.

A HOLIDAY ROMANCE

BY MRS. WELLESLEY-SMITH

"She chose a very cruel way of doing it, then, and a very foolish one. Surely she knew her son better than to imagine he would give you up for such a reason," declared Sally. "Come dear!"

"Wait a moment. I nearly forgot the advertisement. Did you or Cedric advertise for me in the 'Daily Mail'?"

"No; I am certain he did not." Sally read the notice Janet pointed out with some excitement.

"It seems to be Janet, that 'you must be a person of more importance than we ever in our wildest moments imagined. We will take this with us and show Lord Alver.'"

Sally resolutely climbed into the car, and sat down by the taciturn Perkins.

"You and Janet must have ever so much to say to each other, and I am quite comfortable. I like a front seat wherever I go," she insisted and never once turned her head as the car flew smoothly and rapidly over the road.

Far too quickly for the lovers Ventnor was reached, and soon they were there was reached, and soon they were at the cottage, and Mold was hiding his surprise at their sudden appearance.

"Her ladyship is in the boudoir, m'lord," he said, "with a gentleman who called nigh an hour ago."

"Who is it?"—shortly.

"A Mr. Drew, m'lord, come from London," he said.

"Why," exclaimed Sally, who had a very good memory, "that is the name of the man who is advertising for you, Janet. Where is the paper? Yes, I am right. Look, Lord Alver!"

"It is certainly the same name," he began, when the boudoir door opened, and a grave, grey-whiskered man appeared on the threshold.

Catching sight of Janet standing by her lover's side, he walked straight up to her.

"You are Janet Arderne?" he said in a tone of absolute certainty.

"Yes," she said, "I am."

"I thought so. My dear, I have been looking for you for the last month on behalf of your father."

"Then he is my father," the girl cried distressfully.

"But—I don't understand—you have never seen Mr. Cosmo Dallas; he has been in Australia, and only just returned to claim his rightful place as Lord Alver of Alvermead."

"What is this?" cried Cedric. "Cosmo Dallas alive?"

"Very much so, and this young lady is his daughter. I have just been telling Lady Alver—your mother I should say. She is very much 'upset.'"

"Who is Cosmo Dallas?" asked Sally sensibly. "Janet darling, don't faint. Lord Alver, or whoever you really are, fetch her some water—she is somewhat overcome. Mr. Drew, for mercy's sake, relieve our curiosity! Who is Cosmo Dallas?"

Cedric answered her.

"Cosmo Dallas is my father's elder brother," he said very quietly. "I have no right to the title or estates since he is alive. Come into the boudoir. Mr. Drew will tell us every thing."

"Then you and Janet are cousins," said the irrepressible Miss Prince, her eyes widely open indeed.

"It seems so," he said, with a smile at his sweetheart. "Cheer up, darling! Since I have you I do not regret anything."

THE END.

INTERNATIONAL TUBERCULOSIS CONGRESS TO MEET IN ROME

One Hundred Americans to Attend.

Washington, Sept. 19—Official announcement that the Seventh International Congress on tuberculosis will be held in Rome, Italy, September 24th to 30th, 1911, was made today from the headquarters of the National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis. The Congress which meets every three years, was last held in Washington in 1908. It is expected that an American committee of 100 will be appointed as the official body representing the United States. Estimating on the present rate of increase, the National Association announces that the American committee will be able to give a most flattering report at the next congress. They will be able to announce that the number of tuberculosis agencies in the United States has tripled in the three years since the last International Congress, that more than twice as much money is being spent in the fight against consumption by private societies and institutions and that the appropriations for tuberculosis work by the government has been largely increased.

Prof. Henry says that boiled feed is useful for colts, brood mares and stallions if fed two or three times a week and that draft horses being prepared for sale or exhibition may be given a cooked feed once a day.

THE KLONDIKE AS GOOD AS EVER

Has Produced $150,000—Most Went to United States.

Washington, Sept. 19—The Klondike Placer Mining district in Alaska has produced 150,000,000 dollars in gold since 1898, and mining experts estimate that the amount yet to be mined will equal that already produced. Consul Cole, of Dawson, states that the gold output for 1910 will exceed that of 1909 when more than three and a half millions was produced. Most of this gold, he states, was shipped to the United States. A small quantity went to the New Canadian mint.

Cole reports that rich deposits of copper ore have been discovered in the southern part of the Klondike district.
