DEATH TOLL WAS HEAVY IN BOTH CONFLAGRATIONS

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Of the twenty-five killed in the stock yards fire today by falling walls, the bodies of nineteen including that of Fire Chief James Horan, had been taken from the ruins at a late hour tonight.

The list of dead includes the chief, the assistant chief, two captains five lieutenants, thirteen city firemen two private firemen and a railway employee.

Fifteen firemen were seriously injured, including two captains. A railroad wrecking train with derricks and steam shovels was used to clear away the burning ruins.

The fire broke out afresh at 8 o'clock tonight, after it had taxed the strength of the fire department for sixteen hours. Acting Chief Seyferlich sent a general call to outlying stations for fresh men. These aided by police reserves, continued the fight and the search for bodies of the dead.

Insurance men said that the killing of the chief and his men was not due to an ammonia tank explosion as first supposed but to the expansion of cold air in the beef warehouse due to the heat from the fire. This, it is said, forced the four story wall to give away and collapse. The force behind the wall was as strong as though an explosion had occurred.

Apparently maddened by the death of their chief who was popular in the department, firemen threw themselves recklessly into the work clearing away the fallen wall. More than fifty men dropped from exhaustion and were carried back from the intense heat of the burning warehouse.

Despite the work of many engine crews fire continued to burn stubbornly all day and all night. Thousands of people thronged into the stock yards, and the police kept the crowd back from the danger line with great difficulty.

Not since the days of the Iroquois Theatre tragedy, which like the disaster of today, was a holiday time horror have such scenes attended a fire in Chicago. The bodies of victims were taken to undertaking rooms near the fire. Widows and children of the dead men, white faced and frantic, crowded into the place. The bodies were so badly mutilated in most cases that the police would not permit relatives to view them. In several instances women struggled with policemen in attempts to see their dead.

Mayor Busse greatly affected by the disaster, called a special meeting of the city council which convened late in the afternoon.

At the same time a meeting was held at the Chicago Club at which wealthy business men started a relief fund. Theatre managers also prepared to hold benefit performances.

THE PHILADELPHIA HORROR.

Philadelphia, Dec. 22.—Fourteen firemen and policemen are known to be dead and more than forty are in the hospitals, suffering from injuries from which some will not recover, as the result of the collapse of the walls of the burning four-story factory of David Friedlander, dealer in leather remnants at 16-18-20 Bodine street. The ice-bound ruins are still being searched for the body of Charles Edelman, who is known to be dead, and to discover, if possible, the bodies of several other firemen who are reported missing.

William Glazier, who was held fast in the ruins for more than thirteen hours, is in a hospital suffering from pneumonia, but at a late hour tonight his condition was reported to be greatly improved, and the physicians have hopes of saving his life.

A NERVOY FIREMAN.

Pinned beneath an immense iron girder, Glazier gave one of the greatest exhibitions of fortitude on record. When he was found alive, held down by tons of debris, physicians wanted to amputate his legs in order that he might be removed. He protested, saying:

"I will get out all right, and in plenty of time. What good would it be without my legs? I would rather trust to the boys getting this junk away."

It is reported that the authorities are convinced that the fire was of incendiary origin and expect to make an arrest. The police and firemen say that the flames seemed to spring up all over the building at the same time. There was nothing stored in the structure of an inflammable character, the floors being filled with machinery and leather.

The mass of debris is frozen solid, and it may be several days before any additional bodies are taken from the ruins. Although Edelman's body was almost directly beneath Glazier, as the latter lay on the sidewalk, the remaining walls had to be raised before it was deemed safe to continue the work of digging in the ruins.

Some of the fire companies whose members met death and injury in the fire in the collapse were practically wiped out by the disaster. Engines No. 6, 22, 24 and truck No. 7 lost more than half their crews, while other companies suffered less severely.

CAUSE OF COLLAPSE.

John Lattimer, chief fire marshal, after an all day investigation, expressed the belief that the fire started in the office on the first floor of the factory. He was unable to give the cause. Rumors of probable incendiaryism, he said, would be thoroughly investigated. The factory building was 58 years old, and expert building inspectors declare that the age of the walls had something to do with their collapse.

Edward Clark, chief of the bureau of building inspection, said the walls collapsed because of their age, and the manner of their construction. The mortar, he said, was so old that a little heat converted it practically into powder, so that it had no adhesive power.

Then the girders and beams were of wood, and burned out quickly, taking away the only support of the walls.

Mr. Clark agreed with many others in saying the firemen should not have entered the building after the girders were ablaze.

Director of Public Safety Henry Clay, said that he had often impressed upon firemen that when they are working on an old building, it is far better to save their lives than to try to save it.

FORESTRY CONVENTION IN QUEBEC THIS YEAR

Proclamation Has Been Issued by Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Some Notable Speakers.

To the Citizens of Canada:

In the year 1906 the increasing necessity of inducing the people to take action to prevent the rapid destruction of the forests by fire and improper cutting led to the calling of a Dominion Forestry Convention in Ottawa. This convention which was largely attended by representative citizens, resulted in greatly increased interest in this most important subject with very beneficial results.

The period since then has witnessed a great increase in the interest in forest conservation on this continent. Not to mention what has been done in the United States, a great step forward has been taken in Canada by the establishment of the commission of conservation. The scope of the forestry branch of the department of the interior has been widened and a number of forest reserves have been set apart in the prairie provinces. The most notable is the reserve covering the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, forming the agricultural lands of Alberta and Saskatchewan. In the various provinces reserves have been set apart, timber surveys made, improved fire-rangings and timber cutting regulations adapted and schools for the training of forest engineers established.

Gratifying as this progress has been the growth of the need for more enlightened action has been even more rapid. The increased value of waterpowers, the dangers confronting inland navigation, the realization of the asset which the country has in its forests as hunting grounds and health resorts and the increasing scarcity of forests products, all show the need of further knowledge and increased vigilance.

To provide for the discussion of these matters with a view to the adoption of the improved methods and the better and more enthusiastic enforcement of existing regulations, I hereby call a public convention to meet in this city of Quebec, on Jan. 18, 19 and 20, 1911, under the auspices of the Canadian Forestry Association. To this convention are especially invited:

Lieutenant governors of the provinces, members of the senate and the house of commons, members of the legislative councils and legislative assemblies of the provinces, dominion and provincial forest officials, officers and members of the Commission of Conservation, members of the Canadian Bankers' Association, members of the Lumbermen's Association, members of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, representatives of board of trade, representatives of railway companies, representatives of universities, representatives of agricultural colleges, representatives of farmers' institutes, representatives of the Canadian Press Association, representatives of the
