Give your servants GOLD DUST to clean with, treat them rightly and you will have few occasions to insert a "help wanted" ad

They say a good workman is known by his tools. You cannot expect your maid to keep everything ship-shape unless you give her every modern help. To keep house without GOLD DUST is to do work by hard, old-fashioned methods. For cleaning everything and anything about the house—from cellar to attic—GOLD DUST is worth its weight in gold. It cuts grease and dirt like magic, does away with scouring and scrubbing, and saves time and tempers.

Your servant can do more and better work and keep sweet with the aid of GOLD DUST in all household cleaning.

ROTHESAY WON

FROM FREDERICTON
HIGH SCHOOL 3 TO 0

Try Made by "Cam" Mackay in Last Minute of Play—Game Mostly Scrimmaging.

Rothsay and Fredericton High School met in a hard fought game at College Field yesterday afternoon and Rothsay squeezed out a victory in the last minute of play. "Cam" Mackay scoring on a dash from scrimmage just before time expired. Rothsay did not convert the try. The game did not contain much open play. The local team had the better of the first half, but in the second Rothsay bucked up and kept the play at the Fredericton end. Both teams were forced to touch down for safety.

Brown was the star of the Rothsay half-line and was used as often as possible, on one occasion he got away on a fifty-yard dash that almost resulted in a try. Mackay made his try by running after receiving the ball from scrim and dodging through the backs.

On the Fredericton team Walker was prominent with his kicks into touch but did not get enough opportunities to punt. Burns got away on a few good runs. Brewer, who was shifted from forward to third quarter played fairly well in his new position.

The game was marred by too much scrimmaging. Rothsay appeared to have the better team and the score shows the respective merit of the teams.

The line-up was:

The team will hold a work-out this afternoon at five o'clock at the College Field, also on Friday at the same hour.

Little is known of the All-St. John team, but it is expected to be much stronger than the team which won from U. N. B. here on Thanksgiving Day.

"Doc" Malcolm is expected to be the referee.

ED. BARROW MAY BE

HEAD OF EASTERN LEAGUE

New York, Nov. 9.—The Eastern League politics may play some very strange pranks this winter. According to a "straw vote" polled recently, Pat Powers, who has been president of the League continuously for something like thirteen years, will not succeed himself next year. Ed. Barrow, the Montreal manager, is a strong candidate, and is said to have six votes pledged to him, while only the Rochester Club has come out for Powers. Pat, therefore, may decide to gracefully withdraw and make no fight for re-election.

SAILOR BURKE

WON FROM BILL
McKINNON LAST NIGHT

Crowd Took Decision Unkindly—Frank Klaus Did Not Box on Account of Illness.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Sailor Burke, of Brooklyn, was given the hard over Bill McKinnon in their twelve-round bout at the Armory A. A. Tuesday night. Frank Klaus, of Pittsburg, was to have been Burke's opponent, but being indisposed, he would not risk going against such a fellow as the Sailor. The Pittsburg man was introduced in the ring and explained his reason for not boxing.

When the referee gave his decision there was the usual howl, some claiming it should have been called a draw, others figuring McKinnon as the winner, and many conceding that the decision was right.

For seven rounds McKinnon did well, using a left jab and hook that landed quite often on the sailor's face and jaw. In the second round he put the sailor down with a short left hook on the jaw. The sailor landed some stiff left jabs on the face, but McKinnon always came back and he generally landed a stiff counter on the face.

After the seventh round, McKinnon appeared to have shot his bolt and he boxed poorly. Burke, during the last four rounds, sent some hard rights to the body and jaw. Though tired, McKinnon kept trying and landed some left on the face and rights on the side of the head. Several times he caught Burke in the face and on the jaw with back-handed blows. In the breaks each caught the other with his guard down, and landed stiff punches on the face and jaw.

It was a fast, hard-fought contest, and proved to be better than the fans expected.

In the opening bout Young McGovern of Woburn, stopped Joe Eagan with a right-hand punch between the eyes in the second round.

Kid Lee of Chelsea, and Tommy Flanagan, of Cambridge, boxed a six-round draw.

The bout between Billy Burke of South Boston, and Johnny Gallant, of East Boston, was a hot one, and had a sensational finish.

In the third round, Burke put Gallant down, and when the latter regained his feet Burke started in to finish him. It proved disastrous for Burke, as Gallant caught him on the jaw with a hard right counter, putting him out.

No program for next Tuesday night's meeting was ready, but it was announced that Frank Klaus and Leo Houck will meet at the club on December 6th.

SMUGGLE CHINESE IN AS "JOY RIDERS"

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Canadian secret service agents and officials of the Immigration Department are looking for a large number of Chinese who have been smuggled into Canada. At the labor convention held at Fort William, Ont., the sensational statement was made that thousands of Chinese are actually being smuggled into this country.

The traffic is said to be a most profitable one, and as high as $300 each is paid for successful entry into the Dominion. In recent years the government agents have kept such a close watch upon the United States border that it is almost impossible to land the Chinamen in Canadian territory without detection.

Now however since the automobile has come into almost universal use it is authoritatively stated that the celestials are dressed up as women and under the guise of "joy riders" are successfully shot across the international boundary.

After landing safely and joining one of the Tongs the newly arrived Chinamen are given proper clothing and employment immediately. He also has two years within which to pay back the cost of getting into Canada by the back door. This sum must be handed over to one of the tong leaders who work in conjunction with the Hang Wah Society. Failure of the imported Chinaman to make good this indebtedness inside of the two-year limit or for divulging any of the secrets of how this smuggling is successfully performed is a heinous offense in the eyes of their confederates.

was not at his best, but the same can be said of Sheppard. Both had let down in their training since the indoor championships last week, and the track over which they ran was so different from the boards of the Garden, for which both had trained, that neither of them showed his true form.

TWENTY-SIX TROTTERS

EXPORTED TO AUSTRIA
IN ONE STEAMER

Austrian Breeders Like American Horses—Vito, Crack Stallion, One of the Best.

Twenty-six American trotting horses left New York on Saturday on the steamship Minneapolis, bound for London. Their final destination is Vienna, Austria, where they are to be raced and used for breeding purposes. The shipment was one of the largest and most important ever sent to Europe, comprising three young stallions that gained records below 2:10 in the grand circuit of 1910 and 23 well-bred mares.

The stallions were The Plunger, 2:08½, Vito, 2:09½, and Vandetta, 2:09½. The first named horse is a son of The Bondsman, sire of Colorado E., 2:04½, Lieutenant Schlessinger paid $7,000 for him just after he won the Stoll Purse at Lexington, showing almost sensational speed for a four-year-old.

Vito was purchased from A. H. Cosgen of New York, for $7,500. After having bought The Plunger Lieutenant Schlessinger received information that other parties were negotiating for Vito with a view to taking him to Austria to race against his colt. Calling on Mr. Cosgen he asked him whether he thought that Vito could beat The Plunger.

"I think so to this extent," was the sporting answer. "If you will take him up to Poughkeepsie, where my colt is, I will go you a race next week and the winner shall own both colts."

This proposition so increased the Austrian horseman's respect for Vito that he decided to get him out of the way of The Plunger by possessing him and wrote his check on the spot.

Vito was one of the best three-year-old trotters of last season and was among the crack four-year-olds of 1910, having been beaten only a head in 2:07½. He is a son of Senator J. W. Bailey's noted trotting sire Prodigious, 2:16, and his grandma is the dam of Walnut Hall, 2:08½, sire of the Hactster, 2:01.

LATE GOLDWIN SMITH'S REMINISCENCES

"Living in London in leisure I was drawn into journalism, and at the same time into political connection," says the reminiscences of Goldwin Smith, in the November number of the Canadian Magazine. "I wrote some articles in The Morning Chronicle, the organ of the Peelites, as the section of the Conservative party comprising Gladstone, the Duke of Newcastle, Sidney Herbert, Cardwell, and Canning, which had adhered to Peel was called."

"I had the greatest respect for Peel as a thoroughly wise and patriotic statesman, while I loathed the 'black-guard combination,' as Wellington justly called it the office-seeking Whigs and Corn Law Tories, the work of Disraeli, by which the Peel Government was overthrown. Disraeli, who had fawned on Peel in his 'Letters of Runnymede,' now turned round and assailed him with rancor and slanderous abuse."

"I presently found myself on the regular staff of the Saturday Review. The editor was one of the proprietors was John Douglas Cook, a singular character. He was a sort of filius terree. What his early history had been we never could learn; it appeared that he had been in India; it was certain that he had been on The Times. He had edited The Morning Chronicle during its short life as a Liberal-Conservative organ. He was a rough strong man without literary culture or faculty. But he had great newspaper tact. Though he could not write himself he was instinctively know good writing. His courage and self-possession were imperturbable. Unrefined though he was I became attached to him and I cherish his memory. Our other proprietor was Alexander Beresford Hope, a very wealthy man, highly cultivated, to whose fancy The Review was a sort of literary yacht, though he was a High Churchman and inspired the religious department of the paper in that sense. He was generally supposed to have been a member of the Young England party got up by Disraeli, of which Lord John Manners was the most prominent member, and which is advertised in 'Coningsby'; but this he always denied. He was the son of Hope the millionaire, who had married a daughter of Lord Salisbury a woman bright and brave. 'Bedebuggy' was a sumptuous chateau. In these days there were thirty acres of kept grass with two men and a donkey always employed upon them. But sumptuousness was not the best of it. The other members of the original staff, if I remember rightly, were Geo.

BIG STONES THROUGH HOUSE WINDOWS

(Sackville Tribune.)

About five o'clock on Saturday morning some person or persons sent a large stone crashing through the window of one of the bed rooms in Prof. Hunton's residence and another through a window in a library of the same house. A member of the family was sleeping in the bed room at the time but fortunately escaped any injury.

The noise of the breaking glass was so loud as to arouse not only the members of the Hunton household, but it also awakened occupants of several neighboring houses. No one, however, saw the person or persons by whom the stones were thrown. Careful search has failed to bring to light any clue by which the guilty ones could be detected. It is to be hoped that they will be found out. Their misdeed seems to have been a most wanton one and nothing but good fortune prevented serious injury to the occupant of the bed room which was the target for some of the attention.

Venables Maine, afterwards Sir Henry Maine, the historical jurist; Lord Robert Cecil, after Lord Salisbury; Thomas Collett Sanders; and Scott, a clergyman, called, from his cure. Scott, of Hoxton. It was afterwards, I believe, that Sir William Harcourt joined the staff. George Venables and Lord Robert Cecil were the chief political writers. Sanders wrote the articles on social subjects, for which he had a fine touch. Scott, a special ally of Hope, wrote the articles on Church questions. Hemming was supposed to take finance. But when he and I, by strange and pleasant chance, met after many years in the park at Toronto and talked of our old literary comradeship, he told me that this impression was a mistake. Lord Robert Cecil had incurred his father's displeasure by his marriage with a daughter of Baron Alderson, an extremely clever woman who was supposed privately to help us with her pen. Something of The Saturday Reviewer was afterwards discernible in Lord Salisbury's speeches perhaps not to his political advantage; for that which would be smart in a Minister's speech. He offended the Irish vote by a philosophic remark on the inequalities of political capacity and the imprudence of giving democratic institutions to the Hottentots. "Master of flouts and gibes and sneers," he was called by Disraeli. As the guest of Hope at Bedebuggy, where we had very pleasant meetings, I was thrown much into Lord Salisbury's company, and I always felt and expressed more confidence in his judgment and rectitude than in his strength. Bismarck in his slashing way said of him that he was a reed painted to look like iron. This was exaggeration. But Lord Salisbury used to speak both in public and private of Disraeli's character and designs in terms which it might have been thought would make their union to Disraeli was ascribed to the pre-impossible. His ultimate submission sure of his aspiring wife. His consent to the attack on the independence of the Transvaal Republic, being the man of honor that he was and clearly committed on the question, may probably be ascribed to the influence of Chamberlain.
