ENGLISHMAN IDOL OF HARVARD-BOSTON MEET

Circles Boston Light Doing 33 Miles in 40 Minutes--Wins Height Contest From American Opponent--Roe Has Bad Accident in Landing--Governor and Mayor Guests of Horror.

Boston Mass, Sept. 8.—While trying to land with his triplane in front of the Grand stand from an elevation of about 25 feet, A. V. Roe, the English aviator, so badly damaged his machine today at the Boston-Harvard aviation field at Atlantic that in all probability it will be out of commission for the remainder of the meet. The wheels struck in soft dirt throwing the triplane on its nose. The forward planes were broken and both blades of the propeller were splintered. The engine of the machine was almost buried in the earth. Roe was uninjured, although he received a bad shaking-up.

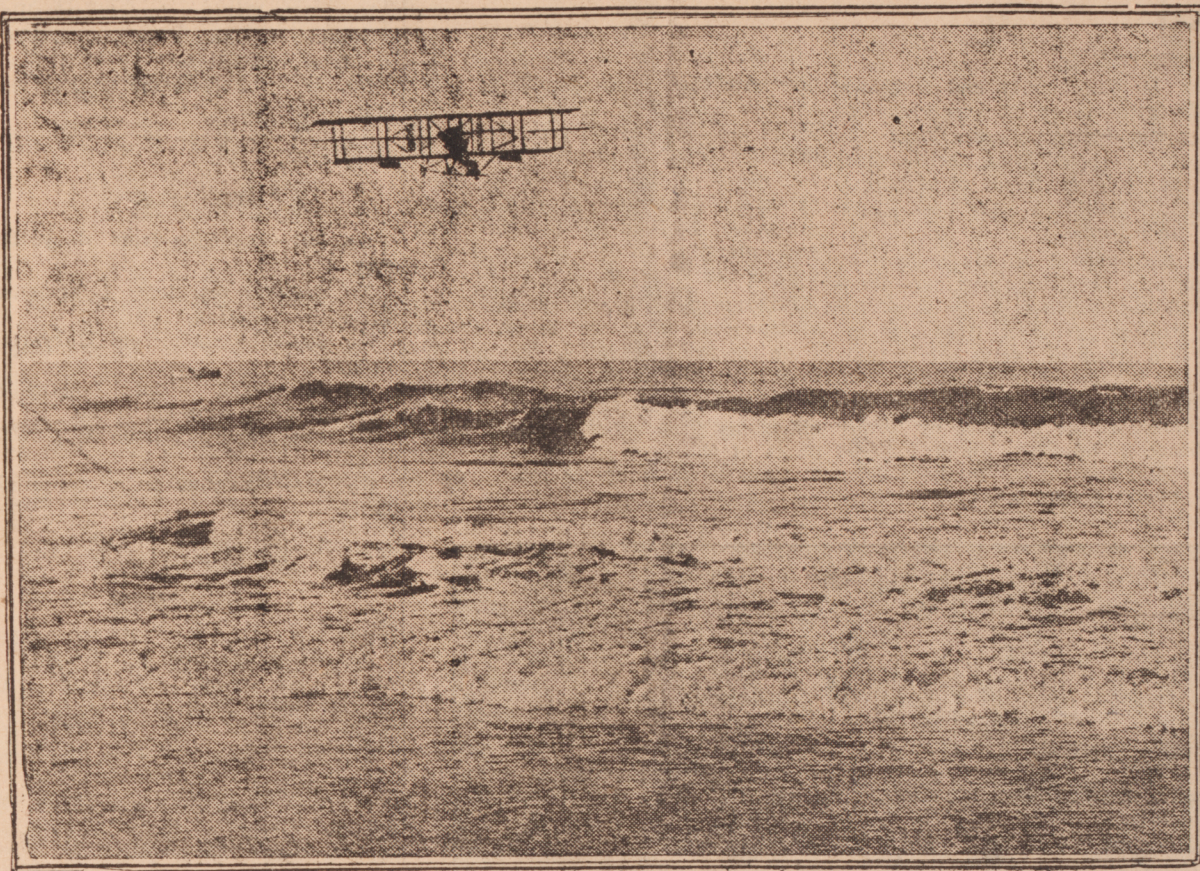

This was the second accident in which Roe has figured during the gathering of aviators here. He said following the crash that his engine was not sufficiently powerful to elevate the triplane. Both the professional and amateur pilots stated today that they would attempt to clip what ever records have been made at the meet. Spurred on by the large lead in the number of points held by Claude Graham-White the British aviator, the professional aviators made preparations today to attempt to overcome Graham-White's advantage. He however, keen in his desire to maintain the records he now holds for the meet, stated today that he would go after the accurate landing record made by Glenn H. Curtiss yesterday which is 63 feet 10 inches.7

For the first time since the meet opened, the amateurs showed an active interest today, five of them being on the field shortly after dawn.

Governor Draper and Mayor Fitzgerald were expected to attend the meet today as guests of honor.

Despite the misfortune he has encountered, the English aviator Roe said he is hopeful of getting his triplane into shape before the meet's end next Tuesday night. He has an extra set of planes for the machine, but he will have to have a new propeller built before he can attempt another flight.

AMERICAN ADVISORS FOR ASIATIC STATE

Frenchmen Ousted--Ministry and Parliament Split.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—The decision of the Persian National Council to appoint seven Americans instead of Frenchmen as financial advisors of the Persian government was the calculation of a heated dispute and is causing a split between the ministry and parliament.

The ministers are supporting the original plan to have Frenchmen placed in these positions and one faction of the Chamber of Deputies is holding out for the appointment of Swiss advisors.

A diplomatic question has been raised by the invitation of the Persian government to Americans to become financial advisors as Russia and Great Britain are understood to favor advisors belonging to neutral states.

JURY GETS CONNOLLY CASE TODAY

Evidence was Completed Yesterday--Prisoner Testifies in His Own Behalf--Swears He Did Not Strike Powers.

Hopewell Cape, Sept. 8.—Evidence in the Connolly manslaughter case was all in by 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and court adjourned until 10 o'clock today when the address to the jury will begin.

Thirteen witnesses in all were examined, four being for the defence. Connolly went on the stand in his own behalf as the last witness yesterday afternoon giving his story of the part he played in the unfortunate occurrence at the McDonald farm. The witnesses for the crown were Blair Magee, Mrs. Ward Beechin, Jeannette Powers, Mrs. Annie McIsaac, Mrs. May Rae, Harvey Power, David Power, Frank Mitton, and Ward Beechin. The testimony was practically that given at the preliminary examination, telling of the row between Connolly and Mrs. Beechin and of Connolly striking Powers when the latter came to him and took hold of his arm asking him to go home.

The burden of the evidence went to show that Powers reeled or staggered, or, as one witness said, may have jumped off the veranda after the assault, falling to the ground when some feet away, and never recovering consciousness.

THE DEFENCE.

Mr. Fowler, in opening the case for the defence claimed that Powers' death was not the result of the blow by the accused. Neither did the blow necessarily lead up to it. Powers, the defence contended, after going off the veranda, might have slipped on the grass and fallen, causing the dislocation. There was nothing the counsel for the defence contended to show direct connection between Connolly's blow, if blow there was, and the death of the victim.

Dr. Myers the first witness for the defence, gave evidence corroborating that of the other medical men in stating the dislocation might have been caused by a fall.

IMPROVED WATER SERVICE FOR ST. ANDREWS

C. P. R. Plans to Bring Chamcook Lake Water Into the Town

St. Andrews, N. B., Sept. 8.—The C. P. R. has decided to spend between $80,000 and $100,000 in bringing water from Chamcook lake to St. Andrews. The water is intended, primarily, for the use of the Algonquin Hotel, the artesian well system having proved a failure, but it is understood that the company hopes to make an arrangement with the town corporation to supply the town with water.

The work is to be pushed forward with the quickest possible despatch, so that it may be ready for use this year. Engineer Lumsden arrived here today to take the initiatory steps.

give evidence at the hearing, being called for the defence, said he was at the McDonald farm dance and saw both the accused and Powers there. The witness saw Connolly talking to Mrs. Beechin on the veranda, and saw Powers come on the veranda and go towards Connolly. He did not actually see blows struck but saw Powers sort of jump off the veranda and fall, afterwards getting to his feet and falling again. He did not see Connolly follow Powers off the veranda and did not consider he could have done so, without witness seeing him. Connolly shortly after left the veranda and got into Mrs. Rae's carriage.

William Trites told of going to the dance with Coney Mills, and of the trouble between Connolly and Mrs. Beechin. Witness saw Powers approach Connolly and take hold of the latter, Connolly afterwards striking towards Powers. This witness also stated positively that Connolly did not follow Powers off the veranda.

CONNOLLY'S DEFENCE

Thomas Connolly, the accused, being sworn, said he was an I.C.R. fire mar. He went to the dance at Beechin's in company with George Trites and others and while there got into an altercation with Mrs. Beechin, who refused to dance with him. Both used rather sharp talk. Mrs. Beechin told the witness to go home or she would get someone to send him, witness telling her to bring along anyone she liked. Just at this time Powers approached and grabbed witness by the arm, when the witness turned and put out his hand. The witness said he did not clinch his fist and strike, although his hand might have been closed. The witness said that Power then immediately jumped off the veranda. Witness said he did not hear Powers ask him to go home, or say anything. He saw Powers fall but did not think him seriously hurt and did not think he had done anything to injure him.

After Connolly's evidence adjournment was made until this morning.

Mrs. Oldbubble—I hear that you have very fine colonial furniture in the house you have rented.

FISHERIES AWARD AROUSES WORLD WIDE COMMENT

Newfoundland Satisfied with Victory--Control of Foreign Fishermen Long Needed--Washington Disappointed--Will Ask Further Arbitration--London's Comments.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 8.—The decision of the International Court of Arbitration on the Newfoundland Fisheries dispute is looked upon here as a substantial victory for the colony. The winning of point one by Great Britain means, it is pointed out, that Newfoundland will have full power to control all fishery legislation and make the American fishermen subject thereto.

In permitting American vessels to include foreigners among their crews this does not affect Newfoundland's right to pass laws forbidding her own people to join American vessels outside of territorial waters, and to punish them for so doing. The chief point on question three, which relieves Americans of the obligation of paying light dues in Newfoundland fishery waters, the colony must execute more stringent legislation to prevent smuggling.

Newfoundland's victory on question five confirms her mastery over all the waters in which fish are obtained during the summer season.

Question six, regarding America's fishing for herring in the Bay of Islands, Newfoundland never seriously hoped to win because England had recognized this right for nearly ninety years.

Question seven, while it gives America fishing vessels the right to trade as ordinary merchant ships do, cannot, it is expected, here give them the right to purchase bait or any commodity which the Newfoundland parliament may make the subject of special enactments.

Washington, Sept. 8.—A substantial victory for Great Britain on perhaps the two most important points, a consoling triumph for the United States in the other five points, with a prospect of another arbitration later at the instance of the United States government, is the way the decision of The Hague tribunal in the Newfoundland fisheries case is viewed here.

The decision culminates the right of the United States to share in the making and enforcing of reasonable regulations governing the fisheries in the disputed territory and it is that qualification reasonable that may permit the United States government to sometime re-open the question of joint action as to the regulations.

London, Sept. 8.—Considerable diversity of opinion is expressed in this morning's papers as a result of the Newfoundland fisheries arbitration awards. Although the decision is generally held as a victory for Great Britain, The Standard which was a strong supporter of the Newfoundland case, says:

"Taken as a whole, the decision should give satisfaction to Newfoundland, Canada, Great Britain and the United States. The main cause of friction has been removed and it will not be the business of politicians to keep old scores open. It is unfortunate that Newfoundland holds waters subject to foreign assessments, but we cannot give our fellow subjects more than we hold ourselves."

The London Post, commenting on the decision, says:

"As usual neither side can claim a complete victory. If the verdict was not as favorable to British claims, as could be hoped, the reason is found in the feeble character of the diplomacy of the Liberal government when the controversy reached an acute stage."

Three Chronicle declares:

"The game was drawn but in favor of Great Britain."

The Times has this to say with regard to the award:

"If, as we trust, the tribunal has disposed of that ancient and sometimes embittered controversy, the achievement will not only bear striking testimony of the merits of a general arbitration treaty, but will also be a valuable demonstration to the world what international arbitration may be expected in the future to do the British litigants have every reason to be satisfied with the award on the whole and it should be received with something warmer than pleasure on all sides, since all seemed to have secured the points most essential in their case."

SMALL BOYS IN COURT.

Two small boys appeared before Police Magistrate Marsh this morning, the charge of stealing picture post cards from a drug-store. The owner of the drug store did not wish to prosecute and the boys were pledged to appear on Tuesday next.

UNION TREASURER MISAPPROPRIATES FUND

New York, Sept. 8.—Charged with misappropriation of the funds of the Cloak Maker's Union, which recently concluded an agreement with employers after a strike in which thousands of hands had been forced onto the streets, Louis Rosen, secretary of the Union is under arrest here today charged with larceny of $700 from the Union treasury. The loss of wages in earnings and profits to workers and manufacturers has been reckoned at more than $100,000,000.

REPORTED THAT WILSON WILL GO TO TIGERS

Sr. John, September 8—George Wilson, the snappy Maine backstop who was behind the chest protector for the St. Johns in the last two games of the series with the Clippers has signed a contract with Joe Page of Montreal, with Hughie Jennings' Tigers, and is now on his way to Detroit where he will be given a thorough tryout this fall. The news of Wilson being signed with the Detroit will be heard with great interest by baseball men throughout the province. His work here behind the bat was favorably commented upon by the wise ones. He possesses a clean snappy throw to second, which made stealing bases a dangerous adventure, and showed a happy knack of clouting the ball hard and often.

Character is a flower that comes of a process of thoughtful culture; it is the crown of ceaseless inward effort.

AMERICANS CANNOT ESCAPE VIA CANADA

Washington, Sept. 8.—Home coming American tourists who return from Europe by way of Montreal and Quebec in the hope of escaping the vigilance of the customs officers at New York, will find some of the New York inspectors who are familiar with the movements of frequent travelers on the ocean liners, waiting to inspect their baggage.

Several New York inspectors will be detached shortly from the port of New York and detailed to the Northern border.
