YANKEE FUNNY MEN

ENJOYED THEIR SOJOURN IN FREDERICTON

Came Near Discovering a Descendant of George Washington Here—Made Calls on a Number of Citizens.

Messrs. W. J. Lampton, of New York, and Edwin A. Oliver, of Yonkers, journalistic funny men, who spent yesterday in the city, took their departure for St. John by the steamer Victoria this morning. They made a thorough inspection of the city yesterday and called upon a number of leading citizens, including Col. Marsh, F. B. Edgcombe, George Y. Dibblee and C. Fred Chestnut. They expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the city, and regretted very much that they had not planned to make a more prolonged stay.

Mr. Lampton was much impressed with the veteran Police Magistrate Marsh and was loathe to believe that he had passed the four score mark. "Why," he told the Colonel, "you are good for another twenty years at least and I am willing to make a wager that you will be filling this position in the year 1930."

The visitors learned by way of slant while here that there was a man named Washington running a cafe, and thinking that he might be a lineal descendant of the great and only George, they felt it their duty as loyal Americans to call upon him. After seeing and conversing with the Professor, they were heard to remark that the joke was on them for once.

The visitors attended the band concert on Smythe Street last night, and greatly enjoyed the program rendered by the Fredericton Brass Band.

Messrs. Lampton and Oliver are confirmed bachelors and seemed to glory in it. "You see it is this way" one of them told The Mail, "we can afford to take a jaunt every year and we are not bothered with family cares or letters from home. I don't mind telling you that I think that Fredericton has more than its share of good looking girls and you can put me down as an authority on the subject."

Mr. Lampton regretted that while in Chatham he did not have the pleasure of meeting Commodore Stewart of The World, newspaper. "I passed his office," he said, "and noticed a set of scales in front of it. I suppose he uses them for weighing public opinion."

Before leaving the city Mr. Lampton stated that he had made up his mind to return to Fredericton and purchase Old Government House and convert it into a mammoth summer hotel.

POLICEMAN EXPLAINED

Policeman Foss in reply to a letter given publicly in the press yesterday states that he did not "chase" boys who were bathing at the flats some days ago nor did he order those who were wearing bathing suits to leave the water. He found several boys bathing without bathing suits or trunks and suggested to them that they bathe farther down the shore and not in front of residences on Waterloo Row.
