

ADVISES THAT NEGRO BE TAKEN OUT OF POLITICS

Wealthy Southern Negro Suggests Such Action as Means of Aiding His Race.

New York Sept. 28.—"Take the negro out of politics. As long as he is in politics he will be in trouble. Eliminate him from political consideration and he will be at peace with his neighbors in the South where peace means progress to him."

Thus says the sage of Mount Bayou, Miss., Isaiah T. Montgomery, who began life as the slave of Joseph Davis, brother of the president of the Confederacy.

Isaiah T. Montgomery is in New York to attend the annual meeting of the National Negro Business Men's League which convenes this morning at the Palm Garden. Most of the representatives from south of Mason and Dixon's line are negroes of the post bellum type. Montgomery is the true type of the "before the war negro" combining with those qualities a real Yankee shrewdness, which has enabled him to amass a fortune of $150,000 and make himself a power in Mississippi.

He is in favor of allowing the franchise only to such negroes and whites as own property, on the theory that such men are bound to have the intelligence necessary to the casting of a wise vote.

"Any one can see where the negro loses out in the political game," said Montgomery. "Politics is a game for brains, and in the present stage of his development the average negro has not arrived at that point where he can match wits with the white politician. The time must come when the negro will deserve the right to vote, but he should not reach that point through unrest and strife."

The negroes living in and about Mount Bayou, where no white man holds an office of any sort, own 30,000 acres of land, worth from $20 to $40 an acre. They also own their own banks, cotton gins, and one of the finest cotton seed oil mills in the South.

Scott Bond, a land owner and proprietor of a mercantile company in Madison, Ark., says that during the next five years the negro will have made a greater advance than in the forty-five years which have elapsed since the Civil War.

"The records of the Southern States will prove that, in point of property amassed, the negro has been doubling every year," said Bond. "He is learning the foolishness of paying rent for farming land and is buying for himself and putting money into the bank which used to go to his landlord."

During the convention they will be addressed by Dr. Booker T. Washington.

CALLING THE MOOSE DESCRIBED AS THE ART OF IMITATING

(St. John Telegraph)

Calling moose is the art of imitating, with the assistance of a birch bark horn, from sixteen to eighteen inches long, the various grunts, whines, lows, squeals, bellows and snorts of the cow, the bull, and also on occasion the calf. Ordinarily it consists in imitation of the bellowing of the cow, but if the bull becomes suspicious and lurks in the neighborhood without showing himself, the caller must bring into play all his art and imitate the whines and grunts and sometimes the challenge of a rival bull and even the bleating calf. There has been a growing impression that this method of hunting is quite indefensible from any viewpoint but now comes Mr. Breck in the Outing Magazine for October with some good things to say for the method. He says:

CALLING THE MOOSE.

"On the ethical aspect of calling few words need be wasted. If any kind of hunting is right in which both hunter and quarry are not in equal danger of death, then calling moose is legitimate, for the percentage of kills is less than for still hunting. The great majority of its opponents are men who have had practically no experience in calling and have little conception of its difficulties. It is enough to say that such fine sportsmen as Selous, Richard, Ware, House and many others, indulge in it without scruple. It is quite as sportsmanlike to outwit a bull by luring him within shot by cleverly imitating the call of his mate at a season when he is especially on his guard, as it is to creep up to him under cover of wind and shot him down in cold blood at a season when he has settled down for the winter and is as unsuspicious as he is at any time of the year."

It is quite true that moose come to the call with varied degrees of caution, but as a rule they come blundering down on the caller without any thought of danger. This is particularly true in the first of the season. And any novice can lure a moose to his death in the early season in New Brunswick. To shoot a moose in September and the early part of October calls for very little dexterity and skill. In September, they are found around the lakes and in the early October they will answer even the "long call" of the hunter, which, Mr. Long says, resembles no other sound in earth or heaven. The ideal time for moose hunting is in the latter part of October, when they have sought the cover of the swales and ridges and when they are much more coy about venturing into the open in answer to the most killful call; and in November when the hunter must follow them into the forest and stoop and creep and crawl noting with quick eye the face of the earth around him and the direction of the clouds above; for the wind is the great difficulty in getting at moose.

The large game of New Brunswick is one of the chief assets of the province.

There is no other region where moose are found in such large numbers. The question of the length of the hunting season and all problems connected with preserving this magnificent game deserve the most careful attention of men who are authorities on the subject. The open season in Maine is four weeks shorter and four weeks later in opening than here. It is impossible that the moose can long stand the present rate of slaughter in this province. A correspondent tells of a man in the county of Queens who boasts having killed no less than eighteen last year; another in Madawaska who accounted for twenty-seven a few seasons ago. The Queens county man, the correspondent insists, slaughters from pure blood-thirstiness, not even taking the hide or the meat for profit or use. The other man, he says, sells the hides and divides his activities between Maine and Madawaska killing with evil and heavy hand on both sides of the international boundary. These are particular cases, and the individuals concerned may, before this, have been overtaken by slow-footed justice, but that there is much illegal killing we cannot doubt. Many are strongly of opinion too, that the middle of September is too early for legal killing, if we are going to conserve this great asset.

CHICAGO WOMAN GETS BIG DAMAGES

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Bertha Sommers has been awarded a verdict of $2,850 against Benjamin F. Mayer, formerly keeper of a handbook. Mrs. Sommers sued for $3,840, which amount she claimed her husband lost in gambling on the races. Sommers testified he had lost on average of $100 a day with the handbook keeper for six months.

FAMOUS ARTIST DEAD NEAR PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Sept. 30.—Winslow Homer, the famous artist, died at his home in Scarborough, yesterday aged 74. He had been ill for four weeks. Homer had practically lived the life of a hermit in his Scarborough studio for several years, past. His long life work many years ago won him a conceded place as one of the ablest and most original of American artists.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Not Due to Cold, Wet Weather—The Trouble is Rooted in the Blood

Many people believe that the twinges and tortures of rheumatism are due to cold, damp or wet weather, and treat themselves by rubbing with liniments and lotions. This is a serious mistake, and one which allows the disease to progress to such an extent that it is often impossible to get it out of the system. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood, and it must be cured through the blood. All the liniments, and rubbing and so-called electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism. This is a medical truth which every sufferer from this excruciating trouble should know. Rheumatism can only be cured by driving the poisonous acid out of the blood, and enriching and purifying it. There is no medicine will do this so speedily and surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make the new, rich, red blood, which drives out the poisonous acids, rebuilds the system and makes the sufferer well and strong. It is because they do this that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands of cases of rheumatism after all other treatment had failed. As proof we give the case of Mrs. F. X. Boisseau, St. Jerome, Que. who says: "Almost two years ago I was a terrible sufferer from rheumatism. The trouble first located in my right leg, rendering all work impossible, and walking excessively difficult. I tried to cure myself by means of all sorts of liniments and lotions, but without avail. The trouble was constantly growing worse and the pain more and more unbearable. Finally the disease spread to my other leg, and I was all but helpless, and I was completely discouraged thinking I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life. At this time I read an advertisement in our home paper, of this trouble being cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I first got four boxes and after using them for several weeks I could see that the painful rheumatism was gradually disappearing. I continued taking the Pills however, until I had used about a dozen boxes, when every symptom of the trouble had disappeared, and I could walk as freely as ever I did, and do my housework without the least trouble. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every rheumatic sufferer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CONGRESS MAY IMPOSE A DUTY ON POWER

Detroit, Sept. 30.—A Washington special tonight says:

The General Electric Company and the other elements of the so-called Waterpower Trust, which has gained control of most of the waterpower of Michigan, is seeking the aid of the Administration to prevent the invasion of Detroit and Michigan by waterpower transmitted from Niagara by the Canadians.

The War Department has been called upon for an opinion as to the meaning of the legislation regarding Niagara, under which Buffalo is permitted to import and use power generated from the Canadian side of Niagara Falls. The contention is that the law was meant to allow the importation of Canadian power only in the immediate neighborhood of Niagara, and that Detroit and other far-away places were not intended to have the benefit of the law.

But it is so unlikely that the War Department authorities will take this view of the legislation that it is now said a bill has been prepared for introduction at the short session of Congress this coming winter to place a prohibitive duty on electric power. This bill, it is alleged, will have the support of all the friends of the General Electric in Congress, who will try to force its passage, on the ground that it is meant only to give protection to an established American industry.

A duty on power would, of course, put a stop to the importation of Canadian electricity either at Detroit or at any other point where a similar invasion may be planned.
