Give your servants GOLD DUST to clean with, treat them rightly and you will have few occasions to insert a "help wanted" ad

They say a good workman is known by his tools. You cannot expect your maid to keep everything ship-shape unless you give her every modern help. To keep house without GOLD DUST is to do work by hard, old-fashioned methods. For cleaning everything and anything about the house—from cellar to attic—GOLD DUST is worth its weight in gold. It cuts grease and dirt like magic, does away with scouring and scrubbing, and saves time and tempers.

Your servant can do more and better work and keep sweet with the aid of GOLD DUST in all household cleaning.

PUNTS AND DROPS

Melrose and Machum showed up well on the half-line of the Freshmen team yesterday and should be tried out for the 1st team back division. It is said that parental consent would have to be obtained in Machum's case but a little thing like that should not bother U. N. B. when the team is right up against it.

Dave McCann fumbled on Saturday and lost again for Ottawa. He would have been right in his class on the Red and Black half-line Saturday. It is likely that Fredericton City and U. N. B. will meet again on Saturday next. The College would like to play the Algonquins on that day but as an Algonquin-Carleton game in St. John is slated for Saturday it is hardly likely U. N. B. will go up against the Indians.

City will practice with the College today and probably at Scully's Grove tomorrow.

Exactly an even dozen extra players were taken along by the Argonaut Club, of Toronto, to Montreal Friday night for the game with the M. A. A. Saturday. Coach Ripley did not select his team until the whistle blew to go on the field. Six backs made the trip, two quarters, three scrummers and thirteen wing men.

FRESHMEN WON FROM HIGH SCHOOL IN SECOND HALF

Score Was 6 to 3 at College Field Yesterday -- Fairly Fast Game.

The U. N. B. Freshmen turned defeat into victory in the last half of a Rugby game played at College Field yesterday afternoon, when they defeated Fredericton High School 6 to 3. "Cap" Deedes refereed the game and was particularly keen in putting the spectators off the field of play.

The first half was pretty much all High School. Steeves got across the Freshmen's line for a try at about the middle of the first half. VanWart the High School full-back failed to convert the try.

In the second half the Freshmen brightened up and pressed High School hard. They got the ball to their backs cleanly and only the sharp tackling of the High School backs kept the Freshmen from scoring early in the half. At about the middle of the period the ball was passed to Melrose at right outside-half who ran around the end and scored. Just before the close of the game Melrose repeated the trick getting the ball from Machum at right inside and shoving off the men who tried to tackle him. Neither try was converted.

Melrose and Machum did the best work on the Freshman half-line. Patterson at quarter did some good work, gaining ground by short dashes and stopping dangerous dribbles. In the second half Pugh and Laughlin changed positions. Joe Alexander and Jewett played well in the loose among the forwards.

For High School Steeves was the particularly bright star, tackling well and gaining round by the punts. Jago replaced Lawson at half-time. Bellevue did some good tackling during the game. The three quarters all played good football. McAdam was handicapped by his lack of size, but was there with the goods. Among the forwards Brewer and Cass seemed to be the most prominent.

The line-up was:

JOAN BROKE FOUR YEAR OLD TROTTING RECORD YESTERDAY

Covered Mile in 2.05 3-4—Dudie Archdale Also Ran—The Abbe Again a Winner.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10.—Joan, property of Capt. David Shaw, of Cleveland, won the Transylvania stakes, worth $5,025, the feature of the grand circuit harness races, in straight heats today. In the first heat she broke the world's record for four year old trotting fillies. She went the mile in 2:05½, half a second better than her own record made at Columbus.

Grace, also owned by Capt. Shaw, won the championship stallion stakes, worth $4,402, to the winner. W. E. D. Stokes, breeder of her sire, Peter the Great, got a $250 silver cup. The 2:09 trot went to Soprano Edward and Joseph Madden's mare, which won the last three heats.

Joan defeated the best field of the year, including Dudie Archdale, and Billy Burke. McDewitt in each heat held her in second or third place until the turn into the stretch and then sent her to the front. In each instance she won with something to spare.

The Abbe, prohibitive favorite in the Wilson stake, took the event in straight heats making his twelfth consecutive victory for the season. Twinkling Dan took the pacing division of the Kentucky futurity and Betsey G. took the 2:19 trotting fourth carried over from Saturday.

The Johnston stake went to Baron Penn, who took the last three heats. Driver Nottingham was fined $250 for not trying to win with Hallworthy in the first heat of the Transylvania.

In the final race, the 2:17 paces, the favorite, Lady Laurel, was in the also ran class, finishing eleventh, while the race went to Miss Overlook in straight heats.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Following are the averages of the leading batsmen of the National league, who have taken part in 15 or more games. The figures include Saturday's games. One more week remains before the curtain will be hauled down on the National league season. The eastern clubs all close Wednesday and then the series between the Giants and Highlanders will be on the card, starting Thursday.

Sherwood Magee is the real leader of the old league in hitting and this year has been his best since he entered major league ball. He has scored more runs than any man in the major leagues.

BASEBALL NOTES

Queer things happen in baseball. The Pittsburgh Club has been scouring the country for several seasons hunting a shortstop as understudy to Wagner, and found one in Wilkinsburg, three miles from Forbes Field.

Speaking about the prevalent idea that the Cubs will do a lot of base-stealing against the Athletic catchers, an eastern critic sagely rises to remark that they will have to get on the bases before they can do any of this fancy stealing.

"Run out everything and play your hardest at all times," is a rule that has helped materially to lift Cobb to the top round. He takes the longest chances when the score is close, because the other fellows are playing "on their toes" at that time and least expect him to make a break. They are confident that he will play safe. The same thing when hitting a pinch. The infielders are strained, eager and apt to make mistakes and the pitcher is worried.

The Athletics will trim the Cubs in the world's series through the superiority of their pitchers, in the opinion of Walter Johnson, the star slaban of the Washington team. "I don't see how Chicago can average more than two and a half runs to the game against such pitching as Mack's men will offer," Johnson says. "The heavy hitting Athletics should have no trouble in reaching the plate often than that. The Cubs have the better defence, but a defence won't score any runs for them."

Speculation as to the probable pitchers to be used in the forthcoming series for the world's championship between the Cubs and Athletics recalls to veteran fans the fact that in the first contest for the world's championship—played in 1894 between the Providence team of the National League and the Metropolitans of the old American Association—Charley Radbourne pitched all three of the games for Providence and won them all. Most remarkable was the performance, because of the fact that the games were played on successive days—October 23, 24 and 25—and that in the three games the famous old Mets made but 10 hits and did not receive a single base on balls.—St. Louis Star.

There are four 3-year-olds by Todd at the Lexington track who can trot in 2:10.

Evelyn W. 2:02½, used to be the favorite saddle horse of a Tennessee woman.

THE MUSIC OF THE METER INTERESTINGLY DESCRIBED

(Montreal Star)

What a volume might be written upon meters! There are monometers, dimeters, trimeters, tetrameters, pentameters, hexameters, common meters long meters, short meters, double meters and worse of all, gas meters and electric meters.

We would hate to speak disrespectfully of any kind of a meter; because for every kind of a meter—except one—innocence is claimed.

Yet to live long with a faultily, faultless institution, like a meter, must have a depressing influence upon the average man. The admonitory voice of the meter: "click, click, click," going on for ever; to a sensitive conscience, is worse than the ticking of a noisy clock. "Men may (click) come; and men may (click) go; go," says the meter; "but I (click) go on for ever," (click—click—click—click.)

And the meter keeps pace with the times; and these be fast times. "Everybody, speed crazy," says Louis Rubinsln. Even the meters have "got it."

Out of 4,088 meters complained of in New York last year; 1,692 were found by the Public Service Commission to be fast.

Fast! Well, what about it? There is a story of a wanderer returning from the wild and woolly west to New York and entering an Anglican church, finding a service in progress much more ritualistic than anything he had ever seen before. "Well," he gasped, "this—beats—the devil!" "That's the intention ir," mildly remarked the verger.

It is expected of a gas meter or of an electric meter, as of a steward, that it be found faithful. In these days the faithful meter is expected to keep on the move, even if the family is away and the house locked up.

We spoke of one exception to the general rule that innaccuracy is claimed for the meter. There is one sad exception—the meter that is too slow. The inspired writings of the light, heat and power companies, facetiously called agreements; delicately avoid any special and direct reference to the instrument that is too fast; but they have a specific provision regarding the instrument which "fails to register accurately." The phraseology of this provision indicates with sufficient clearness, what is expected from a meter in the way of accuracy.

"Should any meter fail to register accurately, the Company may, at its option charge for the current supplied during the time over which such failure extends, either on the basis of the amount per lamp charged during the corresponding term immediately succeeding (sic) the period of alleged inaccurate registration, or on the basis of the amount of current used during he corresponding term in the previous year, or—the value of the current applied as established by evidence.

Impudence commands no respect unless it is upon a magnificent scale. What lighting company first adopted it we know not; but it is to be found in the contracts of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company. We suspect it must have "grewed." Originally it may have been an innocent little paragraph, designed to protect buyer and seller alike. Today it contains three options for the seller and none for the buyer. How the ron must have entered into the soul of the consumer who feels that he has to sign that agreement. There is no compulsion—only he must. He ought to be thankful that there is a Public Utilities Commission for him to look to for redress, if his meter happen to start racing.

By the way, how many meters have he Quebec Public Utilities Commission tested, and what proportion were found fast? We would have a delicacy about hinting at the possibility of a Montreal meter erring; only the Company's agreement itself suggests that even a Montreal meter may fail to register accurately; and the fact that so many meters go wrong in that wicked city, New York, where they are watched with such jealous care by the Public Services Commission is calculated to arouse anxiety about our own cherished meters. Mark Twain once came across an awful liar who explained his propensities in that direction by acknowledging that as a child he had been in the habit of playing with an old gas meter. Surely that could not have been a Montreal meter, chucked out for failing to register accurately!

However, no doubt we shall know all about these things when the report of the Public Utilities Commission comes out; because although meters are not specifically mentioned in the Act, the Commission has "general supervision over all public utilities subject to the legislative authority of this Province."
