INCREASED PRODUCTION

AND FARM HELP

More intensive farming means smaller farms or the employment of more help per acre of land worked. A farmer is now working say two hundred acres of land under present conditions. Supposing he tries a more intensive method of farming, and endeavors to produce a half more or twice as much per acre, which is not an impossibility, he would have to work only one half of his two hundred acres, or double the number of farm laborers he now employs. Where is the extra help to come from? It is not anywhere in sight at the present time. Back to the land is a nice thing to talk about. But the cry has not had any very appreciable effect in turning people to the land as yet, says "Canadian Farm." If it were effective it might be possible for this two hundred acre farmer to dispose of one-half of his land to advantage and confine himself to making the other half produce to a large degree than it is now doing. The other fellow, however, is not waiting around the corner to take over his part of the farm, and therefore, present conditions are likely to remain yet awhile. But don't misunderstand us. We believe the great weakness in the farming of today is lack of intensity half-working too many acres, and not producing as much per farm as should be produced.

"I tell you, sir," said the man with the prognathous cast of countenance, "I look upon William Jennings Bryan as a man of destiny."

"So do I," responded the man with cinnamon beard. "Every time he runs for President he's destined to get licked like blazes."

"I suppose you will be too rich to take in summer boarders this year?"

"Well," answered Farmer Corntosel, "we'll take 'em jes' the same. Mandy an' the two gals want somebody to show off their good clothes and jewelry too."

"In many respects," Mr. Henry Arthur Jones told the members of the Kit Marlowe Club "Shakespeare was a very plain ordinary, straightforward person." Mr. Hall Caine, however, denies indignantly that he was very plain.

"Congratulations, old chap. You are seen everywhere with Lord Bunkhurst."

"Yes; I have rented him for the season."

BILLY DELANEY SAYS JOHNSON WILL WIN

Ex-Manager of Jeffries Thinks Boiler Maker's Chances are Not Good, Although he Declines to Talk.

San Francisco, April 28—Billy Delaney, the only man who really managed, Jeffries and the one who handled him in his most important fights doesn't think that the ex-boilermaker will win from Jack Johnson.

Delaney will not give an opinion on the matter, but the way he talks and the reluctance with which he discusses affairs relating to Jeff quickly gives that impression.

For Jeff and Delaney are no longer of friends of old. The one time manager of the champion and the big fellow are not on good terms. And all because Jeff refused to fight the late lamented Bill Squires of Australia, after promising Delaney that he would enter the ring again.

"If I can't say anything good about a man I won't say anything," said Delaney when asked recently as to who he thought would be victorious in the big scrap.

And then, upon being pressed, he launched into a story of the troubles that led to the final break between the big heavyweight and himself.

"Jeff had trouble over a gambling debt," began Delaney. "I did not agree with Jim, and that caused our first hitch."

"Then Bill Squires came to California from Australia with a great record—on paper. All thought he was a wonder. I went to Los Angeles to try to get Jeff to fight. Jeff told me he would and told me to go ahead and make all arrangements. I did and then he refused to fight."

That was the final split between Jeff and Delaney. Now the old manager who followed Jeff's career from the time he was riveting boilers in Los Angeles to the day of his retirement has nothing to say for or against the big fellow. But to those who know Delaney and his familiarity with things pugilistic in general and Jeff in particular, his statement "If I can't say anything good about a man I won't say anything" means "Jeff will lose."

"You can't tell anything about who is going to win until after the fight," concluded Delaney enigmatically, "and all I hope is that the better man wins."

SMALL GOES TO NEW BEDFORD

St. John, April 29.—Edward (Pop) Small, outfielder, left on last evening's Boston train to join the New Bedford team of the New England League. Pop had decided to spend the summer at railroad, and was to have gone to Winnipeg, but an offer which he recently received from the whaling town proved too enticing.

BOXING NOTES.

This is Attell week in New York. Moote Attell boxed Joe Wagner Wednesday and last night Abe Attell met Harlem Tommy Murphy. It is five years since Monte boxed in the East.

He boxed Jimmy Walsh twice in Philadelphia, and in the second bout Jimmy knocked him out in the sixth round. Then he knocked out Kid Taylor of Chicago in seven rounds in New York and then lost a decision to Owen Moran in 20 rounds. This, by the way, was Moran's second appearance in America, his first being at Philadelphia with Danny Dougherty.

Al Kubiak, the Michigan giant will get another chance at Andy Morris, at Lynmsville, R.I., Friday night. Morris got a decision over Kubiak at the A. A. A., a few weeks ago and the Michigander is not satisfied. This will be quite a treat for the Rhode Island sports. It is the first heavyweight contest there since the memorable contest between Joe Lannon, and Jack Ashton. There are three star prelims.

Jack Twin Sullivan has been matched to meet Al Benedict, Billy Madden's new heavyweight at Brooklyn, Monday night.

HOOF BEATS.

Charles Tappen of Attleboro, has refused $10,000 for the 3-year-old Chatty Direct.

Angiola, 2:06, failed to get with foal last year and has been bred back to Bingen.

Red Row, 2:04, and Harry Mac, 2:08, have been matched to meet at Dayton, O., July 4.

Looks like that grand circuit meeting for New York never was more than a conversational possibility.

Looks as if that world's record for the pole vault of 12 feet 9 1/2 inches, held by Walter Dray, of Yale, will be by the boards this year. With Gardner of Yale, now doing 12 feet 5 inches and Scott, the Stanford College athlete on the coast, doing 12 feet 6 1/2 inches, one good jump by either champion will put the figures around 13 ft. There was a time when 10 ft. was considered a great jump and it wasn't so many years ago, either.

MONCTON WORRIES OVER SUSPENSIONS

Ban of M. P. A. A. Prevents Formation of City Baseball League in Railway Town.

(Moncton Transcript.)

Supposing that certain Moncton ball players were to be reinstated would there be a local amateur league? If there is to be one it is about time something was doing, for it seems an assured fact that those who were put under the ban will be admitted to the fold again, and while they are waiting for the final word something might be done so that the league can be got under way as early as last year.

Until now no meeting has been called to discuss the prospects. Of course some have talked it over on the street corners but no one has come out with the initiative step and lately the talk seems to have died out and baseball appeared almost a dead issue.

But supposing again that the suspended players are not reinstated it is not likely local fans will have any amusement, as far as baseball is concerned, this summer. There has been talk of professional ball but this does not seem to meet with any approval and if amateur ball cannot be played then there will be nothing doing.

The Moncton players got theirs when they played the St. John Marathons in the foggy city last year. They were put under the ban and have been expecting reinstatement ever since. It would be only right that the locals be given another try as some who played against in St. have been treated that way. There was Hally Clawson, who has played hockey all winter with an amateur bunch, and the Moncton players say he played with the St. John ball team in the games they played.

"'Twould be a shame if baseball was to die out here this summer for it would practically mean a discontinuance for all time to come. It took a back seat one summer and Moncton fans will not stand for another season like that. Last year the enthusiasm renewed and would continue this season."

Of course there are some who would rather see professional ball played here but the majority, players themselves included, want it as it has been and should the reinstatement papers not be forthcoming, the chances are that there will be little ball played this summer.

A meeting has been called for Monday evening.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pres John I. Taylor said yesterday that it might be a good idea to start the season in the major leagues earlier in April as the weather records have shown that there is better weather early in the month than later.

Toledo is showing up strongly in the American association while the champion Louisvilles are now bringing up the rear. In the Southern league the champion Atlanta club is in last place.

The American league has 16 postponed games so far.

Baltimore has asked Toronto for the loan of Jimmy Frick until an infielder can be secured for the Orioles. Ed. Barrow's new catcher, Eddie Bridges, was secured from Pittsburgh, who drafted him from the Connecticut State League.

Toronto has secured a college twirler whose name is not made public. He will report in June.

Sam Crawford of the Tigers is slugging at a terrific rate again this season. It's a poor day for Sam when he doesn't get a couple of extra base clouts.

Manager Ganzel of Rochester is the first man to be disciplined by an Eastern League umpire in 1910. He was ordered from a game at Providence for kicking.

John Kling, the Club player, has made his first bow to the public as an actor. With "Cap" Anson, the veteran, Kling played an exhibition twenty-five ball pool match on the stage of a Chicago vaudeville theatre. Kling expects to join the ball team next week.

Billy McCarney had his nerve with him. When he bid $30,000 for the Burns-Langford fight, to take place in California, he didn't have a shoe-string to back it up, but took a chance that some promoter would pick it up. Louis Bolt has come to the front, with the Labor Day permit, and Langford's signature is the only thing lacking. The offer is $20,000 to the winner, $10,000 for the loser, and transportation from Australia and a $5,000 bonus for Burns.

Custer, an M & M entry, is none other than the bad acting pacer who flashed a race mile in 2:05 1/2 a few years ago.

It is reported that William G. Snell of New Bedford has bought Ardelle, 2:04.

ODDS AND ENDS.

That old question of the superiority of the college athlete over the club athlete is sure to be threshed out this season. The great strides the club athletes have made the past few years, owing to the encouragement the different clubs have given them, have now placed them in line for leading honors. Here is a list of some of them, and in looking them over there will be but a few college athletes to be found to be reckoned in their class: Martin Sheridan, Harry Gissing, Mel Sheppard, George Bonhag and many others. If a dual meet could be arranged between the winners of the college championships and the pick of the club athletes it would be a contest worth going miles to see.
