

MILLINERY

A Case of New American Dress Hats and SAILORS
Just Received

LOWEST PRICES in the City.

Miss S. C. Kelley
Queen Street

YOU'LL REGARD WITH GRATIFICATION

the appearance of your evening coat after it has been sent to us to be cleaned and renovated. We make such dainty garments and delicate fabrics our special care, and never injure anything we undertake to clean or dye. We are seeking to extend our business and solicit your cleaning and dyeing, which we do satisfactorily at most reasonable prices.

Buzzell's Dye Works

Tungsten Lamps

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

W. ALLAN STAPLES

ELECTRICAL ENGINEER AND CONTRACTOR
QUEEN STREET

MILLINERY

WE HAVE NOW ON HAND ONE OF THE FINEST DISPLAY OF TRIMMED AND UNTRIMMED HATS

ALSO A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF CHILDREN'S HEADWEAR

MISS MORGAN

YORK STREET

A MILLION A MINUTE

A ROMANCE OF MODERN NEW YORK AND PARIS

BY HUDSON DOUGLAS.

(Continued.)

They changed their clothes and carried out that programme, but, among the many pretty women they saw during dinner, and afterwards from their fauteuils at the Gymnase Quaintance could catch no glimpse of that fair face whose eyes had brought him over seas, that slender, graceful figure which swept through all his dreams like some stately old-world duchess. He grew restless and distraught. O'Ferrall took him off to supper at the Cafe de Paris, but with no better result, and they returned to the Rue St. Roche at an hour that gave the concierge there a high opinion of their habits.

For the next few days they lived a bustling life in conjunction with Cornoyer, but Quaintance found time withal to prosecute his assiduous search, and O'Ferrall did all he could to aid him. But they could find no laintest trace of Dagmar Lorrains.

Quaintance had even thoughts of advertising for the owner of the bracelet, but finally decided not to do so, since he could not well plead ignorance of her desire regarding it. He presently took to his car again, and patrolled Paris both within and without the walls, in the vain hope that fortune might once more favor him through that medium.

One afternoon he drove Madame Cornoyer and her hopeful son to Auteuil, where there was a steeplechase meeting at which he could count on seeing a good many members of the English and American colonies in the French capital. There were graceful beauties of many nations in gorgeous gowns on the grand stand, where Cornoyer dutifully established his mother amid a laughing circle of friends are carrying Quaintance off to the paddock, but none to compare, in the American's mind, with the simple maiden he had found barefoot on the seashore. At thought of that brief, unforgettable moment, he heaved a great sigh, and looking round, half afraid that his mischievous friend might have heard it, found that Cornoyer had deserted him. That earnest sportsman was running hither and thither, between owners, jockeys and the booths of the pari-mutuel. And Quaintance was not sorry to be left alone for a little.

He was wandering up and down disconsolately, puffing a cigarette, not much interested in the race on hand, when he saw a familiar face in the throng and almost immediately lost it again. It was that of a man, but he could not at once recall where he had seen it last, until like a flash there came to him the remembrance of one in a light tweed suit and a Panama who had shown a suspicious interest in the shutters of the bungalow on Peconic Bay.

It cost him two or three precious minutes to find Cornoyer, and, when he at length discovered him, it was too late to trace the unknown. He described that individual as well as he could, but the broad details that were all that he could well supply, were insufficient for any identification. Cornoyer cudgelled his brains to fit the right name to them, but, after he had suggested a dozen whose owners distinctly resembled the person pictured, Quaintance gave that chance up as lost. He felt dull and disappointed as he returned to the city with a gay party in the tonneau, since he had found out who the man was might have been of assistance incalculable in locating the girl. And fortunately O'Ferrall was at home, ready to console with him over such mishap.

"I wish I could have dodged this reception tonight," said Quaintance as they sat smoking together in the correspondent's rooms after dinner. "I don't feel in time for festivity."

"Brace up!" urged his friend. "You can never tell when or where your luck may be going to change. You might easily meet Miss Lorraine—or that man—at the Elysée. Brace up! Don't lose your grip on the game!"

"Oh, I'm not standing out for a moment," Quaintance declared. "I'll play my hand to a finish before I quit. What time do we start?"

"In about half an hour. I want to be on the spot early, if you don't mind."

In half an hour therefore, they drove along to the Palace, there to attend the function for which Mme. Cornoyer, at her son's instigation, had got Quaintance a card, while O'Ferrall had received his from an official source. The correspondent was persona grata, on his own merits as much as owing to his professional standing, with many of those in high places, but they were not unaware that the unobtrusive young man who now and then passed through

BURIED IN SHROUD HER OWN HANDS HAD MADE

Girl Consumptive, Feeling Recovery Hopeless, Attended to Minute Detail of Her Funeral.

New York, May 25.—Elizabeth Green of No. 59 Cambridge Street, East Orange, N. J., was buried yesterday in St. John's Cemetery, clad in a shroud of her own making. The coffin in which her body rested was of her own choosing, and the stone that will mark her grave was selected by her, and will be engraved as she ordered.

Miss Green, who was twenty-six years old, found herself in an advanced stage of tuberculosis last December. She decided that she had no chance of recovery, and began at once preparations for her funeral. The last time she left the home of her sister, Mrs. James Egan, with whom she lived, she drove to a store to purchase a tolt of white satin from which to fashion her grave clothes.

She worked on her shroud for nearly two months. When it was done, she called in a marble cutter and from his designs picked the kind of tombstone she wanted. She directed that it bear only her name, and it is ready to be erected now. Then Miss Green sent for Michael Barry of Valley Street, chose her casket, and told the undertaker what kind of a funeral she wanted. Everything that was done yesterday was as she had asked.

Miss Green's preparations were completed some weeks ago. The last matter to which she gave her attention was the care of the grave, and when she had asked that roses be planted upon it she was ready for the end. She said to her sister last Friday evening:

"This is so beautiful a day I'd like to die before the sun sets. I want to die before the end of May, anyhow."

That afternoon she did die. Yesterday's services were in charge of the Rev. Edward Farrell, rector of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians.

PARIS ADOPTS GINGHAMS.

This season, to the always favored linen stuffs which make delightful warm weather costumes, Paris has added gingham. Never have these once plebeian cotton materials enjoyed such popularity in high company; and indeed some of the new gingham are verily as expensive as silk itself. Often, as far as the material goes, one may pay quite as much for one's Scotch gingham morning frock as for the afternoon costume of foulard; and the gingham frock may be quite as smart in its way as the more ambitious model of silk.

The silk novelty gingham are particularly fine and light in texture, and the colorings are very soft and beautiful. A little blue and white silk in the throng and almost immediately lost it again. It was that of a man, but he could not at once recall where he had seen it last, until like a flash there came to him the remembrance of one in a light tweed suit and a Panama who had shown a suspicious interest in the shutters of the bungalow on Peconic Bay.

It cost him two or three precious minutes to find Cornoyer, and, when he at length discovered him, it was too late to trace the unknown. He described that individual as well as he could, but the broad details that were all that he could well supply, were insufficient for any identification.

Cornoyer cudgelled his brains to fit the right name to them, but, after he had suggested a dozen whose owners distinctly resembled the person pictured, Quaintance gave that chance up as lost. He felt dull and disappointed as he returned to the city with a gay party in the tonneau, since he had found out who the man was might have been of assistance incalculable in locating the girl. And fortunately O'Ferrall was at home, ready to console with him over such mishap.

"I wish I could have dodged this reception tonight," said Quaintance as they sat smoking together in the correspondent's rooms after dinner. "I don't feel in time for festivity."

"Brace up!" urged his friend. "You can never tell when or where your luck may be going to change. You might easily meet Miss Lorraine—or that man—at the Elysée. Brace up! Don't lose your grip on the game!"

"Oh, I'm not standing out for a moment," Quaintance declared. "I'll play my hand to a finish before I quit. What time do we start?"

In half an hour therefore, they drove along to the Palace, there to attend the function for which Mme. Cornoyer, at her son's instigation, had got Quaintance a card, while O'Ferrall had received his from an official source. The correspondent was persona grata, on his own merits as much as owing to his professional standing, with many of those in high places, but they were not unaware that the unobtrusive young man who now and then passed through

DR. WILBUR CHAPMAN PRESBYTERIAN EVANGELIST

On Way to New York from Cardiff, Wales, Where he Will Wed Miss Mabel Cornelia Moulton.

MISS MABEL CORNELIA MOULTON

REV. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN
MISS MABEL CORNELIA MOULTON AND REV. J. W. CHAPMAN.

New York, May 26.—It has just become known that the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, evangelist and secretary of the Presbyterian General Assembly's Committee on Evangelist Work, and Miss Mabel Cornelia Moulton, of Providence, R. I., are engaged to be married. She is the only daughter of Mrs. Ruth Weedon Moulton. Friends have come from Pittsburg, Philadelphia, and other cities to welcome the evangelist.

Dr. Chapman is on his way home from Cardiff, Wales, where he and his associates have been conducting evangelistic meetings for a month.

The wedding will take place in August. Dr. and Mrs. Chapman will live at Jamaica Estates, L. I., where Dr. Chapman is building a house. His bride, who has contributed largely of her means toward the support of evangelistic work, will travel about the country with him on his tours.

BABY'S TWO-PIECE CAPE

This two-piece cape for a baby is a very useful garment and the one which every mother can make herself. The little bonnet is one of the newest summer models. It is called the Bebe bonnet and is made of fine Swiss lawn with lace ruchings. One also sees the most delicate Normandy bonnets fashioned from this fine Swiss.

This close-fitting cap is tucked or embroidered, and a soft ruche of valenciennes lace frames the face. A full high crown is cut up at the bottom of the back in true Normandy fashion, and the point is bordered by folded ribbon which at the low points beneath the ears, merges into choux and streamers.

Other caps of capuchin suggestion have sharply pointed crowns, but fit closely round the face, with a little ruche of lace to soften the outline. Close caps with wing point turning back over the ears and standing out from the head slightly are also made of lingerie materials, elaborate with tiny tucks, lace shirrings, etc.

A knot or bow of ribbon is set on the front of this bonnet, just in the middle, where the wings begin to turn back. Pretty bonnets for small babies are made after this same model, but with twingings lying flat to the head instead of flaring.

Bonnet crowns and flaring brims, such as have been popular for several seasons past, are still in use, and variations upon this idea, in fine straws, are numerous.

The shirred corded brims are used on the milk bonnets and are combined with the full usual crown and the round corded crowns, but in every instance much frilly lace borders or lines the brim.

CURIOUS COMPENSATIONS.

(From Chicago Journal.)

Compensation for injury in the middle ages was in its infancy. The volume of the accounts of the Lord High Treasurer of Scotland, just published tells incidentally of payments made to sufferers in the siege of Glasgow in 1544. To a carter who lost his horse $25 was paid, but $10.56 sufficed for a woman whose husband was killed, a like sum being given to the owners of two broken drums.

TOPICS OF THE HOUSEHOLD.

For omelette jardiniere as it is served in an up-town tea room, have ready a tablespoonful each of mixed chives, an onion and half as much minced green tops of celery. Turn the mixture into six eggs, beat until the yolks are well broken and make like an ordinary omelette. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and white tips of celery.

LADIES' WASH SUITS AND SEPARATE SKIRTS.

NEW NET WAISTS, NEW SILK WAISTS, NEW LINEN WAISTS
NEW LAWN WAISTS, NEW WASH BELTS, COLLARS, JABOTS, TIES, COLLAR AND CUFF SETS, GLOVES, ETC.

WASH GOODS

A Fine Assortment in Wash Materials including Muslins, Ginghams, Seersucker, Linen, Duck, etc.

A. MURRAY & CO.

THE MAIL'S DAILY FASHION HINTS

The Mail, Fredericton, N. B.
Enclosed find ten cents for which you will have sent to the following address:

2181.

LADIES TUCKED SHIRTWAIST.

Paris Pattern No. 2181

All Seams Allowed.

Any of the checked velveteens, silks, chevrons or shepherd's plaids are suitable for the development of this pretty model. Four tucks either side of the front give the necessary fullness to the waist, which is fastened at the left side with medium-sized velvet-covered buttons and ornamented with a plisse ruffle of plain-colored taffeta silk. The turnover portions on the collar and cuffs are of plain-colored velvet, matching the buttons. The pattern is in 1 sizes—32 to 44 inches bust measure. For 36 bust the waist requires 4 1/4 yards of material 36 inches wide, or 3 1/4 yards 27 inches wide, or 2 3/4 yards 35 inches wide, or 2 1/4 yards 42 inches wide.

Price of pattern, 10 cents.

Pattern No.

Name

P. O.

County

Province

MARYSVILLE TOPICS.

May 25.—Empire Day was observed here by the schools. The scholars of some of the rooms wrote some very interesting essays on "Empire Day" and its origin.

The home of Alderman Robinson was made happy on Saturday by the arrival of a grandson, a son having been born to Mr. and Mrs. Miah Charters.

Mrs. Harold Babbitt and children, of Fredericton, were the week end guests of Dr. and Mrs. Fisher.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fowler of Fredericton, also spent Sunday in town. Dr. Will Rowley left last evening on the C. P. R. for Montreal, where he will take the steamer Lake Manitoba for Liverpool. Dr. Rowley intends being absent a year, taking a post graduate course in the Old Country.

Yesterday was a holiday here, the cotton mill being down and the schools closed. The handsome new flag now flies top mast on the Post Office.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane and Miss Edith Cochrane of St. John, accompanied by Miss Jennie Holmes and lady friend, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cochrane, on the holiday, returning home Tuesday evening.

A simple aperient for children is made of senna pods. Steep two or three in half a teacupful of cold water for twelve hours and drink the fluid at bedtime.

HOME MADE BREAD

VRENIN " "

FRENCH " "

MILK " "

FINGER ROLLS

MOTHER BROWN BREAD

PLUM " "

GRAHAM " "

CURRENT " "

PAN ROLLS.

DUNBAR'S BAKERY

123 Regent Street

Phone 361-41

SAILORS

- AND -

OUTING HATS

The Very Newest Shapes and Colors:

A Big Shipment has just arrived.

Prices from $1.00 to $4.00.

Prompt attention given to Mail Orders.

THE MISSES YOUNG

ALL THE NEW SHADES IN Greens

and Grays for Suitings.

Also an extra fine line of Overcoating for Spring and Fall.

550 Queen St. W. E. SEERY Fredericton

STOP AND THINK

WHAT IT MEANS TO BUY FROM US

Lowest Prices, Newest and

Up-to-Date Stock.

REMEMBER OURS IS A DEPT. STORE.

Just Received another Lot of those Glasses at 25c per doz., that sell everywhere for 35c.

We also have another lot of that Ladies' Hose that everybody is talking about, 2 pr. for 25c and a dandy.

Remember the place. The Up-to-Date Store.

ST. MARYS DEPT. STORE, ST. MARYS

At End Passenger Bridge

Samples Mailed to all Parts Open Every Evening till 9 o'clock

F. S. WILLIAMS

Special Sale

- OF -

Sheet Music, Stationery, Novelties,
Post Cards, Reading Books, etc. at

SLAUGHTER PRICES

Everything Must go to make room for an entirely New Line of Goods.

SEE OUR WINDOW

Sale Continues This Week

Please Omit Dates in Ad.

The Post Card Store York St.