HON. GEORGE F. HILL
DEAD AT ST. STEPHEN

St. Stephen, N. B., Oct. 21.—Hon. George F. Hill, ex-M. P. P., and at one time speaker of the local house, died at his home here this evening. Mr. Hill, who has been out of politics for some time, had led a quiet life during the last few years. He was in failing health for weeks, and his death was not unexpected. He is survived by three brothers—Arthur, Edgar and Henry E.

Deceased was the son of Hon. Geo. S. Hill, of the State of Maine, who came to New Brunswick in his infancy and served in the New Brunswick assembly and legislative council for thirty-two years, and in the government of New Brunswick. His mother was descended from English Puritans, and was born at Stephen. He was educated at home and in the United States, and was admitted an attorney in 1854 and in the same year went into mercantile pursuits, retiring in 1882. He was official assignee for Charlotte County, 1869-1878, and a member of the legislature for twenty-five years, fifteen years in the legislature, and ten in the legislative council. He was elected to the assembly in 1865, defeated in 1866, and elected again in 1878, remaining in the legislature until appointed a member of the legislative council in 1882. He was president of the legislative council from 1887 until dissolution of that branch in 1892. He was again re-elected at the general elections 1899 and 1903. He was speaker of the assembly, which office he resigned Aug. 31, 1900.

Mr. Hill was a member of the Tweedie ministry without portfolio up to February, 1903. For a number of years he has been a member of the Senate of the University of New Brunswick. In politics he was a Liberal.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE TO OTHER MOTHERS

Mrs. Nicholas Breau, Rogersville, N. B., writes:—"I can highly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers whose little ones are constipated. I gave my little girl the Tablets and they regulated her bowels and now she sleeps well, eats well, is fat and good all the time. I am really delighted with the Tablets and I always keep them in the house and as soon as my little girl becomes troubled or feverish I give her the Tablets and she is soon well again. Please send me another box for they are the very best medicine I know of for little ones." The Tablets are sold under a guarantee to contain nothing injurious to even the youngest child. Sold at 25c a box by all medicine dealers or from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THERE MUST BE CO-OPERATION TO SAVE FORESTS FROM FIRES

(Canada Lumberman)

The perennial laments about the loss resulting from forest fires throughout Canada and the United States have taken a rather more encouraging form from this season than in former years. In Canada the subject has lately succeeded in attracting the interest of the Prime Minister to such an extent as to lead him to make an important public utterance upon it, and to propose a method for reducing the loss. During his recent visit to western Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier received an impressive object lesson in the matter. When passing through Seymour narrows on the steamer Prince George one day late in August, he not only saw, but remarked to many members of his party, the terrible destruction caused by forest fires in that vicinity. Later, on the same day, his steamer threaded the island-bound passage of Johnston Straits, away up near the entrance to Queen Charlotte Sound, and the Prime Minister was again moved to discuss the subject with a good deal of vigor. Vast hillsides which, a number of years ago, had been partly logged over, were blazing high. In some places near Albert Bay entire mountains were on fire. Sir Wilfrid was told that when the loggers carried away the commercially valuable sections of the trees they left lying in the woods tops and branches which became dry during the succeeding summers and afforded excellent food for the fires.

Sir Wilfrid was so much impressed with the matter that he declared upon the spot that the provincial and federal governments should get together and devise a plan for preventing fires, by compelling the loggers to burn the brush at the time, or in some other manner effectively reduce the risk of a fire. When Sir Wilfrid was, making these observations the whole country was shrouded in a pall of smoke from fires which were devouring great areas of valuable timber in many districts.

"Co-operation," as hinted by Sir Wilfrid, is unquestionable the only effective method of fighting forest fires. But there are many kinds of co-operation, and some of them are not of much use. At the present time, for instance, it is to be feared that the two governments, provincial and federal, although they co-operate to a certain extent, are not securing the results warranted by the expenditure, or which are equal to the demands of the case. For some time the Dominion Government, which maintains a small force of fighters in the railway belt, objected to any assistance being given, even by the province, in the work of fire prevention. During the present year there has been a little actual co-operation of forces. In order to attain effective results, the best method would be to support only one fire-fighting force, which should be controlled by one government and supported by both. This, of course, would involve a loss of a considerable amount of patronage to the Dominion Government, and some members of parliament might not appreciate this feature. Public opinion, however, should be aroused to the point at which it would compel the government to forego any consideration of patronage and take into consideration only the saving which can be effected. If both governments were to unite in supporting the various fighting forces, and the provincial government were to superintend the work, it is reasonable to hope that the service might shortly be placed upon an effective basis.

That the problem requires the services of the most energetic and resourceful minds is evident from the fact that, during the month of July alone, the forest fires loss amounted to $40,000 in British Columbia, and that $317,760 worth of improvements were destroyed. No less than 401 fires were attended to by the provincial forces, at a cost of $40,163 in salaries and expenses, and private companies and individuals are estimated to have spent a further sum of $20,000. Of the 401 fires, 25 per cent. are attributed to C. P. R. locomotives; 95 per cent. of the fires were discovered in time to extinguish without much loss. Eight lives were sacrificed as a result of the fires during the one month.

Mr. W. C. Gladwin, chief fire warden of British Columbia, in his report upon the above fires, makes the suggestion that the railway companies should be obliged to use oil for fuel in the timbered sections of the country, even in this involved bonusing the railways for each engine thus equipped. He believes that it is impossible to prevent the escape of cinders by a screen, and at the same time allow sufficient draft for the engine. Another suggestion which he makes is that screens should be placed upon the windows of all the smoking compartments, as many fires are started by smokers throwing away cigar and cigarette stubs. One so frequently hears these and many other important preventive measures advocated, and yet the fires have occurred with such discouraging regularity that it seems as though nothing effective will ever be devised or put into practice. There is no good reason for taking such a pessimistic view of the matter, and there is one way, and one only, for stopping the loss by forest fires. That is to settle at once and forever upon a responsible body in each province, and then, after making diligent enquiry as to causes and methods, to set to work vigorously with the determined intention of adopting every practical measure. Not until this has been done will the governments of the country be acquitted of the charge that they are carelessly permitting one of the most valuable natural resources to go to needless waste.
