Cool Kitchen—Perfect Cooking

The housewife with years of experience—the woman who knows how to cook—finds, after practical tests and hard trials, the New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is her idea of what a good cook-stove really ought to be.

She finds it requires less attention, costs less to operate, and cooks all food better than any other stove she has ever tried.

She finds the New Perfection oven bakes and roasts perfectly. The has a Cabinet Top with a shelf for keeping plates and food hot. There are drop shelves for coffee pot or saucepans, and nicked towel racks. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

CAUTIONARY NOTE: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "NEW PERFECTION." Every dealer everywhere; if not at yours, write for Descriptive Circular to the nearest agency of the

IN THE COILS OF BOA CONSTRUCTOR

Reptile Seizes the Attendant as He was Clearing its Pit and it Had to be Cut Up with Knives.

Albany, June 6.—Fast in the coils of a monster boa constrictor which was slowly crushing his legs and body, John W. McCarthy, an attendant in an animal show exhibiting on Broadway, had an experience yesterday that he will not soon forget. But for the alacrity of Bert Christian and two other men McCarthy would have been crushed to death.

McCarthy was cleaning the large pit in which the boa was confined. He had been warned by the manager not to attempt to enter the pit under any circumstances, but to use long handled brushes. McCarthy, however, neglected to obey orders, being in a hurry, he said, and he leaped into the pit. Without warning the snake snapped at him, and the fangs caught in the sleeve of his left arm, tearing away the cloth and scratching the flesh badly. McCarthy attempted to jump aside but was not quick enough to avoid the serpent, which quickly wound itself around him several times.

McCarthy was thrown to the bottom of the pit, where he struggled desperately to free himself. His danger was realized by Christian, who heard his cries, and with others he leaped into the pit, one man armed with a cleaver and others with knives. Christian quickly hacked the muscles of the boa until the serpent relaxed its hold, allowing McCarthy's body to be drawn from the pit. He was faint and dropped with perspiration.

The snake, which was then killed, was about twenty-eight feet long, and twenty-six inches in circumference. The manager said it was valued at $2,800.

HOW LUNENBURG TORIES RAISED A CAMPAIGN FUND

Borrowed $1800 From Retired Sea Captain on a Note and Refused to Pay it Back on Ground that Money was Used for Corrupt Purposes.

Lunenburg, June 7.—A lawsuit of a sensational character is being tried here before Mr. Justice Graham, in the Supreme Court. The suit is Cashon vs Kaulbach, the latter being R. C. S. Kaulbach, nephew of the late C. E. E. Kaulbach, Ex-M.P., and one of the executors of his estate. It appears that at the Dominion election of 1904 the Tory Party in this County was scarce of funds, and, after the failure of a few expedients, the happy thought of raising money by a note was advocated by some of the party leaders.

It is known that W. H. Cashon, of Bridgewater, a retired ship captain and prominent Conservative, had money on deposit in one of the Banks and he was approached by a deputation. He was willing to loan $1800, on the demand note of R. B. S. Kaulbach and S. W. Oxner. As Mr. Cashon was only getting 3 per cent at the Bank he was to get six per cent, which he considered a good investment.

GOT THE CAPTAIN'S CHEQUE

According to the evidence given to day, Arthur Roberts took the note, and Captain Cashon gave him a cheque for the money. Mr. Roberts, on his own evidence admits getting the money and parcelling it out among the workers of the party, before and after the election of 1904.

Mr. Cashon was never in doubt in regard to the payment of his note, being, "Jack Easy" as long as the interest came, but after a time C. E. Kaulbach, the chieftain of the Conservative Party died, and the genial captain became anxious for the welfare of his investment.

R. C. S. Kaulbach has repudiated the note on the ground that it was for corrupt purposes and was so used and therefore, illegal. V. J. Paton for the defendant, and J. A. Maclean, C. W. Lane and Arthur Roberts for the plaintiff.

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE

Much sensational evidence was given which showed that the "party of purity" have been in the habit of using money lavishly to carry elections. The witnesses are all Conservatives, and they manifested considerable trembling, nervousness and voices harsh with huskiness.

Dr. Stewart's evidence showed that he was anxious to have the matter settled out of Court as it was a "family fight," and exposures were bound to follow and influential members of the party be thereby implicated.

After the note was negotiated, the party were still short of funds and the Doctor agreed to meet R. C. S. Kaulbach half way between here and Bridgewater to further augment the campaign fund.

MET IN SWAMP

They met a few miles from town and left the public highway by a narrow path through the timber to the dim concealment of a swamp with wooly-dog moss where Mr. Kaulbach produced a sack of "filthy lucre," but Dr. Stewart was modest in his demands. He only took $500 giving as his reason for not taking more of it was too late and that the "Jig was up."

Arthur Roberts was the next witness and he testified that he handled the funds in Bridgewater end for six years and kept the vouchers till he found that there was a lawsuit pending over the Cashon note and, as dead men tell no tales, he destroyed the payrolls and all documents in connection with the elections he had to do with. He said that it was always difficult to get election funds from C. E. Kaulbach as he was under the impression that the money was often spent for other than election purposes.

Mr. Roberts admitted that he took the note to Captain Cashon and got a cheque for $1800, which he paid out to different Conservative workers.

THE CAPTAIN'S VERSION.

Captain Cashon testified that he lent the money as a business proposition and did not know that it was for political purposes. The evidence was all finished this afternoon and the case will be continued at a later date. Much sympathy is evidenced for the plaintiff, as he lent the money in good faith.

STATEMENT OF CLAIM

The plaintiff's claim is against the defendants as the makers of a joint and several promissory note for $1,800 dated October 20, 1904, and payable on demand to the order of the plaintiff with interest at six per cent per annum, amounting in all, to $2,330 and interest on $1,800 from date of writ until payment.

PLEA FOR THE DEFENCE.

As to the statement of claim, the defendants say that the said note was signed by the defendants under the following circumstances:

(1) At the time of the signing of said note the Dominion elections to be held on the third of November 1904, were pending and the election of a member for the County of Lunenburg to serve in the House of Commons was also then pending and was to be held on the third day of November, 1904 for which election writs had been previously issued. The candidates at said election were the late Charles Edwin Kaulbach and Mr. Alexander Kenneth MacLean, the former representing the Conservative Party in the County of Lunenburg, and the latter the Liberal Party.

(2) The plaintiff was a supporter of said Charles Edwin Kaulbach and anxious to secure his election.

HOW THE SWAG WAS RAISED

(3) At meetings of the executive committee working in the interest of the candidate Charles Edwin Kaulbach held during the said election, it was deemed desirable and it was decided to raise campaign funds for the purpose of said election. The candidate Charles Edwin Kaulbach was present at one of the said meetings and it was arranged and understood by all present that the necessary funds for the election should be temporarily financed, in the usual way, that is, in the manner in which elections in the past, in which said Charles Edwin Kaulbach was a candidate, had been financed. In pursuance of said decision of the committee, the plaintiff and other persons were interviewed by members of the committee and the plaintiff agreed to loan or advance to the committee or to the candidate, the said Charles Edwin Kaulbach the sum of eighteen hundred dollars to be used at said election in New Brunswick.
