CAMP SUSSEX SETTLES DOWN TO WORK IN EARNEST

All Day Manoeuvres Yesterday by the Different Crops—Hospital Services
Called Into Requisition—Escaped
Prisoner From St. John Police
Caused Some Excitement.

(Telegraph.)

Sussex, June 29.—Today was the first real busy one at Camp Sussex, for the men camped there. Everywhere about the grounds one would spy a group or detachment of soldiers busily at work attending to their drill, all together presenting a striking spectacle, with men on horseback galloping about; artillerymen drilling on their gun-carriages; army service men making their daily deliveries in their express wagons; squadrons of cavalry busily engaged in performing their drill, and great hosts of infantrymen in their bright red uniforms marching and wheeling on the higher ground.

The signallers also performed attractive drill with their colored flags, numbering about 100, waving and shaking in unison at the command of their instructors.

The weather was all that could be desired, being neither too cold nor too hot, but very favorable to the holding of a continual drill from early morning until late in the afternoon.

Muster parades and kit inspections were held in almost all the lines today, when a record of the work in camp was taken in order to secure their names for the pay roll.

A medical inspection was also made by Major McLaren, who found the lines in a very satisfactory condition, with few exceptions. He recommended some improvements in the sanitary state of affairs, and these will be carried out at once.

POLICE INVADE CAMP.

Some excitement was created in the camp grounds this afternoon when one of the redcoats was placed under arrest by Detective P. J. Killen and Policeman John McCollom, of the St. John police force. The officials arrived in camp shortly after noon, and, enquiring their way to the lines of the 71st Regiment, took into custody a private known as "John Pitt," but who in reality was Leonard Moore, of St. John, who escaped from the Boys' Industrial Home some months ago. Moore, it is said, has been working in a hotel in Fredericton and enlisted with the company of the 71st Regiment coming from that town. He was taken to St. John last night by the officers.

The men in camp seem to be enjoying themselves immensely and have no complaints as yet, concerning rations, as has frequently been the custom. The mess-tents were all in use this evening, and the men were enabled to eat their meal in comfort instead of, as was the case yesterday, taking their rations without a table or covering.

The sergeants of the Army Medical Corps had rather hard luck this year when opening their mess, as during the winter their tables, left on the grounds, had been burnt by tramps, it is supposed, and they were compelled to begin "housekeeping" anew.

The members of this corps in attendance at the hospital are performing some very efficient services, as they have several patients under their care to whom they are giving every possible attention. The members of the 19th Field Battery have been so unfortunate as to have furnished three patients in two days for the hospital. All three were suffering from injuries received in drill or working about the guns. The last of them was brought in on a stretcher this afternoon after having sprained his ankle in a fall from a gun-carriage.

Musketry instruction has been begun, and parades to the range will be held each day to allow the men to qualify for their efficiency pay. The sub-target guns are in frequent use, and the men find them valuable aids to aiming and good shooting.

Capt. Paul Hansen, of the 62nd Regiment, St. John, has been attached to the Princess Louise Hussars as paymaster. Major Kirkpatrick has been detailed as officer of the day for tomorrow with Lieut. Peake as O. M. P. divisional troops.

An equitation board has been appointed composed of the following officers: Lt. Col. Wedderburn, Major MacDougall and Major Arnold, of the 8th Hussars.

PINE-BREWER.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening at the George Street United Baptist Parsonage, when Miss Lois Brewer, of St. Mary's, was married to Mr. William Pine, of Marysville. Rev. A. A. Rideout performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate friends. After the wedding the happy young couple drove to the home of the bride's parents in St. Mary's, where they will make their future home.

R. L. BORDEN DEMONSTRATES UNFITNESS FOR PREMIER

Shows His Entire Want of Grasp of the Real Conditions Affecting the Trade of the Country whose Destines he Aspires to Control—Has Much Yet to Learn
Before he can Hope to Succeed Laurier.

(Toronto Globe)

The Opposition leader in the Dominion Parliament in summing up conclusions at the end of his campaign told his hearers that for the five years, 1904-1909, the balance of trade between Canada and the United States had been $452,229,939 in favor of the Republic and that in our trade with Britain the balance had been in our favor to the extent of $216,799,917. His argument in handling this record is based on the calm and innocent assumption that the greater of the two gigantic sums is a loss which the Dominion has sustained, while the other sum is a profit made on trade with Britain. Apart entirely from economic logic or an intelligent understanding of the principles of commerce, the magnitude of the amounts should be sufficient to convince him of the fallacious nature of that assumption. He does not, like some of his journalistic supporters, assume that "money" goes out of the country to "pay" the alleged "unfavorable" balance of trade. The fact that a single year's alleged "unfavorable" balance in trade across the United States boundary has been incomparably greater than all the money in the Dominion has had a restraining, if not an illuminating effect in that regard. But the equally impossible assumption of a great loss on the one hand and a greater gain on the other is made in the densest of economic ignorance. If we had not been made unfortunately familiar with the spectacle, it would be an astounding thing to see a man come forward as a political leader, asking to be entrusted with the economic direction of the Dominion's affairs, and at the same time demonstrating his complete ignorance of the simplest basic principle of the science he is presuming to apply.

If a man were to come forward and offer his services as supervisor and director of the erection of a building at the same time demonstrating and perhaps declaring and boasting of his ignorance of the sciences applied in architecture, his offer would be ridiculous. But it would be no more ridiculous than that of the man who offers his services in applying the science of political economy to the affairs of a nation when ignorant of its simplest elements. It is the bungling of such incompetent managers that leaves us with a protective system to be slowly and carefully disentangled and with other blunders to be corrected with the minimum of disturbance. The object of all commerce all manufacture, and all economic activity is the satisfaction of human desires, not the making of statistical records. For that purpose commerce is carried on, and it must always be the exchange of the goods made for the goods wanted. It must always be apart from personal blundering, profitable to both parties to every transaction. Canadians obtain goods from Americans because it is mutually profitable to do so. Canadians pay for these goods with the goods shipped to Britain—goods sold to the British because such sales and purchases are mutually profitable. The final payment is made when the British sell to the Americans. It is simply a three-cornered trade of goods. That is the basic principle of all commerce. The trade is not limited to three or to three hundred or three thousand trading areas, but the final adjustment must always be payment with goods for goods. Money is merely the term in which are estimated. The narrowing of consideration to the trade crossing a boundary between two countries shows simply a lack of understanding. The people of Canada should never again make the mistake of entrusting their fiscal affairs to men confessedly or obviously lacking in knowledge of the principles they would be called upon to apply.

GLASSY BASEBALL AT SCULLY'S GROVE

A base ball team from Edgcombe's dry goods store defeated a base ball team from Weddall's last evening at Scully's Grove, by a score of 12 to 6.

The game was very interesting and also very amusing to the small gathering of fans, and the large gathering of female clerks who occupied the grand stand and gave their silent approval to the numerous misplays of the game.

When Edgcombe's came to the bat in the last inning the score was 6 to 4 against them; and they quickly drove in the necessary three runs; but this did not satisfy them for they played long into the evening just to show their rivals how good they really were.

There were many wonderful plays made and among those worth mentioning are the base running of E. A. O'Brien, who could make Ty Cobb look cheap, if he had the wind, and the wonderful catch of O. Harris, when he gave his left hand an assist and his right hand a put out. Freddie LaForest, of the ribbon counter got the longest drive of the game, and W. Dougherty, High Chief Arranger of the Edgcombe squad, the only man to sport a bald head, showed his great sprinting abilities. W. Keenen did some great pitching and fancy fielding.

Bonehead Roberts umpired the game to the entire satisfaction of the Edgcombe squad; but they didn't drive him home in their auto.

The line up was as follows:

DRUNKEN BRAWL

er a bastard and struck him on the head with a bottle and every one appeared pretty well under its influence.

From an investigation made by Chief Rideout, he was unable to say what had caused death, unless it was a broken neck. Others think heart failure might have been the trouble, as it is thought death would not result from a blow struck by the fist. The fact that Power lived only fifteen or twenty minutes leads to the opinion that death resulted from broken neck. Thomas Connelly, who is an I. C. R. fireman, is about thirty years old, and has borne a very good character, and it is believed by friends he would not have struck Power without provocation and the sad tragedy is attributed to a drunken row, as a result of trouble over some of the girls.

Mayor Reilly has been engaged to look after Connelly's interests at the inquest, which is expected to be started late this afternoon.

Wood Beechum who lived on the McDonald farm, was employed to look after the place by the owner, F. W. Sumner.

side of the head, practically knocking him off the verandah and following up with a second blow. Connelly, they say, had nothing in his hand at the time, and they declare there had been no provocation. Another version by one present says that Mrs. Howard Rae, (nee Berry), of Moncton, was in the carriage and wanted Connelly to go home with her. Jas. Power went to Connelly, took him by the arm saying, "Tom, come home like a good fellow." Connelly, this informant says, replied with a blow and Power fell over, rising quickly.

Efforts to quiet Power were unsuccessful. Mrs. Rae, the woman who left for home with Connelly, went to the dance with her sister, Tena Berry, and had been there some time. Then Connelly and his companions arrived. Among those at the dance was Policeman David Cressman, of Moncton, who was off duty, but he had left some time before the trouble took place. In all there were about thirty or forty at the house and the guests were mostly from Moncton.

Douglas Cressman, who was doing some carpenter work on the farm for Mr. Sumner, said he was in the house at the time, but did not hear of any trouble until it was all over. He said, however, that there was a flow
