THE UNITED STATES MUST LOWER TARIFF

Canadians Can Well Afford to Mark Time on the Reciprocity Negotiations--Free Entry of Canadian Lumber, Wood-Pulp, Areas, etc., Certain to Form Part of any Tariff Bill Which Congress May Bring Down

(Toronto Globe)

The clear-cut statement of Mr. Champ Clark, the Democratic leader of the new House of Representatives that the Democrats propose to reduce the tariff gradually and scientifically to a revenue basis, is most important, not only to the citizens of the United States, but to the people of Canada. It must be remembered that Mr. Clark's remark is very much less important as indicating the probability of immediate action than would be a similar statement from the Premier of a new Canadian Government. The Democrats do not control the government of the United States. They control only the lower House of Congress. With the aid of the tariff-reform Senators who usually vote Republican they might pass a bill reducing the duties on a considerable list of articles. The insurgent Republican Senators would not be at all likely, however, to consent to the passage during the winter of 1911-12 of a tariff bill based on the revenue principle only and ignoring the protective basis of Payne-Aldrich law.

The important thing is that during the first regular session of the Congress which begins in December, 1911, the two parties, one in control of the House, the other with a nominal majority at least in the Senate, will be jockeying for position in the Presidential race of 1912, which may result in the Republicans again securing control of the House of Representatives or may extend Democratic rule to the Senate and the President's chair. Now the tariff is the great issue before the people of the United States. The high cost of living is a subject to universal complaint. It is probable, as Mr. Roosevelt said, that the changes in local conditions and the rapidly increasing number of months to feed in the United States make any material reduction in produce prices unlikely. That argument does not apply to the woollen, steel, leather, and other schedules of the tariff or to the lumber and paper duties. There the cost of things can in some measure be reduced by reductions in duties. It is almost certain that the Republicans in the Senate will not entirely reject a tariff measure sent up to that body by Democratic majority in the House. To do so would undoubtedly greatly lessen the Republican chances of success in the Presidential campaign. The Democrats, with the same event before them, would probably regard it as bad politics to reject in the House the emasculated tariff bill that would be sent back to them from the Senate. In short, both parties are interested in proving to the electorate that they are for reform of the tariff. The probability, therefore, is that the winter of 1911-12 will see quite important reductions in the United States tariff.

It is certain that Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson will consent to no serious lowering of Canadian duties in return for the free entry of Canadian lumber, ores, wood pulp, and similar things into the United States. The free entry of articles of that sort is almost certain to form part of any tariff measure which can become law in the United States during the next two years, and that without any reference to Canada's tariff. The Dominion is not going to pay for United States tariff reductions that would be made as a matter of course and without negotiation. The adjournment of the trade negotiations till January will give the public men on both sides of the border opportunity to adjust their views to the new conditions.

IT COSTS MONEY TO ELECTRIFY RAILWAYS

Boston, Nov. 13.—Reports of the engineers of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Albany, and the Boston & Maine railroad system who investigated the matter of the electrification of that portion of the three roads within the so-called Metropolitan district, which have been submitted by the railroads to the joint board of metropolitan improvements of the State of Massachusetts, have been made public and show that the work as outlined would cost in the aggregate upwards of $40,000,000.

The reports on the New Haven and Boston & Maine systems, are combined. In both reports it is agreed that to operate electric trains in the Metropolitan district would result in a large deficit in operating expenses, and Vice-President A. H. Smith, speaking for the New York Central road, of which the Boston & Albany is a part, declared that in view of this the railroads should be given authority to assess all passengers and traffic using the facilities with a terminal charge sufficient to bear the financial burdens imposed with some additional profits to the operating company for performing the service and assuming the additional responsibilities and liabilities.

The Boston & Maine and New Haven roads would be required to electrify 461.62 miles of track and the Boston & Albany 128.38 miles. The estimates of the cost as given in the reports include the cost of power houses, equipment, changes in track and terminal arrangements and other expenses as well as the actual expense of the installation of the electric system.

In September the export of spruce lumber from St. John, N. B., trans-Atlantic ports was sixteen million five hundred thousand feet, compared with a little over seven million feet in September last year.

The appointment of Hon. James D. McGregor, New Glasgow, to the lieutenant-governorship of Nova Scotia, have pleased many who have made the acquaintance of a quiet and unassuming and an able man.

BAD FIRE AT MILFORD EARLY THIS MORNING

St. John, Nov. 14.—Between 2 and 3 o'clock fire, which started in Milford, destroyed three houses. At 3.15 word came that the fourth house had caught and many more were threatened. The fire brigade from Fairville which had been sent for hurried to the scene.

The flames however, had gained considerable headway before they arrived, in spite of the efforts of the people of Milford who at once formed a bucket brigade. It was snowing hard at the time with a light wind from the north.

Two of the houses that were burned belonged to William Walsh, and a third to Mrs. Alice Waring.

A telephone message was received to the effect that the families had succeeded in removing their furniture. The glare from the flames was distinctly visible from the city and was the cause of considerable speculation on the part of those who witnessed it.

It was stated that the fire had started on the outside of one of the houses owned by Mr. Walsh.

The night watchman at Cushing's mill telephoned to the Telegraph at 3.45 a. m. to say that the Fairville fire department had reached the scene and were doing good work. They had made connection with the dam for a supply of water. One of the houses owned by Walsh was a four tenement house, while the other was one in which the family lived. No one was living in the tenement. Mrs. Waring's house was also a four tenement building. There were two families, those of John Boyd and Mr. Keirstead in this house. These people, of course, were burned out.

The house of Thomas Snodgrass was seriously threatened by the flames at 4 o'clock and the firemen were making strenuous efforts to save it. Other houses threatened were C. Irvine's and Richard Stewart's. It was thought however, that the firemen could prevent the flames from spreading to either of these.

BEEF TRUST SHY OF JUDGE LANDIS

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, of the United States District Court, author of the famous $29,000,000 fine against the Standard Oil Company, is not desired by indicted members of the so-called beef trust to preside over their trial on a charge of conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Judge Landis was hearing some minor case today when a quartette of counsel for the packers entered the court room and demanded a change of venue on the grounds that he is disqualified from sitting in the case by reason of having acted in the role of special prosecutor or at least investigator of a similar charge against the same defendants fifteen years ago.

"File your petition with the clerk of this court and I will hear arguments next Wednesday," remarked the court.

When seen later Judge Landis said he had no comment to make on the application. The petition declares that fifteen years ago charges were made in the newspapers, in public speeches and in congress that certain Chicago packers were in a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law to control the price of live stock and the price of meat.

Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio, then attorney general of the United States, appointed Mr. Landis a special attorney to investigate the charges and to take them before a grand jury, if found advisable.

Mr. Landis spent the better part of a year at the work. Eventually a grand jury indicted the late Gustavus Swift, founder of Swift & Co., and other persons, to the jurors unknown, charging violation of section 1 and 2 of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The alleged beef trust of 1895 and the one of 1910 are identical, it is said and the charges are the same, the petition sets up. Therefore it is asserted the prosecutor of the one case is not qualified to sit as the judge in the other.

DON CARLO IN WILL CLAIMS SPANISH THRONE

Vienna, Nov. 14.—Significance is attached to the publication of the text of the will of the late Don Carlo, the Spanish Pretender, in which he exhorts Don Jaime as a sacred duty to maintain his claims to the Spanish throne and uphold the legitimist principles. It is supposed that Don Jaime considers the present a favorable time for the publication.

Mr. H. J. McGrath, of Dorchester, inspector of mahony on the I. C. R., spent Sunday in the city, the guest of his son, Dr. R. H. McGrath, King Street.
