UNCLE SAM AUCTIONS
OFF SMUGGLED CLOTHING

Quite Lively Scenes Ensur when Various Articles of Female Attire are Put up for Sale--Women Engage in Bitter Rivalry to Become Possessors of Smart Frocks and Other Etceteras.

New York, June 16—"I envy Adam," said United States Marshal William Henkel yesterday at the Custom House sale of seized Parisian gowns, as he wiped his brow after two exciting hours. "The only reason they did not have a riot in the Garden of Eden when they received that first consignment of smuggled fig leaves, a la princess with grapevine embroidery and gimpes of spider web, from the Land of Nod, was that Eve didn't have any other woman to scrap with."

He had just sold for $1,950.50 French dresses and things valued at $5,000, and had averted a riot by the sheer force of his frown. Charles Shongood, official auctioneer, and Col. J. H. Storey, expert on lingerie, assisted Henkel. So did a squad of handsome customs inspectors.

Some one had accused Henkel of not being a ladies' man, but before he got through selling silk night robes, Empire gowns and gauze scarfs for a sixth of their value to women who bid against each other with all the ardor of disputants at a Union Square suffragette meeting, he was credited with being the dearest man in New York.

He seemed to have all the dexterity of a practiced women's tailor as he seized a princess dress and coat of gray pongee, braided and embroidered and shook it out before the admiring gaze. Instantly ten women hopped up and cried:

"Ten! Eleven! Fifteen!"

"That dress is worth $68, Mr. Marshal," whispered Col. Storey. The Marshal gave him a look of pity. Then with his most fascinating smile, he turned to the audience and cried:

"Two hundred and sixty-eight dollars, and we are throwing it away! You couldn't buy the sleeves—"

"Twenty dollars!" cried a woman in the rear.

"What for? The buttons? They go with the dress. Ladies, this wonderful creation was made by—" looking at the tag—"Francis—er—yes, by Francis. Why, he made all the court dresses for—"

"Thirty!"

"Thirty, I am offered," said the auctioneer, determined that he wouldn't let "Billy" Henkel say everything.

"Where are you, Little Johnny Dugan?" resumed the Marshal. "Why are you letting this treasure get past?"

He looked reproachfully down the room and up rose a little woman with sparkling black eyes. She was Mrs. Lizzie Dugan, who keeps a sample shop and has attended the sales so long that she had come to be known as "Dugan, J." to the clerks. "Little Johnny Dugan" bid $32. Other women spitefully ran it up to $45. "Forty-six!" came a voice.

"Sold! What name?" cried the auctioneer.

"Allen," was the answer.

"Bud Allen," chirped Henkel, as he seized another garment. "All the Allens I ever knew who had the nerve to bid like that was named 'Bud.' It must be 'Bud' Allen."

broodered. "He held it high and look-yoke, with long arms, No. 125 on the list, 'one guimpe, Brussels net, embroidered.' He held it high and look-yoke through. He didn't seem to be sure what it was with its long arms. 'This is a—' he began, and pausing, stammered and looked at the Marshal inquiringly.

"Why it's a—why don't you tell me what it is?" demanded Henkel in a harsh whisper.

The auctioneer looked hastily at the list and resumed.

"This is one of those—oh, yes, it is a guimpe," (triumphantly to great applause, "and how much am I offered."

"One dollar," cried two women at once.

"Sold!" said the Marshal, as if glad to get it off his hands. It was passed to one of the women and her money was taken. The other wildly waved her dollar, crying,

"That's mine! I bid first! Give it to me!"

"Order, ladies! This isn't the Jeffries fight," called the auctioneer.

The auctioneer came, by and by, to lot No. 169, described as "one chemise, Fch, hand embd., med. size." He said briskly: "Here, ladies, is a short princess—a shimie." (Titters from the front seats.) "A chi-mae!" he corrected. (More titters) "A shay-mese," triumphantly, shaking it out. It went to a Mrs. Seymour for $1.

TONIC TREATMENT FOR INDIGESTION

The Process of Digestion is Controlled by the Blood and Nerves.

If you have indigestion and you begin a course of treatment to make your stomach stronger, you are on the right track for a real cure. You can never cure yourself by eating pre-digested foods, or by taking purgative medicines. The stomach is not doing its own work under these treatments, and there can be no real cure until the stomach is strong enough to digest all the food necessary to maintain the body in normal health. The great aim of the tonic treatment for indigestion in all forms is to strengthen the stomach to a point where all foods eaten will digest easily and nourish the body.

A tonic that will strengthen the stomach is what is needed, as the process of digestion is controlled by the blood and nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic. They actually make new, rich blood, and thus bring strength and tone to the stomach. This has been proved over and over again, and thousands of grateful people have not hesitated to say so. Here is an instance:—Miss Eva Tocher, Balmoral, Man., says:—

"I am writing this letter on behalf of my mother who wishes you to know how much Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her. For several years she had been greatly troubled with indigestion and notwithstanding the medicine she was taking the trouble was growing worse. Every meal was dreaded, and left behind it a feeling of nausea and severe pains. As this continued she began to lose strength and energy, and was hardly able to do any housework. Acting on the advice of a friend she began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon began to feel better. She continued taking the Pills until she had used ten boxes, when her health was fully restored and she could take any kind of food without the least discomfort. Since that time she has not had the slightest return of the trouble."

Thousands of cured men and women speak from experience of the benefits derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism, general weakness, pains in the back and side, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, and the troubles that afflict women and growing girls. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cts. a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Why it's a—why don't you tell me what it is?" demanded Henkel in a harsh whisper.

The auctioneer looked hastily at the list and resumed.

"This is one of those—oh, yes, it is a guimpe," (triumphantly to great applause, "and how much am I offered."

"One dollar," cried two women at once.

"Sold!" said the Marshal, as if glad to get it off his hands. It was passed to one of the women and her money was taken. The other wildly waved her dollar, crying,

"That's mine! I bid first! Give it to me!"

"Order, ladies! This isn't the Jeffries fight," called the auctioneer.

MORE AMERICAN'S FOR RIVER FISHING

(Newcastle Leader)

Following closely the advance parties of Americans, mentioned in our recent issue, another large number arrived in Newcastle on Saturday evening last and registered at the Miramichi Hotel. They left early in the week for the fishing on the Miramichi afforded at Camp Adams.

Those in the party included C. M. Whitman, H. B. McCothen, E. S. Twining, H. B. Dominick, George C. Riggs, Charles Simonds, all prominent sportsmen from New York.

Apparently the Americans are receiving their usual good luck at the fishing grounds. Reports received at the Miramichi Hotel indicate that not a few large catches have been made.

Monday witnessed the arrival of still another party at the Miramichi Hotel. The members of the party included:—Messrs T. W. Wedderman, S. Griggs, Paterson, New Jersey R. B. Till, New York, M. H. Le Vasseur, Belledune. The party chartered a special trip of the Dorothy N., leaving Newcastle about 10 a.m. on Monday for Redbank. A still larger influx of Americans is being awaited.
