Give your servants GOLD
DUST to clean with, treat them rightly and you will have few occasions to insert a "help wanted" ad

They say a good workman is known by his tools. You cannot expect your maid to keep everything ship-shape unless you give her every modern help. To keep house without GOLD DUST is to do work by hard, old-fashioned methods. For cleaning everything and anything about the house—from cellar to attic—GOLD DUST is worth its weight in gold. It cuts grease and dirt like magic, does away with scouring and scrubbing, and saves time and tempers.

Your servant can do more and better work and keep sweet with the aid of GOLD DUST in all household cleaning.

YOUTH PAYS PENALTY FOR DASTARDLY CRIME

Peterboro, Ont., June 23.—Robert Henderson, a mere youth, who came to this district from Toronto six months ago, though not long out from England, today died on the gallows for the murder of Margaret MacPherson, an aged spinster, who lived on the road near Norwood, and who had befriended him.

The crime of which Henderson was convicted was most wanton and, naturally, raised doubts as to his sanity. He had asked Miss MacPherson, who lived alone with her unmarried sister, also well up in years, for something to eat. They provided him with a meal, and then he asked them how much he would have to pay. The sum of ten cents was suggested, which he paid, and left the house. Returning a few minutes later he seized an axe leaning against the house and entering struck down both women. Miss Margaret died from the blow some weeks later.

A camera man got a picture of Hangman Ellis, and there was an exciting chase after the execution, Ellis catching the photographer and taking the film away.

AMERICANS TO STUDY CONDITIONS ABROAD

New York, June 22.—The National Assembly of Manufacturers is going to send a Commission abroad to study conditions surrounding the prevention of accidents, and industrial indemnity insurance. This has been decided at a meeting of the executive committee of the Association held in New York.

The Commission, which will sail on July 14th, is composed of Fred. C. Schwedman, chairman of the Association's Committee on Industry and Insurance, and Jas. A. Merry, General Counsel of the National Council for Industrial Defence. Their investigation will extend over three or four months, and the itinerary will include the important manufacturing centres of Germany, Austria, France, England, Switzerland, Italy and Norway.

The Commission has divided the subjects into four parts, and will use conditions from the humanitarian, legal, economic and indemnity insurance sides.

TWO MURDERERS PAID PENALTY TODAY

Norristown, Pa., June 23.—Nick Marings and Frank Chicarine, were hanged here today on the same gallows for the murder in August 1909 of George Johnson, an aged cobbler whom they attacked for money he was supposed to have hidden in his shanty.

John Balon, who was also to have been hanged today for participation in the crime was granted a reprieve by Governor Stuart, until October, in order that his case may be passed upon by the state supreme court.

A messenger carrying the reprieve arrived at the county jail here from Harrisburg at one o'clock this morning.

IT IS quite a strain on the eyes to watch the Johnson-Jeffries programme at San Francisco and the Roosevelt reception at New York.

$100,000,000 BUDGET SHOWS
PROSPERITY OF THE COUNTRY

Where Finance Ministers Under Tory Rule were Forever Bothered How to Make Ends Meet; Mr Fielding Has Millions to Spare After Meeting all His Ordinary Bills.

The announcement that the revenue of the country exceeded a hundred millions last year has been received by most Canadians with gratification. It is taken as a sign that growth is continuous and healthy. There are those, indeed, who cannot refrain from taking a little dig at Sir Richard Cartwright about it, and who say that if it was monstrous (Sir Richard never liked mild adjectives) to take thirty-five millions from the people a few years ago it must by desperate business to take three times as much now. It looks like the rule of three, and if Sir Richard were about on his pins as he used to be, he would probably find something to say that would warm the left ears of his critics. Part of his plant and a very essential part used to be that while the taxation was going up the country was going back, whereas now, judging by all the simple and annoying tests he used to love to apply, the country is going ahead and going fast. Sir Richard used to scornfully inform his jeering critics that the state of the population was an absolute test of a country's well-being; and especially so in a new country; well, population is increasing so fast it is all we can do to keep track of it; so fast that no one can ever quite remember how many members the country west of Lake Superior is entitled to; so fast, that in the old provinces of Canada there is genuine concern about being able to retain the primacy. Where we in Canada used to have the exodus to the State for breakfast, dinner and supper, now it is a "Why go to Canada?" movement that fills the sleeping and waking thoughts of people in the Western States. And all that must impress even the mathematical mind with the idea that there may be something in the problem outside the rule of three. Moreover, there is a direct and profoundly interesting application of the philosophy of the late Mr. Wilkins' Micawber. The Canadian Pacific Railway was built when Canada had a revenue so small that it was almost eaten up in interest charges and fixed and unavoidable expenses. The statesmen of that day were forever bothered how to make a pound of income cover an outgo of twenty-one shillings. In this last year Mr. Fielding, after meeting all his ordinary bills, had twenty millions left over to spend on helping but the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway. Standing for standing the men who launched the C. P. R. and saw it through were desperate adventurers beside the men who, with an overflowing treasury, are building the new road. Twenty years ago the country saw itself described with absolute accuracy by a man who said we wanted "men, women and markets." Today, we are getting all three in measure undreamed of then. That is what explains the hundred million budget, and the explanation is good enough to satisfy most Canadians.—Montreal Herald.

MR. BORDEN'S ATTITUDE OF VACILLATION ON THE NAVAL QUESTION

Mr. Borden talked around the naval question at Toronto, but declined to come to the main point. Why did he, in October, advocate the policy of the immediate construction of a Canadian navy, and in January, oppose it? Why did he, in October oppose the policy of a money contribution to Great Britain, and, in January, advocate it? Mr. Borden's inconsistency was so glaring that he has been obliged to venture an explanation. In his speech on Wednesday he pleaded that a money contribution was made imperative by an "imminent emergency." This excuse is worse than none at all. It is utterly demolished by the facts. The German panic, was at its height when in March, 1909, Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster supported the resolution for the establishment of a Canadian navy which was unanimously adopted by the House of Commons. The panic had subsided when, nearly a year later, they repudiated themselves. In the meantime the overwhelming superiority of the British navy had been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the British nation. The panic-mongers had been put to rout. The German bogey had disappeared. But in the meantime also a clique in this country, led by Messrs. Roblin and Rogers, imagined that some party capital could be made out of the issue, which Mr. Borden had pledged himself to place above party strife. It was to these evil influences that Mr. Borden yielded. This was "the imminent emergency" which changed his mind. What do we see today? Mr. Borden denouncing the Government for establishing a naval service "without consulting the country. His leading Ontario newspaper supporter, the Toronto News, denouncing the Government because it is not spending more money upon the Canadian navy. His Quebec supporters denouncing the Government for spending any money at all upon Imperial defence.—London Advertiser.

COMBINE FORMED IN COD FISHING INDUSTRY

Seattle June 23.—The post-intelligence today says: A deal which aims at the unification of all the cod fishing in the Pacific coast is now in progress and nearly completed, backed by San Francisco and Boston capital. On Puget Sound five companies have been engaged in cod fishing in the Behring Sea and the industry has grown from two schooners half a dozen years ago to a locally controlled fleet numbering over a dozen vessels.

PROMINENT BREWER SAYS PROHIBITION IS BREEDER OF HYPOCRISY

New York, June 22.—In the opinion of Adolphus Busch, the millionaire brewer of St. Louis, who sailed for Europe on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie yesterday, the greatest danger that American has to face is prohibition.

"Prohibition," declared the brewer, "is the meanest thing in the world. If it is given full play it will ruin the whole country. It is a breeder of hypocrisy, but its greatest danger lies in the fact that it destroys moderation, and moderation is what we should all strive for."

"The safeguard of this country is moderation, in eating and drinking, in all forms of life—even in making money. The philosophy of moderation is the secret of human happiness and correct government. What we need is high license and the regulation of saloons. That is the only way to stop the mouths of prohibitionists and head them in their course."

Mr. Busch denied the report that he had been seriously ill. He had been a little run down, he said, but had spent a few weeks in Cooperstown and now felt like a boy. With Mrs. Busch and their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Faust, and the latter's two sons, Lester and Audrey, he is going to his estate in Landschwalbach, Germany, where he owns twenty-five thousand acres, including eight villages and a fine forest preserve stocked with game.

Another passenger on the liner was Herman A. Metz, former City Comptroller, who has gone abroad for a vacation.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGE AT QUEBEC YESTERDAY

Montreal, June 22.—The marriage of Miss Eileen O'Meara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. O'Meara, of Quebec to Mr. Gerald W. Farrell of Montreal son of the late Hon. Dr. Farrell, of Halifax, N.S., was solemnized at eleven o'clock this morning in St. Patrick's Church, Quebec. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Hanley, and the music was furnished by a special choir, with solo, singing by Miss Giguere. The altars and sanctuary were beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns. The bride who was given away by her father, was attired in a lovely gown of white liberty sat, in made with a Dutch neck and small chiffon yoke, with a tunic overdress of white chiffon edged with real Irish lace, caught at the back with a knot of orange blossoms. Her tulle veil was held by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Mrs. G. W. Cook, of Montreal sister of the bride, was the matron of honor, and wore a dress of pale blue linen, hand-embroidered in blue, made with a is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

Boils, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and not heat the room. No heat, no smell, no smoke, no coal to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke; and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Dutch yoke and underskirt of white lace. Her hat was of pale blue tulle, with long blue willow plume. The bridesmaids were Miss Betty McLennan (Montreal) Miss Helen Porteous; Miss Lisa Baumgarten (Montreal), Miss Jessie Hamilton, and her little nieces, the Misses Marion, Dorothy, Audrey and Sara Cook. They wore dresses of Swiss muslin with underskirts and fichus of Valenciennes lace the overskirts being finished with blue ribbon and bells of the same. Their hats were of blue net, edged with black velvet and trimmed with choux of net and one pale pink hydrangea. The younger bridesmaids wore dresses of muslin, with lace and hand-embroidery and blue sashes and Dutch bonnets. Dr. Farrell of Halifax was best man. The ushers were Mr. Robert Farrell, Mr. Bartlett McLennan, Dr. W. Turner, Mr. G. F. Sise, Mr. Reginald Gault (Montreal); Captain, Newton, Mr. Gordon Lewis, and Master Herbert Cook. The guests included many from Montreal, Morrisburg, and Hamilton. After the ceremony, there was a recherche breakfast at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Farrell left in the afternoon for Montreal en route to New York, whence they sail for Europe spending a portion of the honeymoon in a motoring tour in France. The presents were extremely beautiful and very numerous. (The bridegroom at one time took a course at the military school in this city and is well known here)
