WHO WILL BE THE SIX HAPPY WINNERS

In the Mail's Great Educational Tour Contest?—Time and Hard Work alone can Answer this Question—Heavy Vote was Polled Saturday—New Nominations Invited in District No. 2

The question that is agitating the minds of the young ladies of the two counties with ever increasing force is "who will comprise the party of six to visit Boston, New York Washington and the beautiful Bermuda Isles."

"Who will be in the party of six that will go aboard the steamer filled with delight at the prospect of visiting the many places of historic and scenic interest."

The hour previous to the sailing of an ocean liner, is in ocean parlance, called, "the farewell hour." This is when one realizes the seriousness of parting, though one cannot long be serious while watching the hundreds of happy people boarding the ship. It is seemingly an endless procession.

At last, with a "Let 'er go clear," the gang-planks are swung ashore and slowly the gigantic ship glides away. Hundreds of people on the pier shout farewells and about as many figs are waved. Smaller craft accompany the liner, the people aboard waving and cheering. The last sight of those on board will be of some more hardy than the rest who has climbed to a vantage point above the crowd, frantically waving his hat and throwing messages of farewell to certain ones of the passengers who crowd the railing for a glimpse of his last fading form.

Poetry and romance have woven about the sea an indelible charm far more alluring and entrancing than that which lends itself to the glories of the mountains, valleys or lakes, for, through many centuries in tuneless song and thrilling story, a host of writers have made immortal the billows, and the breezes of the briny deep. The prestige of the sea, which has increased by leaps and bounds, must necessarily rest upon a basis of real merit, and every one who has tasted the delights of a voyage on a modern ocean liner will readily aver that no other travel experienced in life can be so pleasurable.

Each Atlantic voyage, no matter how often one may cross the "pond," becomes in fact, a voyage of discovery to almost as great a degree as that of the intrepid Columbus, when he sailed so proudly past the Pillar of Hercules. New sights, new customs, new wonders, are ever in store, the change of scene is so complete, as each day unfolds, that when one returns home the memory of so pleasurable a voyage, with the added vigor of body and mind, are by no means the smallest recompense of the entire trip, while sunshine, balmy breezes and sparkling seas linger long in the memory of the tourist.

Indeed, to those who seek recreation in its best and truest form, a Bermuda-Atlantic voyage will unhesitatingly commend itself. The absolute rest, the freedom of care, the outdoor salt air life and the luxurious comforts, not always to be found on shore, cannot fail to make a strong appeal to every one.

Scarcely anything else brings so vividly to our minds the wonderful development and accomplishments of man's ingenuity as a modern ocean greyhound, which the demands of modern travel have been met in every particular. From keel to bridge and from stern to stern these ships are in every line models of modern architecture. Structurally they are as staunch and as safe as iron and steel can make them, and as to comfort, they are the embodiment of all the luxuries of the decorator's and furnisher's arts. At the same time they are supplied with ponderous engines which develop sufficient energy to bring them to their destination with almost as great regularity as that of express trains on shore. Furthermore, nothing has been sacrificed in the way of safety to speedy travel by water nowadays, which is in reality, far safer than travel by land.

Ladies find rest and quiet in the drawing room, which is softly cushioned with divans. This room is provided with an excellent piano and other musical instruments. Windows at the forward end command a fine view of the deck, where one may watch the progress of the ship.

As land is sighted the sea gulls begin to make their appearance, and soon hundreds of them will be flying in the wake of the steamer, presenting a pretty sight against the sky.

Notwithstanding all the pleasures of ship life, it is with a thrill of pleasure that one catches the first sight of land, after being between heaven and the water so many days.

Then come the hustle and bustle and excitement preparatory to landing. All the passengers are on deck in full force, everybody hilariously happy. The gang plank is slipped in place and with a jaunty tread all step down to the pier, glad to be again on terra firma.

At last they are in Bermuda and about to begin that dreamed-of tour of these beautiful islands. As guests of The Mail they have no care. Our tourists know that now they are to see things they have read about—famous places they perhaps had put aside hopes of ever viewing. But there they are at last. The fortunate six young women with untrammelled joy, without a money worry, in pleasant company, realizing the greatest treat that they have ever imagined in their whole life.

THE GREAT BETRAYAL

The Publication of Lord Beresford's Book has been Postponed

Believed that he has been Compelled to Modify his Criticism of the Navy

(Canadian Press.)

London, Nov. 6.—It is announced that the publication of Lord Charles Beresford's book "The Great Betrayal" which was to have appeared today has been postponed. Commenting on this the Express says: "It is understood that while Lord Charles remains unalterable in his criticism of past naval administrations and continues to lament the loss of late opportunities, he has been compelled to modify the force of that portion of his book dealing with the immediate future. The simple reason is that his opinions tally with Mr. Churchill's having learned in private the new first Lord's theories of course he realizes the difficulty making public the objections, which are really officially acknowledged and he is ready to spoil a good book, rather than risk danger to the great navy he loves. Whether the book will appear or not this week, is doubtful, but if it does, it will appear shorn of anything which will hamper the good intentions of the admiralty now. A notice was sent to all newspapers today that the book had been cancelled with a request not to review it. One sensational rumor afloat is that if the book had been published the government would have taken steps to have Lord Charles' name removed from the retired list of the navy. Little credence is given to this rumor. Lord Charles in asking editors to refrain from reviewing his book says: "Since the receipt of an advance copy of my book I find most important corrections are necessary."

NEW ONTARIO LEADER MAY SIT FOR OXFORD

(Canadian Press.)

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 7.—It is likely that N. W. Rowell, the new Liberal leader, will find a safe seat in North Oxford, where Dr. MacKay, the present member, is said to be willing to drop out of politics. His majority in 1908 was 432.

J. C. Elliott, M.P.P. for West Middlesex, and Valentine Stock, M.P.P. for South Perth, were approached with the suggestion that one of them should give way to the new leader, but both declined.

ROW AT ST. MARY'S INDIAN RESERVE SATURDAY NIGHT

There was a disturbance on the Indian Reserve at St. Mary's Saturday night which proved to be too much for Sol Brooks the Indian Policeman to cope with and he sought help from the city police but failed to get it, the local officers of the law declining to go outside the city limits unless ordered so to do by some one higher in authority. Chief Hawthorn said he had no authority to send men to St. Mary's to quell a disturbance. On Halloween a similar call came to the city police from Gibson where a well known young man from St. Mary's was creating a disturbance. On that occasion also the city police refused to go outside the city on the ground that they had instructions not to do so.

Saturday night's row on the reserve arose out of an attempt on the part of the Indian Policeman to arrest James Nash a half-breed who lives off the reserve, Nash's two brothers interfered and took him away from the policeman. Some friends of the latter tried to help him and a lively row ensued which was only stopped by the report being circulated that police were on their way from Fredericton.

Sol Brooks the Indian Policeman it is said, attempted to get men from the Military Depot to quell the disturbance but was told that he would have to have an order from the civil authorities.

HEAD OF THE STEEL TRUST

ORANGEMEN DEFEATED LATE GOVT.

(Canadian Press.)

Toronto, Nov. 6.—At an Orange banquet Saturday night, Controller Hocken of Toronto, in proposing a toast, declared that the influence of the order has been felt throughout the Dominion during the recent elections, and that it was largely due to the efforts of the brethren that the late government had been defeated.

R. W. Fred Dans, D.G.M., of Ontario West, referring to the Eucharistic Conference in Montreal, declared that it had done more to advance the Orange cause than they could have done themselves in fifty years. He regretted that the government had not ordered every regiment in Quebec to take part in the ceremony.

Dr. Thornton, in proposing the toast of Canada, advocated the purchase of large tracts of land in Northern Ontario, to start Orange settlements.

AN EXCITING CHASE IN REGENT STREET YARD

A stout lady, a bull dog and a pet cat were the chief actors in a rather interesting performance which was staged in a back yard on Regent Street a few days ago. The dog, entering the yard on a foraging expedition, spied the cat and promptly gave chase. The cat ran into the woodshed but failing to find a hiding place, turned around and ran out again with the dog in hot pursuit. After making a few turns about the yard the cat scaled a high board fence and the dog did likewise, clearing it at a single bound.

Once over the fence the cat sought a convenient tree and clambered up it like a grey streak. Disappointed in his efforts to capture the feline, the dog returned to the yard where the race started and was somewhat astonished to find the owner of the cat, armed with a broom-stick, laying in wait for him. He bolted into the woodshed and out again and after looking around helplessly he mustered all his energy for a bold dash for the street. The stout lady anticipated this move and, raising the broom she prepared to crush the dog with a single blow. She swung the broom as the dog flew past her, but instead of hitting him, it brought up heavily against a clothes-line which she had failed to notice, and the canine escaped unscathed. Several parties who witnessed the proceedings from adjacent windows think that if it had not been for the clothes-line the dog would have fared badly.

KEEN INTEREST IN ELECTIONS

Politicians Anxiously Awaiting Result of Tomorrow's Vote in U.S.

May have Important Bearing on Presidential Election to be Held in the Fall of 1912

(Canadian Press.)

Washington, D.C., Nov. 6.—Leaders of national politics are looking ahead with acute interest to the state elections tomorrow because of their possible bearing on the presidential campaign of next year. Contests will afford the first opportunity for a formal popular expression since the bringing together of the first Democratic national representative House in sixteen years, and the continent spanning speech-making trip of President Taft. In Massachusetts Governor Foss, formerly a representative here, has led the Democratic forces. In New Jersey, the election is held in the home state of a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, Woodrow Wilson. In New York the issues are local, but the state is one always closely scanned by political observers. In Kentucky Representative Ollie James, one of the bulwarks of his party in Congress, is a candidate for United States senator, and Wm. J. Bryan and Speaker Champ Clark have campaigned for him. Vice-President Sherman has taken an active part in the Republican fight in New Jersey, while Speaker Clark has done some vigorous campaigning in Nebraska and Tennessee, as well as in Kentucky.

TURKISH POSITION IMPROVING

London, Nov. 6.—An American diplomat who has just arrived here from Constantinople confirms the report of a recent improvement in the Turkish position at Tripoli due to the arrival there of a large number of Turkish best army officers. They reached the front by passing through Egypt.

Malta, Nov. 8.—Steamer passengers who have just arrived from Tripoli describe the situation there as a reign of terror. Strong military patrols are continually conducting rigorous house to house searches, and on the smallest pretense summary punishment is meted out. Many victims have been shot in their own houses. Foreigners have taken refuge in their respective consulates. An order forbidding any one to be out before six o'clock in the morning, or after six o'clock in the evening has been strictly enforced, shooting down men, women or children who disobey the order.

Constantinople, Nov. 6.—An agitation is on foot to overthrow the war minister Schekef Pasha as a scape-goat for the loss of Tripoli. Schekef has just been summoned to appear before the chamber of deputies to answer the charge of having ordered the arrest of deputy Loufi Fekri an editor who in defiance of a court martial order of suspension continues to issue his journal and criticize the government and all parties.

TORONTO INDEPENDENTS SELECT CANDIDATES

Toronto, Nov. 6.—The independent labor party held another meeting yesterday to choose candidates for the approaching provincial elections. They succeeded in getting two more candidates and have now five in the field. James Richards and W. Stevenson, in North Toronto, James Stevenson and D. Bullock in East Toronto and W. R. James in South Toronto. Five men were nominated for West Toronto but each declined to run.

GOOD ORDER MAINTAINED IN SHANGHAI AND VICINITY

Head of the new Administration is Completing his Organization--Sentiment in the South Strongly Favors the Unconditional Abdication of the Emperor and the Establishment of a Republic--Subscriptions Pour in for Revolutionary Cause

Shanghai, Nov. 6.—Three Chinese gunboats forming a part of Admiral Sah Chen Ping's fleet which put in here yesterday for provisions went over to the rebels this morning. The Chinese telegraph operators here went on strike today. The cables have not been molested. Foreign marines are guarding the cable huts.

Shanghai, Nov. 6.—It is believed that Admiral Sah is in hiding in this city. Ching Kiang, in the province of Kiang Su fell at three o'clock this afternoon. All is quiet there. Ching Kiang is thirty five miles east by north of Nan King on the Yang Tse Kian at the junction of the Grand Canal. It is a treaty port second in importance only to Shanghai. The population is about 150,000. Hang Chow capital of the province of the Kiang, was taken by the rebels yesterday after a brief but spirited resistance.

Shanghai, Nov. 5.—The first night after the capitulation of the city to the revolutionaries passed uneventfully. Perfect order was maintained in Shanghai and the outlying districts which constitutes a remarkable feature of the movement.

Li Ping Shu is the responsible head of the new administration in the native city and suburbs, and is now engaged in completing his organization. He informed the corporation that he recognized only the "Republic of Han," and would guarantee order.

The only disorderly elements, he said, now in China, are the former officials, their supporters and the Manchu troops, who would never again be permitted to control.

There is reason to believe that the revolutionary sentiment throughout the south strongly favors the unconditional abdication of the emperor and the establishment of an entirely new regime. Yuan Shi Kai will be repudiated if he adhered to the Manchus. He might become the head of the government and receive universal support if he separated himself from his former allegiance. There is however, a growing suspicion and distrust of Yuan Shi Kai.

PLAN A REPUBLIC

The present plans for a republic include complete control of the Yang Tse Kiang, Admiral Sah is now crippled and cut off from his base. The revolutionary leaders are determined to avoid bloodshed and secure the peaceful capitulation of the Manchu troops in the avrious southern towns.

Huang Sing, the revolutionary leader in the Yang Tse Della, arrived in the native city of Shanghai by motor boat today. He was engaged with other chiefs in a conference.

Last night the rebels succeeded in satisfying the officials of Nanking Shanghai Railway that they were capable of preserving order and the foreign guard which had been placed at the railway station by order of the British consul was withdrawn the revolutionists taking possession. The whole surroundings of Shanghai including Wu Sung are now in rebel hands.

The serving out of arms continued today but applicants were so numerous that the leaders were forced to make careful discrimination! They are also endeavoring to recover 5000 rifles which were seized by the crowds yesterday when the arsenal was captured

GUNBOATS TRAPPED

Three loyalist gunboats and one transport, part of Admiral Sah's fleet put into Shanghai today for provisions and ammunition ignorant of the fact that the arsenal had changed hands. They are now in the river loyal for the time being but the officers of the warships are nervous!

Subscriptions are pouring in for the revolutionary cause, the Chinese chamber of commerce donating seven thousand dollars. A Chinese lady in contributing $500 wrote: "This is the only way I can help the cause on which my heart is set."

The revolutionists maintain that no concessions on the part of the throne will avail while the Manchus remain in power. A meeting of the Kiang Su, Chinese Kiang and Fukien Gentry today stigmatized the national assembly as not representing the country.

Revolutionary proclamations abolish the lankin and land taxes and maritime customs being only retained the government and receive universal support if he separated himself from his former allegiance. There is however, a growing suspicion and distrust of Yuan Shi Kai.

Hanchow, capital of the province of Che Kiang was captured today. The governor being made prisoner, but the Tartar city held out against the rebels for a time. The fighting was furious, but did not last long.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—The German cruiser Onseisau was today ordered to Shanghai. The gunboat Tiger will replace the Onseisau at Nan King and will maintain wireless communication between Hankow and the German protectorate Kiao Chau in Shang Tung.
